Forever Warriors Brings Help and Hope to Northwest Florida's Military Families and Veterans

By WILL ESTELL

Forever Warriors is a Florida private charitable organization, established in 2021, and made possible by the generosity of Northwest Florida based Step One Automotive Group. The primary focus of Forever Warriors is to better equip current and past military members, and their family members, with an array of tools meant to aid them in their lives outside of, and beyond, their military roles.

Though most of us as residents of these beautiful coastal communities realize we have a large military population across our immediate five county area (which serves as home to numerous military families from every U.S. military branch), what we may not often consider is the hardships and trying times that a platform for these incredibly talented artists to share their creations and connect with their fans in a more intimate way," he said.

Featuring a lineup of topnotch, popular talent, the Lakeside Songwriters Concert Series kicked off with Craig Campbell on March 22nd. Keith Stegall and Bradley Gaskin continue the series on March 29th, Michael Morgan on April 5th, Charles Esten on April 12th, Leslie Satcher and Kevin Mac on April 19th and Bryan White on May 3rd.

Each artist brings their own distinct style and expertise, promising an array of musical genres and captivating tunes. As the first in the series, Craig Campbell is a renowned country singer and songwriter from Georgia known for his distinctive voice and heartfelt lyrics. Developing a passion for music at an early age and influenced by classic country legends, his career spans over two decades and Craig has established himself as a talented artist with a genuine connection to his audience. His debut self-titled album, "Craig Campbell," released in 2011, features hit singles like "Family Man" and "Fish," earning him recognition and praise within the country music community.

Craig's music is characterized by its authenticity, often drawing inspiration from personal experiences and relatable themes. He has a knack for crafting songs that resonate with listeners, blending traditional country sounds with a modern twist. In addition to his success as a solo artist, Craig has also contributed his songwriting talents by penning hits for other artists. Whether performing on the Grand Ole Opry stage or connecting with audiences during live shows, he continues to leave a lasting impression with his soulful performances and relatable storytelling.

On March 29th, Keith Stegall and Bradley Gaskin take the stage. Keith is a Grammy award winning producer and writer of multiple #1 hits including "I hate everything" by George Strait, "Don't Rock The Jukebox" by Alan Jackson, and "I Do (Cherish You)" by 98 Degrees. Keith Stegall is one of Nashville's most celebrated men behind the scenes. As Alan Jackson's longtime producer, the pairing has sold over 60 million records. With the Zac Brown band, Stegall produced the group's first three albums, resulting in the group's first nine singles to reach #1 on the country charts. Stegall is currently president of Dreamlined Entertainment Group, a Nashville-based production and publishing company specializing in songwriter/artist development.

Singer-songwriter Bradley Gaskin signed with Columbia Nashville in 2010 and released his debut single, "Mr. Bartender," which he wrote solely by himself. Bradley's single charted on country radio for 20 weeks that led him to a Top 40 country hit. Soon after his immediate success, Sony shelved the artist along with the rest of the music. The spotlight for Bradley slowly faded, so he decided to take a break and focus on other options for a career. The artist put down his Gibson J45 and went back to a life he'd known before his music stardom, being a normal working man. He filled his days hanging sheetrock and later worked as a full-time janitor at an elementary school. Bradley could have settled into a normal life, but he knew that wasn't what he was supposed to do. There were plenty of others cheering him on when Jack Cole, a seasoned friend, offered him a deal of a lifetime. "Why don't we record the music you want to write?" Jack said. Jack started 30A Life Records sealing the deal with Bradley Gaskin as his very first signed artist. Bradley is currently tracking his first full-length record in over a decade with Grammy Award winning producer Keith Stegall. The first single will be released this summer.

The Lakeside Songwriters Concert Series not only offers an exceptional musical experience, but also provides an opportunity for attendees to indulge in a delectable dining experience. For those looking to enhance their evening, the Dinner and Show VIP Package offers premium seating, a delicious five-course dinner during the show, and a glass of beer, wine or champagne.

many of these men, women and families go through—financially and otherwise—both during their time of service and especially when transitioning into civilian life afterward.

I spoke with Tiffany Orner, Military Engagement Manager of Forever Warriors, as well as Greg Lambert, the organization's Logistics Support Leader, to find out a little more about what makes this foundation tick and just how determined they both are to find and provide the help necessary for the men, women and families they serve.

Tiffany is passionate about the organization's pillars. Transition, sustainment, mental health and community immersion are the reason Forever Warriors was born-brought into existence to fill a need to lighten these burdens and circumvent the stigma that often surrounds a military family having to seek help. "As an organization, Forever Warriors realizes that our military heroes often face post service challenges in obtaining the necessary requirements to transition into the civilian workforce," Tiffany said.

Tiffany says she felt a calling to make a difference for others because of her personal experience coming out of her past military service. "I had a ridiculously tough time, both during and after my service to our country. I am determined to ensure no service member ever feels the way I did. I am thankful for the opportunity to be the change that's so desperately needed in our local military community. I won't stop until EVERY veteran wants for nothing; and that starts with supporting those still serving in America's military," she said.

Forever Warriors works to multiply the awareness of the number of current community-based and military programs in place for this segment and to make navigating the road to help much more efficient. Additionally, Tiffany and Greg talked about the importance of making members of our coastal community more aware of deficits in the aide this segment of our population might need. All in hopes of uniting to create new ways to best help this ever-growing group of Northwest Florida Gulf Coast families. "Less than 1% of Americans serve in the military. We have to set the standard and have each other's backs. We are Vets helping our brothers and sisters that have and continue to serve," said Greg.

Through their connection and close-knit work alongside other local, state and federal agencies, Tiffany, Greg and the volunteers and partner companies of Forever Warriors are often able to help secure resources from companies and private stakeholders, that are driven and dedicated to serving those who have served our country. In many instances these are companies who are owned or managed by prior service members; thus they see and understand the need they are helping to fill.

By bridging this gap to civilian life and introducing this population of our neighbors to resources and opportunities, Forever Warriors makes it possible for these families to experience a faster, smoother and less burdened transition to the world many of us live in yet take for granted.

As part of their mission statement, Forever Warriors states that their pillars of success are built on compassionate empathy, unyielding integrity, unwavering unity and shared humility and respect. These strong values are the determining strength behind the organization's support for the military community they serve, and through this service they hope to enlighten and educate all of us as to the importance of doing our part to support Forever Warriors' endeavor.

Remember, real compassionate empathy is more than a mere acknowledgement of what someone else might be experiencing. It goes beyond walking in another's shoes; it entails walking beside them in order to lift their burden, help carry their load and best ready them to build a better tomorrow.

For those of you interested in being a part of the upcoming events of this life-changing organization, Forever Warriors, in conjunction with the generous support of Step One Automotive Group, invite you to come out and be a part of one of these events:

Impact100: Aid Multiplied by Collective Giving

By Michelle Ruschman

When Joni Wallace, the current President of Impact100 of Northwest Florida, thinks about the hope this organization can bring to our community, it comes down to this: Multiply success by collective giving.

The goal in 2024 is for Impact100 NWF to have 500 members by April 30th, all paying a $1000 membership, to change the trajectory of a non-profit in each of these five key areas:

- Arts and Culture
- Education
- Environment, Recreation, and Preservation

  - · Family

• Health and Wellness

With 500 members, it means that a $100,000 grant can be given to five non-profit organizations that will multiply the health of the community it serves in ways that will have generational impact. As Joni points out, "You could certainly write a check for $1000 and give it to a non-profit who would certainly appreciate it and use it. But when you give $100,000 as a collective gift, that is what takes a nonprofit to the next level. It's transformational, no matter how transformational is defined. $100,000 is a big investment."

The local chapter started in 2012 with 12 women from both Okaloosa and Walton counties. They dreamed about the changes that could happen when this level of generosity is given to local nonprofits and decided they wanted to be part of this international movement. Its mission: To be a collective force for good; uniting and empowering women to give together, creating transformational impact, locally and globally.

