Trailblazing Trio:

Niceville Graduates Make History

By Doug Stauffer

For the first time in its 80year history, the United States Merchant Marine Academy (USMMA) at Kings Point, N.Y., will witness an extraordinary accomplishment: three students from Niceville High School's Class of 2019 will graduate together. Christopher Loffer, Gavin Wilson and Samuel Scholl will make history on June 17, 2023, as they receive their diplomas from the prestigious institution known as one of the five federal service academies.

Nestled on the stunning former estate of Walt Chrysler on Long Island, N.Y., Kings Point boasts a small student body of under 1,000 and produces approximately 210-230 midshipmen each year. Congressman Matt Gaetz nominated all three midshipmen.

Congressman Matt Gaetz conveyed his deep admiration and pride for the trailblazing trio's extraordinary achievement. He enthusiastically stated, "I couldn't be more proud of Midshipmen Loffer, Wilson and Scholl's accomplishments these past four years as they have successfully navigated one of our Nation's most esteemed Maritime Academies. As a Niceville Eagle myself, I am proud to have been able to nominate them to the United States Merchant Marine Academy. They have certainly demonstrated all that Niceville High School offers and what Northwest Florida represents. I wish them the best of luck as they go underway in their careers and in service to this nation."

Kings Point is renowned for its unparalleled educational and training approach, which sets it apart from other federal service academies. Midshipmen undergo a rigorous program, spending one of their four years at sea aboard ocean-going vessels, gaining invaluable hands-on experi-

22 students, the founders, Pastor Harold Thomas and his wife, Joyce, with Bob and Katherine Grete, set out to create a school that would provide an education that included the Bible, focusing on the Creator of all things.

The journey was not without challenges, as it was controversial to mix education with the Bible and considered by many people unnecessary in a county with an excellent public school system. However, the founders were relentless in their pursuit of Christ and the necessity of building a solid spiritual foundation.

The school has come a long way since its inception, with three campuses and more than 1,000 students from K-3 to 12th grade. The school started at First Baptist Church on Bayshore. The current location was donated by the Ruckel family.

Neko Stubblefield, a board member, master of ceremonies, and a parent of two alumni of Rocky, shared her gratitude. "We have the option of Christian education in Okaloosa County because of Rocky Bayou Christian School," she said. "My two children are 'Lifers."

Sean Lynch also spoke, encouraging his audience to answer the question, "What are you building? The foundation must be built on the biggest Rock — Jesus Christ. He is the only foundation that lasts. Rocky is not here to preach at your kids, but to walk with them through life. Young people need the gospel and are under more pressure than ever."

The celebration was graced with an awe-inspiring performance by the Chamber Choir. The school's commitment to providing holistic education was brought to life through the performance of the choir, serving as a testament to the transformative power of Christian education.

ence in marine transportation and engineering. Graduates receive a bachelor's degree in marine transportation or marine engineering and a third's mate license or a third engineer's license, respectively—each oceans unlimited—issued by the Coast Guard.

Another distinguishing feature of Kings Point is that its graduates are not obligated to serve on active duty post-graduation, unlike their counterparts at other academies. Instead, they may opt for reserve duty and sail on their license for five years, serving aboard U.S. flagged (Jones Act) ships. Remarkably, only about a third of the graduates pursue active duty, joining various military branches.

The USMMA's mission is to "educate and graduate licensed merchant mariners and leaders of exemplary character who will serve America's marine transportation and defense needs in peace and war." Midshipmen are organized into a military-style structure called the Regiment of Midshipmen, designed to prepare them for leadership roles in the maritime industry and armed forces.

The incredible achievements of Niceville High School graduates don't end with the Class of 2019. In the coming years, two more midshipmen from the school will graduate from Kings Point, followed by another from the Class of 2019, who overcame a setback and is now part of the Class of 2025.

As proud representatives of Niceville High School, the Class of 2023 graduates have left an indelible mark on the USMMA's history. Their groundbreaking accomplishments not only celebrate their perseverance and determination but also inspire future generations of students aspiring to succeed in such esteemed institutions.

Prepare Now for Hurricane Season

Hurricane Season starts June 1. Not quite five years removed from the devastating impact of Hurricane Michael, our area does not need to be reminded about the importance of being prepared. But, with information available from various sources, it can be hard to discern the best steps to take.

Based on decades of field and lab research, the Insurance Institute for Business & Home Safety (IBHS) has released its 2023 Hurricane Ready guide featuring preparedness tips to help home and business owners strengthen their properties against storms. IBHS research shows resilient construction and re-roofing can significantly reduce the risk of storm damage. The nonprofit research organization has also identified some low-cost DIY projects that can help any building better withstand high winds and heavy rain.

"One of the things we note when investigating storms is that homeowners can do things to reduce the likelihood and severity of storm damage," said Dr. Ian Giammanco, lead research meteorologist at IBHS. "Even with Hurricane Ian, which caused extreme damage due to storm surge, we saw limited wind damage in homes built after 2002 when the Florida Building Code was first adopted. Amid the overall destruction, this positive result helps show that we are not powerless against Mother Nature."

While some of the projects included in the Hurricane Ready guides can be done prior to an impending storm, IBHS encourages people to begin now to ensure projects can be completed by June 1, the traditional start of hurricane season.

First Line of Defense: The Roof

IBHS analysis shows that as much as 90% of all disaster-related insurance claims include damage to the roof, and that oftentimes relatively minor roof damage leads to extensive interior repairs. One way to reduce the risk posed by high winds is to identify existing damage or wear on your roof. Most roofing contractors will provide an inspection, sometimes at no cost, and then make necessary repairs. If it is time for roof replacement due to age or existing damage, reroof to the FORTIFIED standard. Based on decades of the nonprofit's research, FORTI-FIED is a voluntary construction and reroofing method requiring third-party verification of the key elements that strengthen roofs against severe weather. Lab studies and real-world events show FORTIFIED prevents damage from high winds up to 130 mph.

Wind-Rated Garage Doors

Garage doors represent another common source of "cascading damage" during hurricanes or other severe weather events. When the largest opening in most buildings fails, pressure can build inside the garage and push up on the roof and out against surrounding walls. This can lead to major structural damage and even collapse. In this area, property owners should have wind-resistant garage doors with a rating of at least 130 mph. If a garage door is not labeled as wind resistant, it should be replaced or at least reinforced to provide needed protection.

If ent ge, an-the Gon ing the ent th-the rid re-nds

Cost-Effective Repairs

While a stronger roof and garage door will significantly help to reduce the risk of storm damage, other more budget-friendly steps can be taken, as well. Hurricane Ready suggests sealing gaps and cracks to keep wind-driven rain from intruding into a home or business. Other actions like securing soffits and trimming trees can also help to limit damage caused by wind.

Know Your Codes

Modern and enforced building codes are critical to reducing the damage and destruction caused by hurricanes each year. Florida ranks atop IBHS's Rating the States which examines building codes in 18 Gulf Coast and Atlantic states and grades them based on adoption, enforcement, and contractor licensing.

While Florida's building codes

Congressman Waltz's Call to Action:

Unity and Security

By Doug Stauffer

Congressman Mike Waltz, representing Florida's 6th Congressional District, has taken the reins from Gov. DeSantis in the continued fight for national security, veterans' affairs and economic growth. This former Green Beret serves on several House committees, including Armed Services—a natural fit, given his Army Special Forces experience. This committee has jurisdiction over the Department of Defense, including military research and development, nuclear energy and construc-

Waltz recently visited Okaloosa County. The congressman took to the stage at the Air Force Enlisted Village, a luncheon that was anything but ordinary as he began by reminiscing. Picture a young Waltz in training, kneedeep in swamp water, shivering in the freezing Florida night. "You'd never think you could get that cold in the Sunshine

State," he said, "but I did." Fortunately, this memory has long since faded, replaced with his love for his constituents.

Now, fast-forward to a world where the Federal government's number one priority is no longer keeping its citizens safe. Waltz passionately declared, "I am trying to get Washington to do less and focus on the right things." With fire in his eyes, he warned us that "the Big One is coming."