One such recipient in 2023 was the EOD Warrior Foundation under the Health and Wellness category. They strive to support the quality of life and reduce the challenges that come from volunteering to take on one of the most dangerous jobs in the military, the safe disarming and disposal of bombs and other explosives. EODWF recognizes that members of the Special Forces have the highest rate of suicide and mental health struggles that can lead to physical and familial instability. The grant from Impact100 NWF allowed them to expand their care by directly affecting two critical parts: Updating and renovating the EODWF building and expanding existing support as well as creating new programmatic support.

It's not just locally started non-profits who benefit. Even more well-known international organizations who want to serve locally, such as The Salvation Army, applied to Impact100 under the "Family" category. With its grant, The Salvation Army bought a disaster response vehicle and went to Northern Florida after Hurricane Idalia, serving 500 meals per sitting. The truck was equipped with Starlink, and it gave those who were affected a chance to reach out to family, offering some peace of mind during a devastating time. The truck doesn't just operate during natural disasters. Every week, the truck goes to Crestview on Tuesdays to feed the hungry, a day when meals aren't so readily available.

Both of these programs would have been impossible to grow with a single $1000 donation, and it would have delayed critical services as funds were gathered. However, with 100 people linking arms in each of these categories, members of our military and those who face food insecurity are already feeling the benefits of these grants.

Impact100 is also designed to vet those who are seeking a grant to ensure the money is used as outlined in the proposal. "Any organization has to be a 501c3 for at least two years upon application. So, there's some financial history that can be reviewed. We also need them to be registered with the Florida Department of Agriculture which provides the license to solicit contributions. They also have to be registered with the Florida Division of Corporations and file their reports regularly with SunBiz. We also ask that they have directors' and officers' insurance as well as general liability. We don't want to fund someone who could get sued and then lose it. If it's a religious organization, they can't require that recipients of their services prescribe to their particular faith even if they identify to one in particular. Forcing that would disqualify them from applying for our grant. Same with mandatory political affiliation."

If you are an organization ready to make a massive headway for the people you serve, then note that the Letter of Intent deadline is May 15, 2024, and the application deadline is July 15, 2024. Interested nonprofits must submit the letter of intent and meet those qualifications before being given the grant application.

How does membership work for those who want to be part of Impact100 NWF? "Many of our members will write a check and that is the extent of their involvement. That contribution, however, allows them a vote for the organization they want to offer a grant to. For those who want to get more involved, there are committees under each category and it's those people who will have a more intimate knowledge of each applicant as they get to know the founders and tour facilities.

"We want members to be able to participate in the nonprofits and activities where they want to see change. Many women join us because they want to make a difference in specific areas like education or environmental preservation. The reason we are promoting membership is each person has one vote for every $100,000 that's available. This means if we don't have the

Update on Saving the Green Space at Bluewater Bay

By Barbara Palmgren

It is exciting to report to the community that Preserve Bluewater Bay, Inc., has submitted a purchase sales agreement with Bluewater Bay Development Venture to purchase the 150 acres of green space in Bluewater Bay. All parties have signed the agreement to buy the land. There is still a need for funds to reach the goal of $2.3 million by the projected closing date of not later than April 30.

Preserve Bluewater Bay (PBWB), a not-for-profit organization created by community members who want to save 150 acres of green space in Bluewater Bay that defines this special spot of paradise, previously set a goal of raising $2.3 million by April 30, 2024, in order to purchase the land and save it from developers. Officers and members of PBWB have worked tirelessly over the past months to raise funds. So far, they've raised over $2 million in pledges, and have been granted 501(c)(3) status, meaning that donations can be tax deductible.

Yes, you are almost there. Since Preserve Bluewater Bay, Inc., has been granted the non-profit 501C3 status, more residents are making the important decision to help Bluewater Bay. The "Hi Ho Sliver" campaign to extend property lines on the golf course for those who live on the golf course is also available as a way to become a serious and needed donor.

To receive specific information and become a part of realizing this American Dream, please attend any of the community update meetings at 6 p.m. held at the clubhouse at Bluewater Bay. The dates for these meetings are: March 26, April 9 and April 23. The green space will be saved from further housing development and preserved for future generations, because a community is coming together with donations to sustain the area. I congratulate the leadership of Preserve Bluewater Bay, Inc., and all the donors for their tireless dedication to this unique community.

To those who have already pledged their commitment, thank you for your proactive support. To the rest of our community, we encourage you take advantage of this collective opportunity for preservation. Less than $300,000 is still needed to make this happen. With your help, we can cross the finish line!

Contact David Rauch at 850-865-0897 or visit "Welcome to Preserve Bluewater Bay | A Community Effort" at preservebwb.com to learn more and make a pledge.

The Magic Ingredients of The Boys & Girls Club

By LISA WOODRUM

The atmosphere was electric as I entered the gymnasium: confetti falling from above, balloons floating around, popping, the smell of pizza, rousing music resounding above the din of laughter and chatter of young and old! Youth were running about, others playing foosball, hoops and presenters at their stations ready to enthusiastically share their Club theme and expertise on their subjects.

It certainly was a great reason for this celebratory atmosphere at the Boys & Girls Club of the Emerald Coast (BGCEC). The ribbon was just cut at the front door of the Jacobe Turner Teen Center (hosted by the Fort Walton Beach Chamber of Commerce). This act initiated a

The mission of the BGCEC is: "To enable all young people, especially those that need us most, to reach their full potential as productive, caring and responsible citizens." It is evident that the staff and volunteers of this organization have successfully taught this as I spoke to the youth.

Shervin Rassa, the Chief Executive Officer shared, "I am a firm believer that our magic ingredient in our Boys and Girls Club mission is the amazing, informal mentorship young people get from dynamic and caring adults."

Here are samples of a few Clubs they offer:

Disney's Newsies Coming to NHS Stage!

Niceville High School (NHS) Theatre Department will present Disney's Broadway musical Newsies this May in the Niceville High School auditorium. "We are so excited about this production," says NHS Theatre Department Director, Ritchie Jackson. "Newsies is a high energy, feel good musical that is an audience favorite for those who have seen it, and becomes an audience favorite for those who never had."

With a score by Alan Menken and Jack Feldman and book by Harvey Firestein, the lavish production is directed and produced by Jackson, with choreography by Nicci Fahle and vocal direction by Michael Walker. The musical, based on the 1992 film and real-life events of the 1899 New York city paperboy strike, Newsies tells the story of a band of newspaper boys and girls who rally to strike against Joseph Pulitzer and other publishing titans to protest the unfair conditions that they work under. "Thanks to our amazing choreographer, Nicci Fahle and our Vocal Director Michael Walker, NHS Theatre has once again brought out the very best for our cast and crew, and the students involved in this show have done an amazing job bringing this story to life. Nicci has acted as our Choreographer in the past on 2022's A Chorus Line and last year's production of Chicago. This year we brought Michael Walker on board, and the three of us have proven to be quite a team."

NHS' Theatre Department has enjoyed tremendous successes with their past musical productions including The Little Mermaid Jr., Mamma Mia!, She Loves Me, A Chorus Line, and Chicago, and Jackson says, "I really think this show will be our highest grossing show yet. After all, it's Disney and a crowd pleaser whose message shows the power of standing up for what you believe in and what's right. Of course, it doesn't hurt that a sweet love story is woven into the show's script as well."

"If you haven't been to a NHS Theatre production before, you will find that high school theatre is not what you remember it to be. NHS produces college caliber shows, and we strive for theatrical excellence in every production that we do - that commitment is even a part of our official motto, 'Bringing theatrical excellence to the stage'. We instill in our cast and crew a real sense of doing top notch, quality theatre that not only gives our audiences an amazing show, but teaches our theatrical arts students that theatre education is no joke at NHS. The work is hard and a major time commitment for the students, with student lead and student run production teams, so that the kids get real world involvement in the creative process. These enormous productions don't just happen; you have to build them step by step and piece by piece. The kids in my department work hard to produce the high-quality shows that NHS has become known for."

Last year we only had four grants to give, so members had to choose the four categories that they wanted to vote in. This is why five grants is so important. We want every category to have a chance to grow."

With all 500 membership slots filled, exponential good could be injected into Okaloosa and Walton County. Join by April 30th and, together, positive change will be inevitable.

Impact100 has become an international organization since its start in 2001. Its founder, Wendy Steele, launched the organization to activate women through large grants that would make a massive impact. In February of this year, Wendy was named Florida's honoree for USA TO-DAY's Woman of the Year.

Niceville City Council Decides New Member by Coin Flip

In the Jan. 29 Niceville City Council meeting, a coin flip decided Doug Stauffer as its newest member after a tied vote. The vote was actually deadlocked twice on whether Stauffer or Doug Tolbert would fill the seat left vacant by former Councilman Abner Williams, who resigned due to personal circumstances. With council members not wavering on their votes, Niceville Mayor Daniel Henkel stepped in and used a coin toss to break the tie. Stauffer chose tails and tails it was!

Okaloosa County Jail Celebrates Inmate Success with 'Anchored' Program

A significant milestone was achieved within the walls of the Okaloosa County Jail in March as 34 men successfully completed Phase I of the transformative "Anchored" program, administered by the Emerald Coast Life Center. This faith-based initiative is designed to equip participants with the tools and mindset necessary to break the cycle of recidivism and substance abuse.

During the rigorous threemonth curriculum, these dedicated individuals devoted themselves to 425 hours of intensive classwork, encompassing specialized coursework aimed at dismantling barriers to rehabilitation. Additionally, they undertook the challenge of crafting three 1,200-word essays, committing three scripture verses to memory, and delivering a comprehensive book report from the Phase I reading material. The accomplishments of these men extend beyond academic achievement; they signify a profound commitment to personal growth and transformation. Through the "Anchored" program, participants embraced the opportunity to confront past traumas, discover their true identities, and cultivate positive change within themselves. Their dedication serves as a testament to their desire to become valued members of our community, as well as devoted husbands and fathers to their families. Upon completion of all program requirements, they will emerge equipped with a newfound mindset and a comprehensive understanding of the resources available to support them during challenging times post-release.

Covering Your Assets

By Julie A. Martin

Insurance is everywhere, and there are so many different kinds, it gets confusing. What kind of coverage are you supposed to have to cover your homes, cars, boats and other fun things that you and your family use? Is it Property Insurance or Casualty Insurance?

The answer is both. Property Insurance covers your homes, your condos, your furniture, electronics and all the things you use in your home that is not permanently attached to your home. Casualty Insur- ance usually refers to the items that move, such as your cars, motorcycles, boats and jet skis.

Both Property insurance and Casualty insurance include coverage for your covered items as well as liability. The liability coverage levels may go as high as 500K on a single policy. When you feel it isn't enough to protect you and your family, there is the Umbrella policy.

Umbrella policies include coverage for liability losses over and above what your primary underlying policies would pay. For instance, if you are playing golf and you accidentally hit someone in the head with a golf ball, that person can sue you if they are hurt, even if you yelled "Fore." The incident would need to be sudden and accidental in nature, as no intentional acts are covered.

The umbrella policy covers in levels from $1M to 5M, with requirements to maintain a minimum level of liability on the underlying policies for auto, boat, etc. of 250/500 Bodily Injury Liability and 100K Property Damage Liability. The minimum underlying liability requirement for home insurance or any property policies the umbrella covers would be 300K.

It is a common misconception that if someone has an umbrella policy, that its primary function is to pay out what is demanded. That is not how this works. The umbrella policy acts to defend its policyholder and attempt to keep the client from financial ruin. Many standard carriers offer umbrella coverage, and it is even possible to bundle your auto insurance with your umbrella in many cases for an extra multi-policy discount.

If you have more than one home, two cars and even one toy, whether it's a motorcycle, boat or wave runner, it would be a good idea for you to have an umbrella to cover excess liability over all of your assets. Speaking with an independent agent to find out what kind of coverage is right for you will give you the peace of mind in knowing that there are no coverage gaps. And you can live your life not worrying about your insurance!

Covering your assets is only a phone call away. For more, contact me, Client Advocate at Abora Insurance Group, at 1-800-494-1333, Julie@GetAbora.com or visit www.GetAbora.com.

Investors and their advisors often talk about sleeping well at night. We were recently reminded of the acronym of SWAN – Sleep Well at Night. We have seen consistently over time that nothing is more important to savers and investors – when considering their wealth – nothing trumps the ability or opportunity to sleep well at night.

We also think it important to point out to investors, when making an investment decision, to not lose sight of preserving capital, for at least a portion of their assets. That might be SWAN money.

Insights for Investors: Don't Forget about Capital Preservation

What about Black Swans? Have you ever heard of that term before? Most swans are ivory colored and when gazing upon them, nothing stands out, unless you spot a black swan. In the world of investing and the economy, a black swan is an event that no one sees coming, however is always on the horizon. It may not always be visible, particularly when things are going well. Ned Johnson, for many years was the Chairman and CEO of Fidelity Investments. He was heard many times saying just that: "We are most vulnerable when things are going well."

What do we, along with a lot of other people, see as black swans on the horizon? We will start with China. For many years the growth and ascent of China was seen as remarkable; plus, it attracted a lot of investor interest. China now, however, is experiencing a significant economic downturn. Some expect this to last and that government measures may not be enough to stop the decline. The term "Japanification" is being heard and seen lately. Japan, in the 90s on onward continued decline in demand and has yet to recover. We think that China's impact on the world is significant enough that it is now a black swan.

Commercial Real Estate. Many U.S. banks have made substantial loans for the construction and purchase of real estate throughout the country. This expansion of lending was substantial over the past decade and accelerated with the accommodating Federal Reserve action on rates and the money supply. Many of those loans are coming due in the next few years and perhaps will renew at much higher rates. And the underlying properties might not carry the same value. Office buildings have somewhat lower occupancv now and that could add for lower values. It is not possible to know for sure if this will have an impact (from defaults, for example) on the banking sector as well as the economy. Nonetheless, we see it as a black swan on the horizon

Third, is the so-called shadow banking system. There are a lot of examples in the system: Hedge Funds, Private Equity funds but also money market funds, exchange traded funds as well as securities broker dealers. The existence of this system is critical to the ongoing function of the economy. However, it did play a role, as did the banking system in the financial crisis in 2008. According to Business Insider, "U.S. banks have given out $1 trillion of loans to non-regulated "shadow banks." We understand that a substantial amount of that was to hedge funds and private equity funds. Market volatility can have an impact on many of the borrowers in this system. So, we see that as risk on the horizon.

The mere existence of black swans is nothing new. It is part of the reality and experience in investing. That is why we also encourage our readers and investors to always have a plan to preserve capital. In other words, have a plan and strategy for asset allocation base upon goals, time frame and, ultimately, risk tolerance.

How do you go about preserving capital? One way to is to have your emergency and opportunity money in a bank account, a CD or perhaps a money market account or fund. When it comes to your overall investments and time horizon, bonds might play a role in future capital preservation. While bonds can and do fluctuate on the open market every day (and are reflected in your statement value) they have a maturity and ultimate value. It is a way of knowing what you have and when you will have it. The return of capital, of course, is based upon the issuer. U.S. Treasuries and U.S. government agency bonds would be considered the most conservative. However, investors should also consider municipal bonds. Corporate bonds would follow next.

Some might wonder if it is the right time to invest in bonds or if they make sense if you are trying to grow your assets. Warren Buffet has always suggested that investors not be in a hurry. He was talking about stocks probably, but the lesson can be the same for a long-term plan for your investments. Many investors build their portfolio not only to be time, risk and goal appropriate, but age appropriate as well.

How is Your Powder Room?

By Stacy Sarikanon, Stunning Spaces–Decorating Den Interiors

Called all kinds of names – hall bathroom, powder room, guest bath, half bath, little's girl's or boy's room, it's probably the smallest room in your home. And, all too often, it's the most blandly decorated room in our home. And worse still, it's probably the room most often frequented by your guests!

EMERALD LADY JEWELRY

In the Best Buy Plaza, Destin 850-424-3823

So, why not let your imagination and creativity flow into overtime — make a bold statement in the room! Work on creating a focal point. It's not uncommon for these small rooms to have no window, and, let's face it, there's not much beautiful about a toilet and vanity.

Here are a few ideas you might wish to incorporate when considering giving this room a complete makeover.

1. Start with the vanity. Replacing a plain laminate top with a beautiful quartz surface might be just the ticket. Or, how about considering some of the handsome furniture pieces that are not only graciously designed, but fully functional as well. They can totally transform the space and give the small powder room a fabulous focal point.