The formidable Chinese government, he explained, is locked in an economic struggle with the U.S., seeking to outmaneuver and overpower us. With a navy now larger than ours, outbuilding our ships at an astonishing 5:1 ratio, and launching more into space than all other nations combined, the Chinese threat cannot be ignored. "They control the U.S. supply chains," Waltz warned, "including antibiotics, with 90% of computer chips made in Taiwan, a nation

China seeks to control."

Waltz also criticized the Green New Deal, claiming it would merely replace one dependency with another, as China controls much of the world's cobalt, manganese and other essential minerals in battery production." Arming Taiwan and Japan in advance is crucial," he declared, "I am 100% focused on that, and it gets me up in the morning."

Yet, he explained that the challenges our military faces aren't just external. The Congressman lamented the worst recruiting crisis since Vietnam, misguided strategies for electric tanks, and an unnecessary focus on differences rather than unity. "Unit cohesion in combat is life and death," he argued. "I have called in every plane in the Air Force for close air support, and no one ever asked what color or sexual orientation the pilot was."

Waltz emphasized the importance of supporting our troops and their families, who sacrifice so much for our nation. "The last thing they need," he said, "is to return to a moldy barracks or concrete chunks falling from the ceilings in the hangers." With that, the audience was left to ponder the gravity of the situation and the responsibilities we must all bear in the face of these challenges.

As a House Armed Services Committee member, Waltz has been involved in oversight of Eglin AFB and Hurlburt Field, which are both critical to America's national defense. Waltz has been a strong advocate for these installations in Congress, securing funding for important programs and infrastructure projects and advocating for policies that support military readiness and strengthen America's defense capabilities. Additionally, as a veteran, Waltz understands the sacrifices and contributions of the men and women who serve in uniform. He has been a strong advocate for their needs and priorities.

have been among the nation's strongest for the past 20 years, they have improved over time. Therefore, a home built "tocode" in 2005 does not have the same level of protection as a home built in 2023. One key example is the sealed roof deck, which only became part of Florida's statewide code last year. Homes built or reroofed prior to that are missing this important level of protection that IBHS studies show can stop escalating damage which often leads to expensive repairs and homeowner displacement.

"If your home wasn't built or re-roofed to the newest code.

you can make it stronger," Giammanco added. "If your budget doesn't allow bigger ticket items like a new roof or garage door, something as simple as trimming trees could help to make your home better protected. The most important thing is to take the first step."

Join the Brigade

By Heather Bennett Eye

You probably know someone who's had a cancer diagnosis, or know someone who knows someone. It's hard to find anyone who hasn't been touched by cancer in some way. Our community is no different. People are affected everyday.

Michele Bailey, founder of Bailey Brigade, and her family were affected in a big way when her husband Scott passed away in December 2021 from a rare salivary glad cancer. He was only 54. While there are many organizations giving resources to more common specific types of cancer, we need to remember that there is a wide variety of debilitating cancers. Bailey Brigade was started to honor Scott and support locals battling all types of cancer. It's a non-profit organization that provides copay assistance, backpacks with self care items, and scholarships for those wanting to go into the medical field.

All money donated goes to help patients from The Emerald Coast. "Your money stays local," stated Michele, who is working with oncologist Dr. Hayes at Ascension Sacred Heart. Part of the donations go towards helping patients with their copay. Qualifying patients are handed a card at checkout letting them know the Brigade covered their copay that day.

Backpacks provided to patients consist of self care items in themed zip lock bags such as "All Wiped Out" with cleaning and sanitizing wipes along with "Take It Easy Queasy" that comes with anti nausea items to help with the side affects of chemotherapy. The backpacks also come with letters of encouragement and support. Local students have supplied them with letters, but anyone wanting to offer letters of encouragement can send them to Bailey Brigade. Inside the backpacks are cards with a QR code. The code will take the patients directly to a patient-only patience resource page where they can find assistance with services or discount services for them.

Another way to give back to the community for Bailey Brigade is through their scholarship program. Lukas Burgis was just announced as a scholarship winner. Lukas has also been affected by cancer in his family. He is studying medicine at Florida Atlantic University and holds a 4.6 GPA.

The community has been a huge support for Bailey Brigade. South Walton High Lacrosse and Basketball have both held fundraiser nights. The local Young Professional Networks through the Emerald Coast Association of Realtors held a costume party and silent auction with proceeds benefitting the Brigade. Owners of First Watch opened a new location in Tallahassee and donated all the proceeds from their soft opening weekend to Bailey Brigade. As Scott and Michele's oldest son is their Operations Manager, it was personal for them as well.

"We've been here for 30 years," stated Michele, referring to Walton County. "Our roots run so deep in the sand. We've seen the community grow and change. The heart of the community has only gotten bigger."

If you are interested in making a donation, you can check out their website at www.baileybrigade.com. Monthly subscriptions are encouraged, but one-time donations are always appreciated. It takes approximately $50 to fill one backpack for a patient. They are always looking for corporate sponsors as well. Businesses can get their name on backpacks they sponsor, links on the patient resource page, or even a scholarship given in their company name.

Bailey Brigade is gearing up for a fall fundraising event. They are still looking for an outdoor location. If you are interested in donating space, please reach out to Michele at info@baileybrigade.com.

Raja Chari was part of Expedition 66 (October 2021 -March 2022) where crew members conducted experiments that could help identify new materials with innate antimicrobial properties that could be used tested on the station's oxygen generation system to determine their stability over time. Astronauts also manufactured optical fibers in microgravity and contributed to research aimed at improving the infectious disease risk assessment for astronauts. Lt. Col. Bob Hines was part of Expedition 67 (March 2022 - September 2022). He and his crew members conducted experiments that studied the aging of immune cells and the potential to reverse those effects during post-flight recovery. A commercial off-the-shelf technology that could help diagnose medical conditions on deep space exploration missions was also tested and sutured wounds heal in microgravity. A new external facility was installed on the orbiting laboratory to map Earth's dust-producing regions and they conducted an experiment to look at how a new concrete alternative behaves in microgravity could help develop in-situ construction materials on the Moon or Mars.

Lieutenant Colonel Bob Hines was selected by NASA to join the 2017 Astronaut Candidate Class. He reported to the Astronaut Office in August 2017. He has served more than 23 years in the United State Air Force (USAF) as an instructor pilot, fighter pilot and a test pilot. Before his selection in 2017, he was serving as a Research Pilot at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas. He has accumulated more than 4,000 hours of flight time in 50 different types of aircraft and has flown 76 combat missions in 3 different aircraft types while supporting contingency operations around the world. Hines served as the pilot on NASA's SpaceX Crew-4 mission to the International Space Station, which concluded on Oct. 14, 2022. The mission was the first spaceflight for Hines. He logged 170 days in space, overseeing the arrival of crew and cargo, maintaining the space station, and conducting science experiments of various disciplines. Hines is familiar with the Emerald Coast and while was assigned to Eglin AFB, his daughter attended Bluewater Elementary School. At Eglin AFB, he served as an F-15C/D/E Experimental Test Pilot and later went on to serve as the first F-15 Developmental Test Program Director with the 84th Test and Evaluation Squadron where he continued to perform flight test on all models of the F-15.

Colonel Raja Chari was selected by NASA to join the 2017 Astronaut Candidate Class. He reported for duty in August 2017. The Iowa native graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy in 1999 with a Bachelor's Degree in astronautical engineering and engineering science. He continued on to earn a Master's Degree in aeronautics and astronautics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Test Pilot School. He served as commander of the NASA SpaceX Crew-3 mission to the ISS, which launched on November 10, 2021. He served on the International Space Station as part of Expedition 66 and 67 before returning to Earth May 6, 2022, completing the agency's third long-duration commercial crew mission. The international crew of four spent 177 days in orbit.