2. Dramatic wallpaper could certainly reduce the boxy feeling these small rooms are typically known for. Think about selecting something exciting and spectacular! Today's wallcoverings come in a wide array of texture and colors just think of the drama you can create.

3. Flooring options. Consider replacing that vinyl with a new LVP (luxury vinyl plank), LVT (luxury vinyl tile) or a patterned tile floor for added character. Even a multi-patterned area rug, might add just the right touch to this often-used space.

So how about it! Check out your powder room. Could it use a little makeover – or a large redo? If so, give us a call, and let us help you create a room that your guests will be unable to stop raving about! (850) 244-2255, stacy@decoratingden. com, www.ss.decoratingden. com, Niceville.

We Celebrate with Seagrove Village Marketcafé! 75 Years of Heartwarming Friendship and Cherished Memories

Seagrove Village MarketCafé, a beloved staple of our area's own scenic Highway 30A, is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year and Bay Life joined into its recent celebration where heart-warming stories and fond memories were told.

You might not believe it, but it had its beginnings in 1949, and the café has become a nostalgic and cherished destination for locals and visitors alike, offering a taste of deep-fried love and a journey through seven and a half decades of memories.

C.H. McGee, known as, "Cube," laid the foundation for what would become a beacon of community and culinary in Seagrove Beach. His vision and appreciation for the Gulf-front land inspired the café's inception, which started as a haven for travelers seeking the necessities in a remote. untouched paradise. Ann and George Hartley, who purchased the restaurant 25 years ago in 1999, have lovingly preserved its legacy while infusing their own passion and dedication into every aspect of its operation.

The Hartley family have been South Walton locals since 1997 back when only 15-20 full-time elementary school kid families lived on 30A. Just one street over from their family home was the Seagrove Village MarketCafé. While the Hartley home was under construction, George would walk to the market and order a coke. He didn't even realize it had a restaurant in the back for months. Over time, George became a regular in the market. always ordering his favorite, the shrimp po' boy. One afternoon, he overheard the current owner mention that they were ready to retire. George simply replied, "How much do you want for it?" That one question led to a check and a handshake that would change the course of the Hartley family's future and place them on a culinary journey that has transpired into a 30A legacy.

"When Ann and I decided to purchase the Market in 1999, I honestly didn't know the first thing about owning a restaurant. I just knew that if we had good food and we served people with a smile, we could figure out all the rest," said owner George. "Throughout the years, we have learned a lot of lessons and met some of the most sincere people. They started as customers and employees and have turned into family."

The menu, rooted in Southern tradition, features signature dishes such as the iconic grouper sandwich, which Garden & Gun recognized in its "100 Southern Foods You Must Try Before You Die" list. Guests can also savor po' boy sandwiches, fresh salads and fish tacos.

"Seagrove Village Market-Café holds a special place in our hearts," says Ann. "We only get one shot to make a lasting impression on our guests, one meal to make it the best they've had all day, and one moment to show them all the love we can give. We're honored to have the opportunity to carry on Cube's legacy and share the love and spirit of Seagrove Beach with each and every guest."

As part of the year-long anniversary celebration, Seagrove

Off the Hook: Spring Fishing!

BY CALI HLAVAC. TO DO IN DESTIN

As the vibrant colors of spring emerge, fishermen and families flock to our piece of paradise around the Bay and the "World's Luckiest Fishing Village," for a spring fishing adventure. With the warming temperatures and inviting waters, springtime offers anglers an unparalleled experience filled with a variety of species and thrilling catches.

One of the most appealing aspects of spring fishing in our area is the weather. During this time of the year, temperatures range from the comfortable mid-60s to the mid-80s, creating an ideal environment for both fish and anglers alike.

Spring brings the arrival of various species to the waters off our coast, presenting anglers with a plethora of opportunities. Among the prized catches during this season are Cobia, King Mackerel, Spanish Mackerel, Sheepshead and Mahi-Mahi. These species thrive in the Gulf of Mexico's nutrient-rich waters, making them abundant targets for eager fishermen.

To reel in these coveted catches, anglers employ a variety of tried-and-tested techniques tailored to each species. For red snapper, bottom fishing near natural reefs, wrecks and ledges proves highly effective. Using live bait such as cigar minnows, pinfish or squid can entice these elusive creatures to near floating debris, weed lines, and temperature breaks. Anglers cast live bait or brightly colored lures to entice these majestic fish, which are known for their willingness to strike aggressively.

Spring fishing offers an unforgettable experience for anglers of all skill levels. Whether you're seeking the thrill of battling a trophy fish or simply enjoying a day on the water amidst stunning natural surroundings. our Emerald Coast waters never disappoint.

Baldwin Turf Expands Services and Opens The Shop at Baldwin Turf

By MICHELLE RUSCHMAN

After eight years of working in the Manhattan fashion industry, Jenny Herndon, one of the co-owners of Baldwin Turf's Lawn and Landscaping, is excited to be back home where she can enjoy the sunshine and beaches year-round again. "My brother and sister, Matthew, and Leigh Anna, have managed the landscaping side of our business for several years. With the opening of our retail store in November, it was the perfect time for me to join the family and use my merchandising background to help open the new store."

Baldwin Turf was originally acquired by their father, Tim Herndon, and his partners in 2002 to service Niceville, Ft. Walton Beach and Destin. When the company first opened, the primary business was selling sod and offering minimal landscaping services. Now, 22 years later, Tim and Wynn's three kids manage Baldwin Turf. They purchased Grass Roots Lawn & Landscape in 2020 and as a result, they've been able to expand their service area into Walton County. Their goal is to be a one-stop destination for all of our area's outdoor needs. "When Baldwin Turf started, we were mainly providing materials to other landscaping companies. Now that we've grown, our focus is on full-service lawn care. We continue to offer sod, but now we also provide lawn and landscape maintenance, irrigation installation and repairs, landscaping installations, lawn and shrub care, and turf and landscape materials. Specialty fertilizers can also be purchased."

Baldwin Turf's client base is predominantly residential, but they do have a team that can handle commercial projects as well. "Leigh Anna manages the crew, the timing of all our jobs, and takes care of schedules. Matthew meets potential customers, assesses the work needed, and oversees the projects. We have a full-time head landscaper, truck driver, and customer specialist who helps with sales and operations. In the spring and summer, we also participate in the H-2B program which provides a great crew that does incredible work."

The newest addition to their business, The Shop at Baldwin Turf, offers botanical gifts, unique gardening supplies, ambient lighting and outdoor entertainment. The inventory of furniture has also been thoughtfully selected so that it's durable and long-lasting, even with the bright sun and salty air, which can make outdoor furniture hard to maintain. The Herndon family grew up loving the outdoors and truly wants our community to enjoy it as much as they do. "We live in such an amazing place and want to help bring that to homes and businesses throughout our community. We want to help elevate your outdoor space and provide those final touches."

As Jenny settles into her new role as the manager of Baldwin Turf's retail division, she reflects on what makes this area so special to her and her family. "What I love most about coming back to Niceville is our sense of community. Being able to provide great customer service is my favorite part of the job. I'm getting to meet people and talk about their new homes and projects, and we get to be part of that. The Shop has only been open a few months and I can already see how special it is that people want to support local businesses and local businesses want to be there for people in this area. I've become involved with the Chamber of Commerce as well as The Young Professionals group. We enjoy sponsoring local youth activities and helping with charitable donations. Our community encourages all of us to step up."

Baldwin Turf's Lawn and Landscaping office is located at 1440 Live Oak Street. Call 850-897-9060 to schedule a free estimate or ask about their services. The Shop at Baldwin Turf is located at 739 John Sims Parkway.

Wildlife Is More Active in Spring

Several species of wildlife become more active in the springtime for important needs such as migration, breeding, feeding and nesting. This increased natural activity often results in people being more likely to encounter our wildlife while enjoying the outdoors. To avoid disrupting important natural behavior and to prevent conflicts with native species, following some simple tips will help conserve wildlife during spring and beyond: Injured and Orphaned

Wildlife – Generally, if you find a young animal, such as a fawn or fledgling, it is best to leave it alone. Young animals are rarely orphaned; a parent may be nearby searching for food. You can report common wildlife you think could be injured or orphaned to a licensed

Black Creek Lodge Road Freeport, FL 334-248-4437 wildlife rehabilitator.