District Hosts Take Stock in Children STARS Ceremony

The Okaloosa Public Schools Foundation is in its 26th year of sponsoring Take Stock in Children and celebrated the accomplishments of 14 graduates and the potential of 17 newly selected scholars May 4 at the Niceville Community Center. Special guest speakers included TSIC alumna, Justice Woods, and TSIC Leader 4 Life Fellow, Tyniyah Haughton, who shared a few words about their Take Stock experience and the impact the program and their mentors have had on their lives. "Take Stock in Children is positively changing the lives of deserving Okaloosa County students through the support of caring mentors and the opportunity to be awarded tuition scholarships to the post-secondary institutions of their choice," said Deputy Superintendent Steve Horton.

The Take Stock in Children Scholarship Program is a unique and innovative program that provides post-secondary scholarships to deserving youth who may not go on to college because of their families' financial situations. Students with good grades, good attendance and good discipline records who meet the income eligibility requirement can apply for these scholarships. Each student who is selected by the Foundation signs a contract, along with his or her parent, promising to maintain a good school record, to remain drug- and crime-free and to meet weekly with a community-based mentor. Students who maintain the terms of their contracts are awarded tuition scholarships to the post-secondary institutions of their choice.

Congratulations to our 2023 Take Stock in Children Graduates

"We are incredibly proud of our Take Stock in Children program graduates," said Superintendent Marcus Chambers. "They have worked incredibly hard, and I wish them success in their future endeavors. It's exciting to see this program grow as we welcome more students and provide the support they need to succeed."

Class of 2023 Honor Students Thrived Through Covid

By Linda Evanchyk. OKALOOSA COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

On April 18, the Okaloosa County School District held the Anne T. Mitchell Academic Senior Honors awards on the campus of Northwest Florida State College. Each year the school district recognizes students who are graduating Cum Laude (3.75 - 3.99 weighted GPA),Magna Cum Laude (4.0 - 4.29 weighted GPA), and Summa Cum Laude (4.25+ weighted

In the class of 2023, 607 students met the criteria to graduate with honors designation.

I was asked to deliver remarks to the students and their families at the ceremony. The more I reflected on the events that have taken place since these students started their freshman year in 2019, the more in awe of their success I became.

I told them they made history without intending to do so. When they started their high school career, all indications were that it would be a normal year of learning and adjusting to life as a high school student. No one anticipated that in March 2020 the students would have the longest spring break ever, since the week prior to spring break would be the last week students would attend classes in their school buildings that school year. Students finished the year in an online for-there was a delay in the start of the school year as protocols were put into place for the safety of students and employees. Terms including Coronavirus, Covid 19, social distancing and quarantining would become part of the everyday vernacular. Students were sent home from school, sometimes several times that year, and were told to quarantine as contact tracing was put into place by the Okaloosa County Health Department.

While these actions were deemed necessary for the safety year, the stress was beginning to take its toll on students. They told me, along with Supt. Marcus Chambers, in a town hallstyle meeting at Baker School a year after that long spring break, that they were weary of being in and out of school, and that it had affected them mentally. The school district and school board responded by hiring more mental health counselors for each school, and by instituting the Hope Squad peer-to-peer suicide prevention program in high schools.

On a lighter note, during my address at the honors program, I reminded them that they would have some great stories to share with future generations.

"Tell your grandchildren about the 'to mask or not to mask' debate, about sitting behind desk shields, and about the pungent scent of hand sanitizer that permeated the school each day," I joked.

As I shook their hands and congratulated these honor students, it hit me that the students in the Class of 2023 do not want to be defined by the pandemic. While they have overcome obstacles no other class has, they not only survived, but they have thrived.

Truly, they seemed to be ready to move on from high school and the pandemic. I did ask them to please take some time, when all the pomp and circumstance has calmed down, to reflect on the last four years, noting their challenges and accomplishments.

Hats off to the approximately 2,200 Okaloosa County students who will graduate in the Class of 2023. What stories they can tell of their high school days, but hopefully their greatest stories have yet to be written.

Heroes Among Us: Courage and Resilience

By Doug Stauffer

Ted Corcoran and the Fort Walton Beach Chamber hosted the American Veterans Center (AVC) from Washington D.C. (www.americanveteranscenter. org). They interviewed numerous local veterans who have bravely served their country. I was honored to be invited by Ted to share in this incredible experience and interact with the seven men telling their stories.

Col. George Ferkes served in the Air Force during Operation Eagle Claw, the mission to rescue American hostages in Iran in 1980. The operation faced numerous challenges, including harsh weather conditions, malfunctioning equipment and complex logistics. Ultimately, the mission was unsuccessful, resulting in the tragic loss of eight American servicemen. Ferkes shared his experiences and lessons from the operation, emphasizing the importance of preparation, teamwork, and resilience.

Retired Cols. Ron Webb, David Gray, Howard Hill and Ed Hubbard were Air Force Vietnam War veteran POWs. Each of them recounted their time in captivity: the brutality, and how they and their fellow POWs supported one another throughout the ordeal. Their powerful stories evoke a sense of awe as they emphasized the importance of camaraderie, perseverance, and the indomitable human spirit in overcoming extreme adversity.

During the interview breaks, I had the opportunity to sit across the table from the POWs as they recalled their experiences. This unforgettable event left a lasting impression on me. I was present for Ron Webb's television interview, where he discussed the midair collision of two F-4s, resulting in his subsequent capture. Two of the pilots in the collision died. After the crash, he managed to avoid immediate capture but was eventually taken by enemy forces.

Communities in the area were rewarded for turning in soldiers, which contributed to his eventual capture. During his first interrogation, Webb was told, "You and your President L. Johnson are now prisoners of war." Ron thought this was a shrewd comment because the Vietnam War haunted Johnson throughout his presidency.

I never tire of hearing the POW stories, including the Tap Code used to communicate in secret. The military trains servicemen to provide only the basic four pieces of information as required by the Geneva Convention: name, rank, service number, and date of birth. The captors wanted much more.

The POWs were kept alive with the intention of reforming, proselytizing and ultimately turning them against their own country. Webb said there was no chance of this because every service member considered communism and socialism revolting. The captors also demanded tactical intelligence from their prisoners.

Webb's captors wanted to know how he got shot down, which turned into a cat-and-mouse game. He initially told them it was a large gun, but they checked and found no large guns in the area. He then claimed it was a Russian MiG jet, but they checked with their air force and discovered that no MiGs had been in the area.

The next day, Ron Webb and I were together at the Crispy Warriors breakfast, and I jokingly suggested that he could have simply said, "I was in the backseat, and I couldn't see a thing." We laughed at the thought as he said, "I never thought of that."

Col. Larry Ropka was interviewed next as he retold the Son Tay Raid, the rescue attempt of Vietnam POWs. Although the mission was ultimately unsuccessful, Ropka's story underscores the dedication of those involved in attempting to bring home their fellow servicemen. His account highlighted the desire and dedication to free fellow servicemen held prisoner by the North Vietnamese.

CMSgts. Bill Walter and Bernie Oder were interviewed. Both served in the U.S. military during the 1989 invasion of Panama, known as Operation Just Cause. Walters and Oder shared their experiences during the mission, challenges and lessons learned from the operation. Their stories provide insights into the complexities of modern warfare and the importance of adaptability and cooperation.

By sharing these stories, the AVC hopes to honor the sacrifices made by these veterans and educate future generations about their contributions to American history. The personal narratives of these brave individuals serve as a poignant reminder of the resilience of the human spirit and the importance of perseverance, hope, and unity in the face of hardship. A heartfelt salute to Ted and the Chamber for organizing yet another remarkable event to celebrate our military heroes. The interviews will be posted on www.americanveteranscenter.org.

Military Association Awards $29,000 In Scholarships

By Lori Leath Smith

The Northwest Military Officers Association (NWFMOA) Annual Scholarship and Awards Luncheon in May saw eight scholarships awarded totaling $25,500 to JROTC cadets at six of our communities' local high schools and one $4,000 scholarship awarded to a local ROTC cadet at the University of South Florida.

NWFMOA board members Maj. Dave Parisot, USAF, Ret., and president of the Scholarship Fund, Lt. Col. George Colton, Lt. Col. Bob Allen, Lt. Col. Fred Westfall, Col. Karl Eschmann and Lt. Col. Charles Farmer establish the scholarship policies and procedures, review and score the applications, and interview the applicants in March and April each year.