Nesting Waterbirds Shorebirds, sea birds and wading birds start nesting this time of year and you can help by keeping your distance while on the beach or on the water. If birds become agitated or leave their nests, you are too close. When on the beach, keep an eye out for and avoid shorebird eggs and chicks, which are well-camouflaged in shallow nests in the sand and shells. Wading birds, such as herons and egrets, and pelicans also are nesting now on mangroves and tree islands.

Bats – Bat maternity season, the time when bats start to give birth and raise their young, runs from April 16 through Aug. 14. During bat maternity season,s it is illegal to block bats from their roosts. If bats are excluded during maternity season, flightless baby bats could be trapped inside structures. April 15 is the last day to legally exclude bats from your home or building without a permit. This is the time to do final spring checks of your home for any entry points, ensure that no bats are present and make any necessary repairs. If bats are found, take steps to properly install a bat exclusion device before bat maternity season begins. Exclusion devices, which allow bats to exit a structure but block them from returning to roosts, are the only legal and appropriate method to remove bats from your home or building.

Sea Turtles – These large marine turtles start nesting on Florida beaches in spring. You can help by keeping beaches dark at night and free of obstacles during their March through October nesting season. Artificial lighting can disturb nesting sea turtles and disorient hatchlings, so avoid using flashlights or cellphones on the beach at night. Turn out lights or close curtains and shades in buildings along the beach after dark to ensure nesting turtles aren't disturbed. Clear away beach gear at the end of the day and fill in holes dug in the sand that could entrap turtles.

Manatees - As manatees leave their winter habitats and travel the waterways along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and other inland waters, chances of close encounters between manatees and boaters increase. Go slow and look out below for manatees when boating or using personal watercraft. For boaters and personal watercraft users, it is a critical time to be on the lookout for manatees to avoid collisions with these large aquatic mammals. Boaters should follow posted speed limits as many areas have seasonal zones in spring that reflect manatee migration patterns.

Bears - As spring temperatures warm, bears become more active. During this time of year, females are teaching their cubs what to eat and the skills necessary to survive. To help prevent conflicts and make sure that eating garbage, pet food or bird seed in your yard is not part of that learning experience, remove or secure attractants around your property. If bears can't find food sources in your yard or neighborhood, they will move on.

Record Fundraising at Annual All-Sports Banquet

BY DOUG STAUFFER

The recent 55th Annual All Sports Banquet on the picturesque Okaloosa Island celebrated athletic combined with academic excellence and demonstrated the power of philanthropy as the community joined together to give. The Emerald Coast Convention Center was alive with the spirit of competition, not just on the fields and courts, but in the bidding war that saw donations soar to a record-breaking $126,200 from the evening auction. By the night's end, nearly $400,000 had been raised, surpassing the 2022-2023 total and setting a new benchmark for support towards area athletics.

The award winners of the evening ranged from high school sensations to professional athletes, all of whom share a commitment to academic excellence and philanthropy with a spiritual emphasis. The banquet, known for recognizing the who's-who of local talent, did not disappoint, spotlighting individuals from prep to college and the amateur ranks to the professional stage.

evening's emotion-The al pinnacle arrived when the Thomas brothers, Azareye'h and Juanyeh, took the stage. Azareye'h Thomas, an FSU defensive back lauded for helping to lead the Seminoles to an unbeaten regular season record, won the Male Collegiate Award. Meanwhile, his brother, Juanyeh Thomas, a defensive back for the Dallas Cowboys, who helped lead his team to a 12-5 season and the NFC East title, clinched the Professional Award.

Their success on and off the field was recognized by their tribute to their mother, whom they invited on stage to a standing ovation. The brothers, both Niceville High School graduates, honored her for the sacrifices that paved their paths to personal and professional achievements. One phase by Momma Thomas encapsulated the depth of her influence, "Every lesson is a blessing."

The banquet also highlighted the stars of tomorrow, with Lauren Bage and Titus Thornell winning the Female and Male Scholastic awards, respectively. Bage, a multi-sport star from Choctaw, broke barriers as the first female in town to play tackle football. She is No. 5 in her graduating class and told the crowd, "With God and hard work, all things are possible."

Thornell, a three-sport letterman, also excelled at Choctaw in football, wrestling and weightlifting. He earned a 4.36 GPA and volunteers in mentoring youth at his local church. Their stories of determination and faith echoed the sentiment that hard work and divine guidance overcome all obstacles.

Further accolades were bestowed upon Liliana Fernandez, the Female Collegiate award winner from Tulsa, and Garrison Lemire, the Taylor Haugen winner, embodying perseverance and dedication ideals.

Lemire, a Niceville senior originally from Abilene, has set his sights on Texas A&M, studying Psychology and exercise physiology. "We look up to Coach Lou and Coach Dussault, both retired marines who believe in tough love."

Other award winners include Blake Orr, an FIU javelin thrower aiming for the Junior Olympics, and Shane Patty, a Special Olympics multi-sport star and the voice of NWF State Raiders baseball and softball.

The banquet concluded on a high note, with FSU and NFL legend Warrick Dunn delivering a keynote speech resonating with his journey of overcoming adversity through faith, hard work and community support.

The 55th Annual All Sports Banquet not only celebrated the achievements of these remarkable athletes, but also underscored the importance of giving back, setting a precedent for future generations to aspire to greatness both on and off the field.

Gopher Tortoises - Florida's only native tortoise becomes more active this time of year, foraging for food and searching for a mate. If you see gopher tortoises or their halfmoon shaped burrow entrances, it is best to leave them alone. Spotted a gopher tortoise crossing a road? If it is safe to do so, you may move it out of the road in the direction it was heading (but don't put the tortoise in your vehicle). Remember the tortoise is a land animal that can't swim, so never attempt to put it into water.

Snakes – Keep an eye out for our native snakes in your yard or when hiking, as they could be encountered more as the weather warms. What should you do if you come upon a native snake? Just give it space, as snakes usually try to avoid encounters.

Wildlife and Roads – With increased wildlife activity, keep an eye out for animals crossing roadways, including larger species such as Florida panthers, bears and deer. Slowing down and obeying all posted speed limits, particularly in panther zones and areas with road signage identifying known wildlife crossings, helps keep you, other motorists and wildlife safe.

Does Hearing Loss Impact Cognition?

By Douglas L. Beck, Au.D. Doctor of Audiology

This is an often-asked question among professionals and among people with hearing loss.

The answer is variable and not as straightforward as any of us would like. One of the reasons this question is so difficult is that it may be the wrong question (see below). The answer which I have published previously, and with which I am very comfortable goes like this: "Untreated hearing loss may exacerbate cognitive decline, and even more so as hearing loss increases."

Hearing is simply detecting or perceiving sound. Listening is comprehending or understanding, or applying meaning to sounds. Listening involves auditory processing, information processing and is moreor-less a 'whole brain' event. Cognition can be defined as knowing and acquiring knowledge through sensory input (like vision and hearing) experience and thought processes. As such, the distinction between hearing and listening is pivotal in that listening and cognition involve active and intricate brain-based processing, whereas hearing is simply a detection task, requiring almost no processing at all.

Leavitt, Beck and Flexer (2023) noted the more appropriate question might have been "Would the correlation between listening and cognitive decline be even greater than those reported for hearing and cognition?" Probably yes. But measuring listening is very difficult, and measuring hearing is very easy.

As noted above, untreated hearing loss does appear to increase the risk of cognitive decline. This is not a new observation. Peters et al (1988) reported cognitive decline was greater in hearing impaired individuals and for those with Alzheimer's Disease, hearing impairment predicted a more rapid cognitive decline. Gold and colleagues (1996) reported a high prevalence of hearing loss in individuals with cognitive deficits.

Beck & Clark (2009) wrote that patients live in a world where cognition, attention, memory, and hearing interact and each plays a critical role in listening. They reported that people with hearing loss must dig deep into their cognitive reserve and cognitive abilities to make sense of a world delivered to them via compromised auditory input. Beck & Clark stated "audition matters more as cognitive ability decreases, and cognition matters more as auditory ability decreases."