"The MOAA Medal was crafted to recognize leadership and academic achievements of ROTC and JROTC cadets," said Maj. Parisot. "It is presented annually to specially selected junior year students who are participating in ROTC or JROTC programs throughout our country and who exhibit high potential for military leadership. This award reflects the cadet's superior accomplishments and support of his or her high school Junior ROTC program, high academic achievements and service to school and community. This award further reflects the high regard of each school's JROTC instructors."

"When you hear what they [these students] have done, you know our nation is in good hands," said Brig. Gen. Fran Hendricks, chapter president.

Begun last year, NWFMOA continued its program of naming its scholarships in honor of deceased NWFMOA Chapter members. Following are this year's JROTC scholarship recipients:

Three local high school seniors who have received appointments the United States Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., were also honored and selected for the USA-FA Class of 2027: Olivia Beard and Alexander Davidson, both Fort Walton Beach High School, and Therese Sherwin, Niceville High School.

Maj. Parisot also recognized two retiring JROTC Senior Instructors: Col. Mark Batcho, USAF, Ret., is retiring after seven years at Fort Walton Beach High School AFJROTC, and Maj. Scott Bates, USAF, is retiring after 11 years of leading the Choctawhatchee High School AFJROTC. During their tenures, these instructors have influenced more than 3,500 JROTC cadets.

NWFMOA is a local, non-profit organization of more than 200 local active, retired and separated officers, including warrant officers, who have served in one of the eight uniformed services: Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard, Space Force, Public Health Service and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The membership also includes surviving spouses who belong in an auxiliary member context.

In addition to scholarships, one of NWFMOA's missions is to purchase gift cards at the base commissary to distribute to young enlisted families in grades E-4 and below to purchase food.

NWFMOA partners with the Eglin and Hurlburt First Sergeant Councils, the 7th Special forces Group and the Military Family Readiness Centers at Hurlburt and Duke Field to distribute the gift cards to their neediest enlisted families. In the past three years, this local chapter has donated 610 commissary gift cards of $25 each, for a combined value of $15,250! The chapter also advocates for Wreaths Across America, Bob Hope Village, and other community outreach projects.

Legacy of Bravery and Sacrifice in Vietnam

By Doug Stauffer

The 174th Assault Helicopter Company (AHC) recently held its 30th reunion at the Island Resort, Fort Walton Beach. I was privileged to meet with them and talk with some of the members

When the Vietnam War raged on, the United States military faced numerous challenges in combating the Viet Cong (VC) and North Vietnamese Army (NVA). Among the many units that fought valiantly during this tumultuous period in U.S. history was the 174th AHC, whose bravery and sacrifice deserve commemorating and honoring.

Established on April 1, 1966, the 174th AHC was essential to U.S. Army aviation during the Vietnam War. The group operated the UH-1 "Huey" helicopters. The company participated in countless operations, including the Tet Offensive in 1968, the Battle of Hamburger Hill in 1969 and the Cambodian Incursion in 1970.

Tragically, the Vietnam War claimed the lives of many brave soldiers who fought for freedom and democracy. Among them were 62 members of the 174th AHC, who paid the ultimate price. The story of the 174th AHC reminds us that behind every statistic and historical record are the lives of real people who fought, suffered and died for this country.

I sat down with Capt. Cliff

Stern, a platoon leader who oversaw 10 aircraft during "Operation Lam Son 719," as he shared his first-hand account. As part of a broader mission in early 1971, the South Vietnamese forces, backed by the United States, aimed to sever the NVA's supply lines along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos. Known as the "Dolphins," the 147th AHC provided aerial support to the ground troops throughout this daring operation. The company mainly operated the UH-1 "Huey" helicopters nicknamed the "Sharks," transporting the South Vietnamese Army and inserting and extracting soldiers in the battle zone.

Stern vividly described the numerous challenges and hazards the 147th AHC faced during the 45-day operation. The helicopter crews were under constant enemy fire, with the NVA maintaining a strong presence and deploying extensive anti-aircraft defenses along the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Despite the odds, the 147th AHC displayed an unyielding spirit. Beginning the operation with a fleet of 35 helicopters, they suffered the staggering loss of 30 aircraft.

I also asked to speak with Wally Nunn, a 24-year-old door gunner at the time, who recalled his experiences during the war. He mentioned a common expression among soldiers that a helicopter was "280,000 parts flying in close formation," a humorous yet accurate way to describe the complexity and intricacy of a helicopter's design and functionality. Helicopters have many components that must coordinate precisely for the aircraft to operate safely and effectively. It also underscores the inherent vulnerability of

Off the Hook: Cobia Season is Back

By Cali Hlavac

It's Cobia Season on the Emerald Coast, a short window of time each year where the cobia migration rolls through our waters and fishermen ride high in their towers trying to spot them. However, things are looking a bit different around here this year, with very minimal cobia being spotted anywhere.

Boshamps held its annual Destin Flathead Classic Cobia Tournament April 20-23, with 31 boats participating, but very few fish overall – including only one being weighed in over the 45-lb. limit. That fish was caught by the boat Lucky Dog, and was worth $108,000 in prizes. One weighed in at 44.8 lbs. with a few others between 25-35 lbs. The consensus from all the boats participating was that almost no cobia were spotted in our local area over that weekend.

The Boathouse Oyster Bar follows the Flathead Classic with its own tournament, the Ding-A-Ling Cobia Tournament, April 28-30. Fish will need to be 45 lbs. to qualify for that tournament as well. It's open to charter boats and private boats, with anglers hoping to see a larger population of fish before that tournament in hopes of being able to weigh in a fish or two.

The Cobia fishery has slowed over the years, with the FWC now requiring them to be 36-inch fork length to be legal. Anglers can keep one per day or two per vessel, whichever is less.

If you've been on the docks, you've probably heard stories of the massive schools of fish our Emerald Coast used to see during the cobia migration, with the average fish size 30 lbs.-plus. So, what has happened?

Some captains will say the water temps have pushed our migration farther up the East Coast so we are seeing less, while others will say that we have overfished the population. Which one is true? That's up to you.

helicopters, as any malfunction or failure in one of those many parts could potentially lead to catastrophic consequences.

They relied on their "Witch Doctors" to ensure the aircraft remained in optimal condition. The term "Witch Doctors" highlights the seemingly magical ability of these maintenance crews to diagnose and repair complex mechanical issues, often under challenging and time-sensitive conditions.

Nunn elaborated on their mission: "Our job was to save people, keep the guys on the ground alive by stopping people from killing people." He shared an interesting perspective on the war, stating that, initially, soldiers believed they were in Vietnam to win. However, they later realized their role was to hold off the communists until their economy collapsed under the strain of conflict.

Their experiences are a testament to the unbreakable bonds they formed while fighting side by side, not just for their country but for each other. Their sacrifices and unwavering determination, symbolized by their motto "Nothing Impossible," are a powerful reminder of the courage and resilience of all who served in the Vietnam War. The 174th AHC, their families, and the memories of those who never made it home continue to inspire deep gratitude and respect for their selfless service. Their stories of heroism, sacrifice, and camaraderie are a poignant reminder of the true cost of war and the unyielding spirit of those who answer the call to Tisano's Garlic Grill is part Italian, part country and 100% local and features amazing home made food and welcoming local flare. The restaurant's Luigi pizza has been a staple in the community for decades. There are also gluten free options. Trinity says their recipe for success is simple, "We just want to provide a clean restaurant, with awesome food and friendly staff, at a fair price," said Trinity. When you visit Tisano's, Trinity and Trey want you to feel like you're just going to a friend's house for a great meal and good company.

Relentless Raiders:

A Season of Resilience and Unforgettable Comebacks

By Doug Stauffer

The Northwest Florida Raider baseball team, a group of tenacious young athletes, demonstrated exceptional resilience, grit and an unwavering spirit throughout the season, especially in their recent games. Their journey, punctuated by numerous comeback victories, is a testament to their will to win and the enduring heart of this remarkable team.