Edwards (2013) reported there exists increasing evidence that hearing loss can result in cascading cognitive and psycho-social declines as well as increased cognitive load, mental fatigue, poor memory, worse auditory scene analysis, reduced attention, less focus, worse mental health, social withdrawal, and depression. He noted hearing aids may be beneficial as they may improve the quality of the auditory signal impacting the cognitive system.

Amieva, Ouvrard, Giulioli and colleagues (2015) studied 3,670 people over a 25-year period, based on self-perceived hearing loss and hearing aid use. They concluded that those who reported hearing loss had lower cognitive screening scores and they declined more rapidly than those who did not report hearing loss. Interestingly, for those with hearing loss who used a hearing aid, there was no difference in cognitive decline from the control group. The authors stated "Self-reported hearing loss is associated with accelerated cognitive decline in older adults; hearing aid use attenuates such decline."

More recently, Livingston, Huntley, Summerland and colleagues (2020) published a ground-breaking article on dementia. They reported that some 60% of your risk for e=dementia was due to aging and deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA), and the other 40% was due to 12 potentially modifiable risk factors. Of the 12, untreated hearing loss was the most significant with an 8.2% population attributable factor (PAF). The complete list includes; "Risk factors in early life (education), midlife (hypertension, obesity, hearing loss, traumatic brain injury, and alcohol misuse) and later life (smoking, depression, physical inactivity, social isolation, diabetes, and air pollution)."

Jiang, Mishra, Shrestha (2023) reviewed data from 430 thousand people who participated in the UK Bio Bank study. Participants were asked "Do you have any difficulty with your hearing?" and "Do you use a hearing aid most of the time?" There were three groups of responses. (1) no reported hearing difficulties; (2) hearing difficulties with hearing aid use (3) hearing difficulties without hearing aid use. The authors reported study participants with hearing difficulties who did not use a hearing aid had a higher

Emotionally Charged Conversations

By Stephenie Craig

Are you ever moving through life and find yourself feeling very angry or hurt by someone? Maybe you are experiencing anger or hurt at a level 10 intensity and you are noticing the situation intensity level seems to be much lower than your feeling. You might then realize you're making up a story in your head about the negative, insensitive intentions of the other person. As a result, you may find yourself withdrawing, putting up walls or being confrontational in ways that compromise connection.

Emotionally charged conversations are complex to navigate and often result in people not showing up as their best version of self. Intense feelings can fuel reactivity, shutting down, harsh words, judgment, unkindness, shame and condescending tone. While you know it feels bad to experience someone's emotional reaction, you may still find yourself reacting at times. Intense emotions are inevitable but, with practice, you can create a healthy pattern of working through your own and others' reactions.

10 Ways to Approach Emotionally Charged Conversations

1. Notice when you are triggered. Pay attention to your feelings and your body. Notice changes in body temperature, stomach, chest, feeling shaky, clenching fists, grinding teeth, tears, change in heart rate. Name feelings if you are able. "I feel embarrassed, ashamed, humiliated, angry, hurt, sad, unsafe."

2. Calm your nervous system. Take 10-20 deep breaths, step away from the situation, journal, take a walk, nurture your pet. Engage in healthy calming skills to help your body move out of fight, flight or freeze so you can think more clearly.

3. Notice the negative intention story you are making up in your head. She didn't text me back because I'm not important. He didn't make eye contact so he must not care. My child is selfish, disrespectful and trying to irritate me. Challenge the story in your head. Is it possible their behavior has another meaning than intent to hurt you?

4. Sort past and present feelings. Intense feelings are often a sign that the present situation has triggered past wounds. Reflect on whether you are bringing memories from past interactions into the current situation. Acknowledge and allow past feelings to exist in a space separate from the current situation/relationship.

5. Remember the humanity of and your history with the person. Try remembering you do not have negative intentions toward others when you emotionally react. You also do not intentionally emotionally react. Perhaps the other person had a difficult emotional moment and did not have negative intentions toward you. Remember the ongoing character of your relationship with this person. Are their intentions and behavior toward you typically positive?

6. Approach with compassionate curiosity instead of shame. Instead of, "You don't get to talk to me that way and you are being so rude and out of line," try, "You seem really overwhelmed. What's happening for you right now?" People often feel bad inside about reacting poorly. What helps them move forward is compassionate understanding rather than judgmental correction. When people feel understood with compassion, they will often apologize and move toward change.

Communicate understanding of the other's emotional state. Ask what support might be helpful on your end.

8. Own your part. Humbly seek to understand whether you contributed an unhelpful part in the relationship dynamic. Take responsibility by naming and apologizing for your part.

9. Address boundaries with vulnerability. Communicate kindly and directly how you were hurt and what would work better for you in the future. "When you snapped at me, that hurt my feelings and felt like you were blaming me. Now that we've talked, I understand that you were snapping because you were overwhelmed and it was not about me. I get overwhelmed, too. When you are getting overwhelmed, it would help me if you would let me know what you need rather than snapping at me. I will be able to support you better and that will help us stay connected."

10. Listen and repeat. Listen with an open mind to the other person's experience and repeat this process regularly when you feel triggered in relationships.

Emotionally charged conversations are difficult and can also be some of our most connecting and trust building moments when navigated with intention. Try practicing these tools and connect with us along your journey for counseling and coaching at Journeybravely.com.

cal? There are so many reasons! For starters, we are the only locally owned CPAP supplier in the area. Our family owned and operated office handles the entire process in house. So, if you have questions or concerns about your therapy, an order or supplies you can stop by and chat with us directly! Or if you need to call us, you can rest assured knowing you will get a human on the other end of the line. Every Monday through Friday from 9-5, you'll be greeted in the store or on the phone by Amber, Kim, Jimmy, Brandon, Kenn or Kelly.

Our team of professionals is incredibly knowledgeable about CPAP usage, therapy and products; as well as insurance and provider issues. Proudly serving Niceville for the last 22 years, we know the area well regarding all of the surrounding doctors and medical resources. The owners and most of the staff have lived in Niceville for most of their lives. You have probably seen us around town and might have even gone to school with some of us! And thanks to our valued customers and patients, we are able to give back to the community and support local youth sports, school events and charitable organizations.

We are authorized providers for Medicare and Tricare, risk of later being diagnosed with all-cause dementia than those without hearing loss. Participants with hearing difficulties who used a hearing aid did not. They also reported "up to 8% of dementia cases could be prevented with proper hearing loss management, our findings highlight the urgent need to take measures to address hearing loss to improve cognitive decline."

Bottom Line: It appears extremely likely that untreated hearing loss increases the risk of cognitive decline in many people—not all. The risk of cognitive decline varies tremendously based on DNA, age, overall cognitive, emotional, physical health, the type and degree of hearing loss and much, much more.

Regarding whether hearing aid fittings slow cognitive decline, and if so, would OTC and prescription hearing aids offer the same benefit? No one knows. There are certainly studies which have found that treating hearing loss with professionally fit hearing aids appears to have a "normalizing effect" (see Amieva, 2015, and see Jiang, Mishra and Shrestha 2023), but this did not occur with every single participant. Further, there are no peer-reviewed studies regarding OTC and long-term cognitive outcomes.

If I had to make a strong statement on these matters in Fall 2023, I am comfortable say-and strive to be a reliable CPAP provider for our local community. We offer dozens of styles of masks with hundreds of size/ option combinations. We also carry CPAP supplies and accessories from chin straps, to mats, to cleaners and so much more! And we stock everything on site! If you're a new Medicare or Tricare CPAP patient, or you're unhappy with your current supplier, stop by to say hello and get to know more about J&B Medical. Find out why so many of your neighbors prefer us over the nationwide providers. We think you'll find that we'll be a good fit for you, too!

ing the following:

• Untreated hearing loss increases the risk of cognitive decline in many people.

• Professionally fit hearing aids often appear to be useful regarding altering the trajectory of cognitive decline in high risk, willing and able people.

• Just like in all other areas of medicine and healthcare, early detection and treatment is the most successful and most likely to succeed.