They embarked on their journey to clinch the Panhandle Conference, which required them to face Gulf Coast State in the season's final three games. Every game was a thrilling spectacle, filled with suspense and nail-biting moments. The Raiders, always maintaining their composure, clinched the series with a trail of electrifying late-inning performances. It was a true spectacle of sportsmanship, a testament to their never-say-die attitude. They fought tooth and nail, displaying an extraordinary combination of skill and courage that saw them overcome the odds.

Then came the district championship series against Polk State. After suffering a blow in the first game, the Raiders dusted themselves off and rallied to win the next two games, proving that they were not to be underestimated. The deciding third game was nothing short of a sports classic. Behind 11-8 going into the 8th inning, the Raiders clawed back, scoring two critical runs. But in the 9th inning, under the most intense pressure, the team's spirit truly shone. With two outs and a 3-2 count, the Raiders launched a 3-run walk-off home run, a moment of pure magic that will forever echo in the annals of Raider history. Every player and supporter felt the euphoria of that 14-11 victory, a reward for their unwavering faith and persever-

In the words of sports enthusiast Mo Young, the team's energy was infectious. He shared, "This team was so much fun to watch. They were playing great pressure-packed baseball for the last several weeks of the season." Pausing for effect, he added, "The often used 'cardiac kids' moniker can apply to this team."

His words echo the pulsating thrill that the Raiders brought to the diamond, encapsulating the adrenaline and excitement gripping fans game after game. As Young aptly dubbed them, the "cardiac kids" kept spectators' hearts racing with their nerve-wracking comebacks and unvielding spirit.

The Raiders then entered the double-elimination District Tournament with their heads held high. Despite losing their opening game to the College of Central Florida, they bounced back with characteristic determination. They beat the State College of Florida, Manatee-Sarasota, in an extra-innings thriller, scoring three runs in the bottom of the 10th to win 8-7. Then they edged out Miami Dade College in a nerve-wracking encounter that saw the Raiders maintain their lead for an 8-7 win. However, in their final game against the College of Central Florida, the Raiders, exhausted yet unbroken, succumbed 7-2.

Despite the final defeat, the Raiders' journey was extraordinary. Their unwavering spirit, tenacity, and refusal to be beaten defined this remarkable team and season. They showcased the true essence of sports—that it's not just about winning but also about the heart, the determination, and the will to keep fighting, no matter the odds. The Northwest Florida Raider baseball team truly lived this ethos, and their unforgettable performances will resonate in the hearts of their fans for many years to come.

Pickleball Smash a Success

The Okaloosa Public Schools Foundation held its inaugural Spring Pickleball Smash April 28-30 at Mooney Tennis & Pickleball Courts in Fort Walton Beach. In addition, the money will also support the 501c3 non-profit organization's teacher grant program and promote overall student success through other initiatives.

Despite inclement weather during the tournament, 165 players participated in 16 divisions. "We are pleased with the success of our first tournament! We could not have done it without our dedicated volunteers and amazing sponsors. We are grateful for the communi-

Niceville Children's Advocacy Center Re-opened and Re-named

May 5 was a memorable day for the Emerald Coast Children's Advocacy's (ECCAC) Niceville Center. Not only did it mark the official reopening after the almost nine-month restoration and renovation of the Center after it experienced fire and significant water damage, it was also the official re-naming and dedication of the Center to the Julie Sacco Porterfield Children's Advocacy Center.

the ECCAC team, took tours of the newly restored center and learned about the programs and services offered to locally abused children and their families. Along with several guest speakers, students from the C.W. Ruckel Middle School Choir entertained attendees just before the ribbon-cutting.

Julie Sacco Porterfield is a special lady with a big heart when it comes to the well-being of children. She was at the forefront of this major undertaking and became the founding CEO of ECCAC. It started before the Niceville center became a reality when Porterfield undertook a grassroots community and governmental effort to establish ECCAC in 1999. A small 900-square-foot office was opened in what was once a dry cleaners in Valparaiso. During the first few years of ECCAC's beginning, her passion, dedication and energy, along with the financial support of the community and a strong volunteer base, enabled a new $2.1 million, 13,000-square-foot center to be built and open in Niceville in October 2000.

Porterfield, who prefers not to be in the limelight, commented to the guests, "I am still in awe... and incredibly humbled to be honored in this way. I give the glory to God. He certainly has given me the grace, wisdom, and discernment to do my very best to make lives better for children. You all have given me the incredible gift of leaving a legacy for my family, especially my son."

In ECCAC's 24-year history, more than 15,000 children have received more than 170,000 services at no cost.

What is Normal?

By Dr. Richard Chern, MD

How many times have you been told, "Labs look normal, see ya next year?" But that voice inside says "I don't feel normal."

Why is that? Well, because it's normal to age, get tired, gain weight, have achy joints, thinning hair, move slower, and have brain fog. It's normal for women to get hot flashes, vaginal dryness, depression, osteoporosis, and have increased risk of breast cancer, heart attacks and strokes after they stop producing estrogen. It's normal for men to lose muscle mass, sex drive, and get erectile dysfunction as the testicles produce less testosterone every year.

Are you happy with normal? I was living a normal life before I started The Hormone Restoration Center. I had normal testosterone and a normal thyroid. I thought falling asleep after lunch was normal, I thought my cold feet were normal, I thought my brain fog was normal. Let me tell you what most doctors don't know, don't understand or don't believe. We don't want to live a normal life. We want to live an optimal life.

After I got treated I realized I had been on the wrong path for years. Living every day feeling optimal is something that cannot be described, it has to be experienced. I felt so indescribably fantastic that I stopped everything else and opened The Hormone Restoration Center. Our goal at The Hormone Restoration Center is not to get you back to normal, go see your doctor for that. We want you to feel optimal! Do you remember the last time you had a great day? How about two great days? How about a month of great days? Can you even imagine how that feels?

The Hormone Restoration Center starts with a simple blood draw done right here in our office. You can choose from the $99 basic or the $295 comprehensive lab which includes nearly 60 different tests and a genetic test. The "big labs" charge $1700 for the same tests. You can see the doctor the next week! At the consultation you will receive an in-depth lesson about what is going on, why you feel like you do and how to fix it.

Many patients (and doctors) have no idea that a normal testosterone, estrogen and thyroid can wreak havoc to the body. When was the last time a doctor listened to you instead of the piece of paper with the normal labs?

"Great news Mrs Jones, the labs are normal, you just need to diet and exercise."

"But I feel..."

"Now, now, Mrs Jones, you're not getting any younger. This is just a normal part of aging."

Yes, it is, and I don't want any part of it!

Dr. Richard Chern, MD uses bio-identical hormone pellet therapy and his staff and providers are all BioTE certified. Call 850-837-1271 to make an appointment.

The Ins and Outs of Headaches and Migraines

By Kay Leaman, Health Architect, HealthyDay HealthyLife Most of us have experienced a headache and/or migraine; I have experienced both. There are several types of headaches, classified by the cause:

Primary – caused by chemical, nerve, and blood vessels or muscles around the head and neck. The skull aches with these types.

Cluster – Normally centered in or around one eye and side of head. They are very painful and occur in cyclical patterns or periods of time. This pattern can last weeks or months with remission following, which can last for months or years before returning. In some instances remission is permanent.

Sinus – Infections or irritations in the sinuses can trigger these and are centered above and below the eyes where the sinuses are located.

Tension – Mild to moderate pain. The pain can feel like a tight band around the forehead and can include the back of the neck. The scalp, neck and shoulders and be tender to the touch.

The last class is Migraines. They create a severe throbbing pain accompanied by a pulsing sensation on one side of the head. These headaches can also trigger nausea, vomiting and extreme sensitivity to light and sound. They can last for hours or days and can interfere with daily activities. An Aura migraine can happen before (acting as a precursor) or during and include visual disturbances such as flashes of light or blindspots, tingling in the extremities and difficulty speaking.

Migraines are usually attributed to genetic or environmental factors. The trigeminal nerve (complex nerve in the cranium) is involved which interacts with the brain stem. Triggers can be hormonal changes or medications (including birth control) stress, sleep changes, foods and drinks (dyes, preservatives, MSG, artificial sweeteners), skipping meals and sensory stimulation such as bright lights, strong smells, loud noises or weather changes. There is also evidence that chemical imbalances play a part.