Love and Legacy: NWFMOA's Valentines for Veterans

BY DOUG STAUFFER

In a touching tribute to community and service, the Northwest Florida Military Officers Association (NWFMOA) celebrated its 2nd Annual Valentines for Veterans event, a gesture of love and respect to the veterans residing at the Bob Hope Village, part of the Air Force Enlisted Village. This special event, founded in 2023 on the initiative of General Ron Folgeman, former Air Force Chief of Staff, is becoming a tradition, embodying the spirit of Valentine's Day through community outreach and intergenerational connections. Retired Brigadier General Fran Hendricks resurrected Valentines for Veterans for NWFMOA last year following the community outreach initiative he did while he was the 96th Wing Commander at Eglin (2002-2004).

Under the guidance of their teachers and Principal Lisa Tucker, Longwood Elementary School students made the heartwarming journey to Bob Hope Village, delivering over 300 handmade Valentines to the eagerly waiting residents. The children's efforts ensured that no one was left out of this celebration of love and appreciation, marking the event with smiles, laughter, and an abundance of hugs, solidifying it as a resounding success for the second year.

The musical contributions of the Emerald Coast Chorus further enhanced the celebration by adding a layer of festive joy to the atmosphere. Yet, it was not just the performances and Valentines that made the day memorable. The presence and words of Dr. Lamar White, an Okaloosa County School Board member, lent a deep resonance to the occasion. His connections to the military are awe-inspiring. "I love the military, but also have deep military connections in my family," said Dr. White. "I am the son of a U.S. Army Korean War Veteran and married to Connie, whose father was a retired U.S. Air Force pilot. Connie's dad flew the P-47 against the Nazis when he was nineteen at the beginning of his career and ended his career in Vietnam, flying the F-105. I was blessed to see these school children providing the valentines and the association's participation with the Bob Hope Village residents."

Key members of the NWF-MOA, including Tom Azar, Ray Alexander, Dick Solt, Dave Parisot, Fred Westfall, Rod Gerdes, Mel Claxton, Bob Allen, Kim Wintner and Fran Hendricks, were in attendance. Their support underscored the collective effort behind the association's endeavors. The unveiling of the new NWFMOA Chapter Banner, led by Jim Shoff, was a proud moment, symbolizing the association's growth and ongoing commitment to its mission. The NWFMOA, a non-profit organization comprising over 200 active, retired and separated officers from the Uniformed Services, along with surviving spouses, invites individuals to join its ranks and partake in a broad spectrum of social, cultural, professional and service activities. With a history of excellence and service, the association remains dedicated to advocating for military rights and benefits and supporting legislative actions in favor of all veterans through its affiliation with the Military Officers Association of America (MOAA).

For those inspired by service, community and legacy values, the NWFMOA offers a welcoming platform for engagement and support. Additional information about the association and its activities can be found at www.nwfmoa.org, inviting all interested parties to explore how they can contribute to and benefit from this distinguished community.

Hypo and Hyper Thyroidism

By Kay Leaman, HealthyDay HealthyLife

The thyroid is located at the base of the neck just below the Adam's apple. Hormones produced by the thyroid control energy, metabolism, heart rate, protein synthesis, cholesterol and triglyceride metabolism, bone metabolism, sleep, brain functions and more. It is not uncommon for a misdiagnosis to be given (hypo) as there are other issues that cause the thyroid to be compromised. That being said let's look at the two main issues:

HYPERthyroidism, also called overactive thyroid, occurs when there is an overproduction of the thyroid hormone call thyroxine (T4). Symptoms include unexpected weight loss, tachycardia (rapid heartbeat) nervousness, anxiety/irritability, fatigue or muscle weakness, plus up to 10 other symptoms.

Treatments depend on the cause. One treatment is radioactive iodine which is used to slow production. Some causes allow for the thyroid issues to improve without treatment. Supplementation does not affect this disease.

A few causes are:

• Grave's disease: autoimmune disorder which causes the immune system to attack the thyroid.

• Thyroiditis: the gland becomes inflamed; the reasons are unclear. This can cause extra thyroid hormones being stored to leak into the bloodstream causing symptoms of hyperthyroidism.

• Complications: Heart: atrial fibrillation and congestive heart failure, brittle bones, vision problems, discolored or swollen skin

HYPOthyroidism is a deficiency in the secretion of thyroid hormones resulting in a reduction of normal functions if not all of the body's cells and tissues. When this glad is under-active, cells can't properly take in macro & micro nutrients nor receive adequate oxygen. It also causes cellular toxic waste not to be eliminated efficiently. Less than 50% of the population suffers with some degree of hypothyroidism and affects women more than men.

Possible symptoms which can be confused with normal aging is a long list (To request this list, email me with Thyroid Symptoms in the Subject line.).

Thyroid hormones are T3, T4 and Calcitonin (regulation of blood calcium and bone metabolism). T3 has 3 iodine atoms; T4 has 4.

Other causes are:

1. Inflammatory disorder - autoimmune disorder -Hashimoto's thyroiditis most common in developed nations (otherwise it's iron deficiency) and may be triggered by a hyper-permeable intestinal lining known as leaky gut syndrome

- 2. Leaky Gut
- 3. Genetics
- 4. Poor diet
- 5. Hormone imbalances
- 6. Pregnancy
- 7. Psychological stress
- 8. Inactivity

For a complete picture of thyroid activity, request these six tests:

• TSH (reference ranges .3-3.0 NOT .5-5.0)

- Free T3
- Free T$
- Reverse T#

• Thyroid antibodies (TPO Ab)

 $\bullet$  Thyroglobulin Antibodies  $(Tg\;AB)$

Natural support:

• Grape Seed extract and other polyphenolic antioxidants (essential component of the protocol for autoimmune and inflammatory diseases as these have oxidative damage in its pathogenesis).

• Probiotics

• Iodine: 250-300 micrograms cause a significant improvement in alleviating hypothyroidism. Because many of us have moved from iodized salt to more natural salts (sea salt), supplementing with a quality iodine can cause significant improvement in alleviating hypothyroidism.

• Foundation of vitamins minerals and omega-3 fatty acids

As with any ailment, we are all at risk of developing a thyroid disorder. Continuing to develop a healthy lifestyle and improving it as we learn will continue to offer us many benefits.

6 Ways to Improve Your Heart Health

MARIA LAHTI, M.D., AND LAUREN STIPP, M.D., SACRED HEART EMERALD COAST

Every year, we set great resolutions for our health. Unfortunately, we usually forget them quickly. This year, don't miss the opportunity to reprioritize your heart health. Heart disease is the leading cause of death for both men and women according to the CDC, but many cardiac events are preventable. There are no quick fixes, but there are some easy steps you can take to make a difference.

Follow these tips to take control of your heart health in 2024.

Tip 1: See Your Doctor for Annual Screening

Your risk of developing heart disease increases as you age. According to research published by the Journal of the American Heart Association, people over age 40 have a 1-in-4 lifetime risk of developing AFib, or atrial fibrillation, a common heart rhythm condition. Scheduling regular visits with your primary care doctor and any specialists you see can help catch problems sooner rather than later, which can be lifesaving in some cases.

Especially if you experience high blood pressure or high cholesterol, make doctor's visits a priority to keep a close eye on your heart health. At Ascension St. Vincent's, our teams of primary care doctors and cardiologists, including those at our hospital in St. Johns County, can provide you with the most effective screening methods to check for heart disease and other conditions

Tip 2: Monitor Your Heart Health

Many of our patients use personal technology, like portable medical-grade EKG devices, to help monitor their hearts from home. These devices can help doctors detect heart rhythm irregularities sooner, which can sometimes help make a diagnosis or even prevent a stroke. But not all technology is created equal. For example, a less complex heart rate monitor and one that is built to be an EKG-grade device may show differing results.

Tip 3: Avoid Excessive Stress

We all experience stress, but excessive and prolonged stress can contribute to heart issues like blood vessel constriction and high blood pressure, elevating the risk of a heart attack and stroke. Regular exercise is a key stress reducer. Whether it's a brisk walk, yoga, or a fitness class, physical activity benefits both the heart and mental health

Tip 4: Focus on Moderation

Alcohol is often linked to heart problems, notably increasing the risk of AFib. An observational study in the European Heart Journal found that even one daily glass of wine or beer led to a 16 percent higher risk of developing AFib (compared to not drinking). AFib, in turn, increases the risk of stroke, heart failure, and cardiac arrest. While enjoying a glass of wine is fine, moderation is key. Exceeding two drinks in a day is never heart-healthy.