Electrical and magnetic stimulation are approved treatments for migraines. The FDA has approved the Cefaly device (transcutaneous supraorbital neurostimulator) and the Spring TMS (single pulse transcranial magnetic stimulator). Another device that offers a successful treatment (offers resolutions of active migraines) is the Electro-Equiscope (unharmful micro-current electrical device).

Things to consider that can aid in preventing headaches are aerobic exercise, having a regular sleep schedule and maintaining a healthy diet.

From the holistic side, nutrients have offered great success to those suffering from the various classifications. Among these are: Vitamin D and B complex Magnesium and Co-enzyme Q10 Curcumin and Omega 3 (fish oil), High-quality Grape Seed Extract and Resveratrol (Free radicals and oxidative stress significantly increase during attacks. Measuring thiol levels indicates that consuming these nutrients also aids in reducing the severity and incidences of migraines.), Melatonin and DHEA.

So much of our health is attributed to the attention and care we give to nourishing our cells. I have personally found, as have thousands of others, that feeding my body with the correct amounts of macro and micro nutrients on a daily basis has improved my quality of life. Factors that we have no control over such as air and EMF pollutants, chemicals we unknowingly ingest, etc., affect our health and overload our body systems. Being proactive with our health can and does give our body a greater ability to combat these invaders.

Here's to Health!

Adjusting Life Input to Experience Healthier Output

By Stephenie Craig, Journey Bravely

A few months ago, I found my brain scattered, tired, and generally tense. When I slowed to reflect, I realized I was carrying stress outside my awareness. Juggling work, home, parenting, relationships, life transitions, emails, texts, news, professional research, social media, etc. was overwhelming my brain. These activities weren't unhealthy, but the output of my life was out of balance. I took a social media break and noticed quickly I felt better. That break has become a more permanent practice as I've remembered that what we put in, our life input, significantly impacts how we show up daily in life, our life output.

Do you ever find yourself trying to make an external change and it just isn't working? Maybe you're trying to reduce stress, increase joy, improve a relationship, or live less overwhelmed. You may keep trying to make adjustments to the output of your life without slowing down to consider how the input might need to be adjusted. In reality, true change happens from the inside out.

In our fast, achievement-foentertainment-hungry cused. culture, it's easy to become desensitized to anxiety-inducing input available daily. You wake up to news, social media, political commentary. You are inundated with messaging about how you aren't enough, you need to be better, you need to have more. You are told who is right, who you should be against, what you should fear, what you should know, and how the world is going to hell in a handbasket. It's hard to be more patient, kind, and peaceful when the input screams to worry more, do more, and be angrier.

The great news is you have the power to evaluate and adjust your input to create life balance. You get to decide the quantity and sources of information. You get to choose the boundaries regarding your time, activities, and practices you engage to pursue more joy and peace. So, what does it look like to begin adjusting your input to experience a healthier output?

5 Ways to Practice Adjusting Your Life Input to Experience Healthier Life Output

1. Slow down and notice where you are out of balance. Notice body tension, relationship tension, negative thoughts, unhealthy self-talk, road rage, impatience, irritability, sleep problems, anxiety, over/under eating, overspending, drug/alcohol use, feeling victimized by

- 2. Evaluate your input. Take a week to notice and note your input practices. Notice what you're looking at/listening to when you wake, drive, work, in your leisure time, before bed. Check the hour count on your phone use. Notice the hour count on social media, what you follow, and how it makes you feel. Notice the messaging/attitudes of input. Are they fear-based, critical, dehumanizing? Are they encouraging, solution-focused, inspiring?
- 3. Curate your input life feed. Give yourself radical permission to unfollow, quit the show, change the station, distance from relationships, reduce exposure to input that is not a fit with the world view you desire. You don't have to follow things that make you feel irrational fear, insecurity, and hopelessness. It's okay to unfollow positive things and friends if they are impacting you negatively. Try unfollowing negative inputs for 1-2 weeks and make notes about your feelings, mindset, clarity of thought, state of overwhelm or calm. Keep in mind this can be challenging as your brain may be addicted to the dopamine hit you've been getting from some of the inputs.

Push through the discomfort. It's worth it

4. Create space. In place of excessive input, try incorporating an activity or two that creates calm and mental space. Take a walk, look at something beautiful, listen to calming music, be quiet, engage a spiritual practice, garden, hike, go for a bike ride, whatever else works for creating space.

5. Implement long-term input changes. Use your collected input data to decide which things you will let go of long-term and take action steps. Remove apps, unfollow, find a new station, put limits on your phone, etc. Find consistent time to include your space activities. Determine the balance that works and begin practicing. This doesn't need to be perfect. You can continue observing, learning, and making adjustments over time.

Evaluating your input is uncomfortable work but very worth the payoff of living a more balanced, less overwhelmed life. Connect with us for coaching and counseling support along your journey at www.journeybravely.com.

Is Your Insurance Ready for Hurricane Season?

June 1st marks the beginning of hurricane season. Researchers at North Carolina State said the 2023 Atlantic hurricane season will see 11 to 15 named storms forming in the Atlantic basin. The basin includes the entire Atlantic Ocean, the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico.

So, it is time to make sure you're ready for the next round of tropical depressions, storms and hurricanes that visit the Gulf Coast every year. Do you have what you need when it comes to homeowner's and flood insurance and hurricanes? There are a few things that should be on your radar. If you have these coverages in place, you'll be better equipped to ride out whatever storm blows through.

First on the list is hurricane/ wind coverage. Most home policies (HO3, DP3, HO6, HO4) in Florida include either hurricane, named storm, or wind/ hail under a separate deductible.

This is preferred since coordination and consistency of coverages is important. Some carriers don't write wind coverage close to the water. So, a stand-alone wind-only policy would be needed. If this is the case, extra care must be taken to avoid any coverage inconsistencies. In a previous article last year, we addressed the differences in hurricane, named storm, and wind/hail coverage. But suffice it to say, when it comes to wind coverage, the best option is hurricane. Under this coverage scenario, the larger deductible in the policy, usually a percentage of the Dwelling Limit, applies to declared hurricane activity, while the smaller deductible in the policy would apply to other wind losses and all other perils in the policy. There are several deductible options available that can have a large impact on what would be your out-of-pocket responsibility if you file a claim.

Make sure you know you have sufficient Dwelling Limit (Coverage A) coverage to rebuild your home in the event of a loss. Local and national data indicates that nearly two out of three homes and structures are underinsured.

Another important coverage is Loss of Use that pays for you to live somewhere else while repairs are being done to your temporarily unlivable home. This goes for rental properties with Loss of Rents coverage as well. Remember, there needs to be direct physical damage to trigger this coverage. Some rental policies don't include Loss of Rents so you will want to read your policy or call your insurance agent so you know for sure.

Another often misunderstood coverage not offered with each carrier, but always recommended, is Law or Ordinance coverage. Most carriers, if they have it available, offer either 10%, 25% or 50% coverage. This percentage is tied to your Dwelling Limit. If you have extensive hurricane damage, like we saw with Hurricane Michael, there may be new building codes you must adhere to in order to rebuild. The additional Law or Ordinance coverage is crucial to your protection, since your policy is designed to rebuild your home as it was before the damage, with similar materials and quality, and not with more costly materials that could now be required by more stringent construction codes that may have come into play.

Another vital policy to have, especially during hurricane season, is flood insurance. Flood and water damage from a wind event are not necessarily the same thing. This coverage is so vital that we will again devote our next month's article to this topic. Although there are a few carriers who will add flood coverage as an endorsement to a home policy, it is infrequent. For most insureds, your flood policy will be a separate policy written through the NFIP (National Flood Insurance Program), and, unless your lender requires the policy, or you're closing on a new purchase, there is a standard 30day waiting period through the NFIP before your flood policy will become effective. Private flood insurance is an alternative. Many of the private markets in in the country, and especially in Florida, offer broader coverages than the NFIP and these should be considered as an alternative to maximize your protection.

We hope this helps ease your concerns this hurricane season, in terms of coverage.

Helping Develop Wisdom Workplaces On the Emerald Coast and Beyond

By Dr. Jeff and Robin Cerny

Currently there is much confusion and strife in our world. In uncertain and trying times, people seek guidance and understanding. So, what would you think if we stated that what we really need is WAR for our time?

The WAR we are referring to though is Wisdom and Revelation.

What exactly is wisdom and where do we find wisdom? There are two types of wisdom noted in James 3:13-18.

Earthly wisdom which refers to knowledge and understanding that is acquired through personal experience and observation of the physical world. It is limited to the things that can be perceived by the senses and is subject to change and therefore error.

In Ephesians 1:16-18 the apostle Paul asks the God of our Lord Jesus Christ to give believers the spirit of wisdom and revelation so that they can have a deeper knowledge and understanding of God. Godly wisdom refers to wisdom that is derived from a spiritual perspective, beyond what can be perceived by the physical senses. It comes from above and is rooted in a deeper understanding of the spiritual realm. This wisdom is more insightful and absolute since it is based on divine knowledge and is not subject to change or error.

Our revelation is knowing the difference between earthly and Godly wisdom and walking accordingly. This wisdom and revelation provides divine insight and discernment to those who humbly ask.

C12 Emerald Coast serves Business Leaders in helping develop "Wisdom Workplaces" on the Emerald Coast and beyond. As in Ephesians 2:10, we seek to apply biblical principles for purposeful and profitable businesses, lives and communities. We conduct monthly business forums of peer advisors that are guided by a proven C12 framework to both encourage and challenge one another to make better decisions, avoid costly mistakes and create wise plans for growth.

A Pastor's Ponderings: An Open Letter to Fathers

By Pastor and Father Doug Stauffer

As we approach Father's Day,
I wanted to use this opportunity to honor and celebrate the fathers in our community. As a pastor (and traveling evangelist for 20 years), I have witnessed

Forever we fully paid.

Our earth
God imparts,
Guide us
broken hearts.

Blake, Jordan and Scarlett,

how the love, dedication and strength of fathers make a lasting impression (moms, too!). Like so many of you, my father is someone I admire as an incredible example. To all dads everywhere:

In the beginning, our Heavenly Father above,

Crafted us using His wisdom and infinite love.

His image we bore, in His likeness were made,

Forever we praise Him, our debt fully paid.

Our earthly fathers, with strength God imparts,

Guide us through valleys through broken hearts

You could have it answered in one our columns.

Their love and protection, like a sheltering wing,

As we walk with our Lord, God's praises we sing.

Proverbs teaches that fathers have the crucial role of training their children in the way they should go. As mentioned in Ephesians, your dedication to nurturing and admonishing your children in the Lord is a testament to your commitment to their spiritual well-being.

With hands firm yet gentle, they nurture and hold,

Reflections of God's love, characters they mold.

Through trials and triumphs, their faith remains strong,

In the arms of their fathers, they truly belong.

The 20th Proverb refers to the blessings the children receive through their father's integrity. Your compassion, like the Lord's in Psalm 103, comforts them. Through your loving correction and guidance, you help your children grow in wisdom and grace (Proverbs 3).

So thank you, dear fathers, for all that you do,

Your love, like a beacon, points to what's true.

On this special day, our voices we raise,

In gratitude, love, and endless praise.

The Bible teaches us that fatherhood is a sacred responsibility and blessing, reflecting the love and guidance of our Heavenly Father. I encourage you, fathers, to continue walking in faith, setting an example for your children and others. Nurture the spiritual growth of your family, the dividends are immeasurable.

On behalf of our church family, I wish you a blessed and joyful Father's Day. May God's love and grace continue to shine upon you and your families as you lead by example and fulfill your roles as earthly fathers.

Proverbs 3:11 "My son, despise not the chastening of the LORD; neither be weary of his correction: 12 For whom the LORD loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth."

1466 Cedar St., Niceville

By Sean Dietrich

I am an imaginary old man. I am every World War II veteran you never knew. I am each faceless GI from the bygone European War. Or any other war for that matter.

I am in my 90s and 100s now. Lots of young folks probably don't even know I exist.

In my war, I was one of the hundreds of thousands of infantrymen, airmen, sailors, marines, mess sergeants, seabees, brass hats, engineers, doctors, medics, buck privates and rear-echelon potato-peelers.

We hopped islands in the Pacific. We served in the African war theater. We beat the devil, then we came home and became the old fart next door.

Wartime was one heck of an era to be young. Let me tell ya. When we went overseas we were still teenagers, smooth skinned, scared spitless, with government haircuts, wearing brand new wedding rings. We hadn't seen action yet, so we were jittery and lots of us smoked through a week's rations of Luckies in one day.

Then it happened. It was different for everyone, but it happened. Shells landed everywhere. People screamed. And in a moment our fear melted away and we had war jobs to do. It didn't matter who we were or which posts were ours. Everyone worked in the grand assembly line of battle.

Sean of the South: Dear Young Person

When the smoke cleared and the action was over, we had new confidence in ourselves and we were no longer boys.

And anyway, we weren't just boys, we were girls, too. There were 350,000 females serving in the U.S. Armed Forces in World War II. People forget that.

Speaking of women. We guys were always talking about our sweethearts, wives, and mothers. If you mentioned someone's girl a man was liable to talk for hours about her. And even if you'd already seen his wallet photos before, you never interrupted a guy talking about his gal. Because eventually you'd be talking about yours.

There were nights overseas when we would stare at the moon and wonder if our sweethearts were looking at the same moon. There were moments of indescribable loneliness.

Infantrymen had it the hardest. I don't know how our doughboys did it. They lived like pack mules. Their boots got wet, their feet swelled, and their flesh became waterlogged. Chunks of their heels would fall off; the dreaded "trench foot."

The funny thing is, even though their feet were falling off, these men still didn't want to leave their posts. Many had to be dragged away cussing. That's how committed these guys were.

Oh, and the food was god

awful. You learned to appreciate the rarity of a creative company cook

In Italy, sometimes we could buy eggs from local merchants for outrageously inflated prices. One time I knew a guy who ate 32 scrambled eggs in his tent one night. I asked him why he did this and he told me he didn't want to die without tasting eggs one last time.

A lot of guys brought banjos, guitars and fiddles over there. They'd play music at night sometimes in the open Italian air. We'd square dance and laugh. Others would sit on their helmets, smoking, thinking of home, wiping their eyes.

The Germans had a local radio station that broadcast American stuff like Bing and Frank. Then, between songs, a German gal talked propaganda over the airwaves to us American GIs in a sexy voice, trying to mess with our heads.

She would speak flawless English and say, "Give up, boys, there's no point trying, you can't win. Everyone hates you. Your girls are at home cheating on you. They don't love you anymore. Give up. It's over. You lost "

This was supposed to discourage us, but it usually just made us laugh. Or cry. Sometimes both.

When the war ended, we felt too much joy at once. In fact, most weren't totally sure they could trust good news. A lot of guys got like that.

So when we heard the official papers had been signed and the war was over, it was Christmas morning multiplied times a hundred. No. Times a trillion.

Those of us overseas immediately wrote letters to family and told our wives we were coming home, told our kids to grease up their baseball gloves. Our letters were covered in little wet polka dots, if you get my drift.

Stateside, there were huge celebrations happening. Sailors climbed lampposts to unfurl flags. Infantrymen stood on rooftops, toasting mugs of homebrew. Mothers were frying chickens out the wazoo.

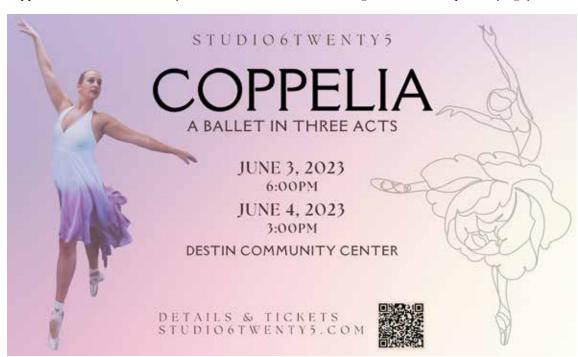

People were partying everywhere from San Bernardino to Flatbush. Big cities, little towns, and the rural parts between. There were ticker tape parades, auto processions and girls would kiss any guy in government clothes.

But on this important day, you know what I think about? I think about all the guys who never got kissed again. Our men in the soil.

They were those who evaporated like the early morning fog over Anzio, or the thick mists of Normandy. They died young. And they died for a lot more than a three-day weekend of barbecues and Budweiser.

These were men who fell upholding the mantle of our unalienable American spirit, the Blessings of our liberty and the pride of their homeland. They were friends. They were the kids next door. They were children of God who once proved, beyond speculation, that even hellfire cannot kill the great idea that is America. I hope we never forget them. I know I never will.

Happy Memorial Day.

Emerald Coast Theatre Company's 10 Years of Magic Continues with Season 11 on the Horizon

By Anna Fisher, Associate Artistic and Education Director

We just closed our 10th season with a sold out run of one of my absolute favorite musicals, "Sound of Music." It was a little bit magical to end 10 years of incredible shows with such a profoundly beautiful story. I look forward to Season 11 with such excitement and anticipation for what another year of great theatre will bring!

We launch Season 11 next fall with Million Dollar Quartet in September/October. This smash-hit musical tells the story of legendary music icons Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Carl Perkins as they come together on Dec. 4, 1956, at the famous Sun Studios. This show has so many great songs including "Blue Suede Shoes," "Sixteen Tons," "Great Balls of Fire" and "I Walk the Line" just to name a few. Elvis will be in the building y'all!

We follow that with the timeless holiday classic A Christmas Carol in December. This fastpaced stage version is so fun and includes all of your favorite characters like Tiny Tim, the Fezziwigs, all the ghosts and, of course, the original grumpy old man, Ebenezer Scrooge. This show is a mug of warm wassail on a cold winter's night and just the right thing to get you into the holiday spirit. Our favorite Scrooge, Bruce Collier, will be returning to the stage as well in this production.

There's plenty of chances to catch The Marvelous Wonderettes: Caps and Gowns throughout the winter months with shows in January, February and March. This is the delightful sequel to The Wonderettes and follows our favorite girls as they graduate in 1958. With songs like "Rock Around the Clock," "At the Hop," "Dancing in the Street" and "River Deep, Mountain High," you will find yourself tapping along to this gem of a musical!

Another offering we have during those winter months is The Play That Goes Wrong. I absolutely adore the humor in this show! If you want a good laugh while trying to solve a murder mystery, this is the perfect night out. It was a smash hit on Broadway and we are thrilled to produce the show at ECTC!

If you liked Steel Magnolias, you will love Crimes of the Heart premiering in late February. This is a deeply touching, funny play about three eccentric sisters in a small southern town who deal with the fallout when Babe, the youngest, shoots her husband. This story serves up humor and pathos along with a May 2024. If Season 11 can't get here to ECTC for a fantastic show in fast enough for you, make plans to catch "Broadway on the Boulevard, Dancin' in the Street" outdoors in the Grand Park at Grand Boulevard every Thursday during the summer through the end of July. We also have a fantastic group of teens performing Grease at the end of July at 560 Grand Boulevard, upstairs in our theatre. I hope no matter how busy life gets, you always make time for the joy of a well-told story and the richness of a night out with friends and family. See you at the theatre!

And since everyone loves a mystery, we're keeping the final musical of our season under wraps! Just plan to come on out

John's latest collection, which will be featured in this show, was specifically captured in collaboration with a selection of Emerald Coast creatives as his subjects, including artists Harley Van Hyning, Bradley Copeland,

Maxine Orange, photographer Sean Murphy, violinist Jessica Heit and dancers Kate Beliaeva and Rico Dias Garcia. Seeing little pieces of what each unique artist does through John's lens translates in a very unique and magical way under the water and has fueled his passion forward. # Music Fans Swarm to Northwest Florida for Country on the Coast

By WILL ESTELL

If you're a music fan and live or play anywhere along the beaches of Northwest Florida's Gulf Coast, you likely already know about country music's biggest party at the beach, Gulf Coast Jam. The festival, which takes place in Panama City Beach, is now one of the largest outdoor music festivals (of any genre) in the country, boasting an attendance of more than 30,000 people per day for each night's headlining shows.

For 2023, Gulf Coast Jam will be more popular than ever, having sold out most ticket packages six months in advance. The party is right around the corner, June 1-4, and brings millions in revenue to accommodation providers, restaurants, retailers and entertainment establishments across the three-county (Okaloosa, Walton, Bay) area, where most of the thousands of jammers stay, dine and take in the beach.

Having covered the festival for six years now, I can attest to its growing popularity and draw. I've seen everyone from Tim McGraw, Luke Bryan, Old Dominion, Brooks & Dunn, Cadillac Three and Florida Georgia Line to Riley Green, Big & Rich, Lynyrd Skynyrd, LOCASH and Kid Rock, along with many other well-knowns playing to growing crowds of music lovers from every state and those who travel from abroad to attend the festival.

For 2023 Gulf Coast Jam's headliners encompass some of country's most popular artists, including Kenny Chesney, HARDY, Maranda Lambert and Kane Brown, as well as well-known hitmakers such as Chase Rice, Justin Moore, Gabby Barrett, Breland and Bailey Zimmerman – with many others rounding out the total 32 artists taking the stage over the four-day event.

Kenny Chesney's late addition to the bill was secured only four weeks out from the festival weekend, having been added as the replacement for Morgan Wallen, who was originally on the ticket, but was forced to cancel a chain of concert dates due to a vocal issue.

I've had the pleasure to see Kenny play at both festivals and live at the CMA Awards, as well as, having conducted one-on-one feature magazine cover interviews with him twice in the past seven years (with a third interview set for next year before his 2024 tour) and I can assure anyone who hasn't seen him work a stage and crowd that he knows how to throw a party.

Craig Campbell of Campbell Entertainment Group in Nashville, who has played an instrumental role in orchestrating various behindthe-scenes aspects of Gulf Coast Jam since its first year, says the talent alone runs well into the multi-millions each year.

"It's actually because of our great sponsorships, and the generous support of Panama City Beach that we are able to throw this level of music festival and keep the ticket prices where they are," Campbell said. "That's one of the aspects that Rendy and Mark, (the festival founders and organizers) are most proud of: bringing great music to Panama City Beach and making it attainable to most everyone."

For additional information, follow Gulf Coast Jam on Facebook and Instagram or visit GulfCoastJam.com where you can grab your T-shirts, hats and festival merchandise early, and, if you're lucky, grab one of the few secondary market tickets as they become available.

Niceville High School CTE Students Present Award-Winning Coastal App at U.S. Capitol

Niceville High School (NHS) Web Programming Instructor Carrie Foxhall and two of her Web students, Gabe Jacobs and Hannah Castor, were invited to the U.S. Capitol to present their award-winning "Coastal" app at the Congressional App Challenge in November.

Gabe and Hannah designed and programmed their app to educate locals and tourists about the dangers of the beautiful Emerald Coast waters. Students from across the nation had the opportunity to present their apps at the competition. Jacob and Hannah connected the app to the NOAA website to provide users with real-time updates on rip currents, water conditions, flags, and tides along the Florida coast using an application programming interface (API). The app also provides information to help people understand how to swim out of a rip current and other important information about our local waterways to keep everyone safe. The Coastal app provides lifeguard location points on a map, allowing users to report weather conditions affecting their local area.

Students had the opportunity to meet with Representative Matt Gaetz at the U.S. Capitol. He shared his support of the app and encouraged Gabe and Hannah to present their app to the local Tourist Development Council. Gabe and Hannah received incredible feedback at their Capitol presentation.

The mission of the Congressional App Challenge is to inspire, include and innovate efforts around STEM, CODING and Computer Science Education. For more information, visit https://www.congressionalappchallenge.us.