Tip 5: Stick to Healthy Eating Habits

Try to limit salty foods, such as canned or processed foods. Also limit high-fat foods, such as red meat, cheese, and baked goods. When it comes to a heart-healthy diet, the important thing is to maintain balance. A Mediterranean-style diet high in vegetables, fruits, lean proteins, and whole grains has been shown to promote weight loss and reduce heart disease risk.

Tip 6: Know the Signs of Stroke and Don't Delay Treatment

Recognizing the warning signs of stroke can protect both yourself and your loved ones. The important acronym to remember for identifying a stroke is B.E. F.A.S.T. That stands for balance, eyes/vision loss, face drooping, arm weakness, speech difficulty, and time to call 911. It's common to mistake or minimize the signs of stroke, but don't delay treatment. Call 911.

Hurricane Season is Less Than 100 Days Away Is Your Roof Ready?

Living in Florida comes with its own set of challenges, including hot summers, intense humidity, and the ever-present threat of hurricanes. As we count down to the start of the Atlantic Hurricane Season on June 1, it's crucial to be mindful of the potential activity in the Atlantic this year. While we are in no rush for the season to begin, let's look at some signs that may paint a picture of what activity in the Gulf may be like this year.

Water Temperatures While water temperatures will always change depending on how the regional and global weather patterns behave, it is important to note that we are seeing warmer-than-average water temperatures already across a good chunk of the Atlantic Basin. If water temperatures stay above average, the extra warmth can always be a good source of energy for potential and developing tropical cyclones.

La Niña? Additionally, the possibility of a La Niña event developing during the upcoming summer season is on the rise. La Niña, characterized by cooler equatorial waters in the Pacific, tends to reduce wind shear across the Atlantic, creating more favorable atmospheric conditions for tropical storms and hurricanes to enter the Gulf. In contrast, El Niño, marked by warming eastern Pacific waters, typically increases wind shear in the Atlantic, hindering storm development or steering them into the Atlantic as we saw last year. La Niña's influence on global weather patterns is significant. It leads to less wind shear across the Atlantic, meaning atmospheric conditions are more favorable for tropical storms and hurricanes in the basin. La Niña events also contribute to cooler equatorial waters in the Pacific, impacting global weather patterns. While there are currently no official forecasts from CSU, NOAA, or other outlets, considering the potential influence of La Niña and the continuation of warmer-than-average ocean temperatures, an above-average season in terms of named storms is plausible.

With hurricane season looming, homeowners need to prepare their homes and families for potential storms. Now is the time to ensure your home is prepared for any hurricanes that may come our way this year. Ensuring your roof is prepared for hurricane season is paramount to safeguarding your home and loved ones against the destructive forces of severe weather.

Here's a breakdown of essential steps every homeowner should consider:

Early Preparation: Start preparing your roof well in advance of hurricane season to alleviate stress when storms approach. Document everything before the storm hits. Documenting and photographing your roof before the storm hits could be invaluable for insurance purposes. In the event of damage, thorough documentation streamlines the insurance claims process, enabling quicker repairs. Keep records of maintenance and pre-storm conditions to facilitate a smoother resolution with your insurance provid-

Professional Inspection: opt for a professional roof inspection to identify and address any issues before they escalate during a storm. This proactive approach not only saves money but also ensures your roof is in optimal condition to withstand hurricane-force winds and rain.

Roof Maintenance Plan: Consider enrolling in a comprehensive maintenance plan. These plans include licensed contractor inspections, early problem detection, routine maintenance and a stress-free experience when a storm damages your home. The RoofPro Roofing Maintenance Plan offers an industry-first protection plan, putting you first on the list for emergency tarping after a storm. No need to call around to find a roofer to protect your home, they will be there as soon as the wind dies to tarp the roof at no charge to you. They will then assist you in the claims process to get your roof repaired in a timely manner.

Clean Surroundings: Trim trees and clean gutters to prevent debris from becoming projectiles during high winds and to ensure proper water drainage, mitigating potential roof damage.

Roof Type Consideration: Understand the specific maintenance needs of your roof type. Whether it's asphalt shingles or metal roofing, address issues like loose or missing shingles to fortify your roof's resilience against hurricanes. Metal and tile roofs have stronger resistance to high winds than shingle roofs. A new shingle roof will hold much better than a shingle roof over 10 years old. This better wind resistance is due to the adhesives within the shingles. If your carrier has told you to change your roof soon or they will drop you, it's because of this - a new shingle roof will hold on through high winds better than an older shingle roof. If this is the case with your roof, it may be time to replace the roof before storm season.

Post-Storm Inspection: Following a storm, promptly schedule a thorough roof inspection by professionals to detect any hidden damage. Timely repairs are crucial to prevent water intrusion and further structural deterioration. If you have any damage to your roof, it's best to get it repaired as soon as possible! During a hurricane, your home can experience winds up to 155 mph. Damage to your roof could be from wind, rain, debris, or all three. By prioritizing these measures, you can fortify your roof against the formidable forces of hurricanes, ensuring your home remains safe and secure during change. My childhood friend owns and operates a very successful business similar to ours in central Florida. We immediately saw the need for this service in our area. I went down and trained with him, learned the business and the rest is history."

So, what is it about our area that makes this business so valuable? "Most people don't realize that sliding glass doors require routine maintenance, especially in our coastal area. Sand, salt water, salty air and chlorine cause excessive corrosion to the wheel system underneath the door. The doors have to be lifted off and the bottom panels removed to see this damage.

Sliding doors are very heavy doors. They sit on a roller system that consists of a set of wheels that sit on a track. This system is designed to balance the weight of the doors and make them glide smoothly and easily. When this system starts to fail, the doors start to feel heavy.

Over time the wheels and bearings go bad and need to be changed. Once this occurs, almost everyone assumes they need new doors. The doors just keep getting heavier and harder to open with time. This progression eventually breaks handles and damages the track the rollers sit on. There are different levels of track damage, but the longer you let it go the more extensive and expensive the repairs can get.

We get stuck, noisy, difficult-to-open sliding glass doors rolling open like new again. This includes roller replacement, track repair, door handles, security locks, alignment, and lubrication of the door."

During a time when everything has gone up in price, including brand-new sliding glass doors, repairs are a much more cost-effective alternative.

Trevor and Tina have lived in the same neighborhood in Destin for over 25 years and have seen a lot of changes. They know and love our coastal beach towns and feel privileged to serve a community that gives so much. "Our neighbors look out for each other, and we love to be a part of that through our business as well. We've partnered with some fantastic property managers who immediately saw the value and skill in the work we provide."

Since opening, what has been the best part of starting their business? "We love the surprise homeowners experience once they see the functionality of their doors. You will be amazed by the peace you feel just by being able to stop fighting with your door daily."

A Pastor's Ponderings: Remembering a Time When Your Word Was Your Bond

By Doug Stauffer, Pastor Faith Independent Baptist Church

In a world where dependability seems to be waning, the stories of biblical figures such as Abraham, Moses, Peter and Mary Magdalene stand out as examples of biblical faithfulness. Their lives offer profound lessons on its importance. These accounts illuminate the past and offer timeless wisdom for life today.

Abraham exemplifies faithfulness by obeying God's call to leave his homeland without knowing his destination. His journey from Ur of the Chaldees symbolizes a leap of faith grounded in trust and commitment to God's promise. This act of faithfulness is not just about Abraham's departure, but his steadfast belief in God's promise to make of him a great nation. His story teaches us that faithfulness involves trust AND ACTION, even when the path ahead is completely unknown.

Moses, another model of faithfulness, led the Israelites out of Egyptian bondage and received the Ten Commandments, foundational to the Judeo-Christian faith. Despite significant challenges and setbacks, Moses' perseverance teaches us the importance of steadfastness in pursuing a greater purpose, even when the journey is fraught with extreme difficulties. His persistence in leading his people, despite their disobedience, demonstrates the power of enduring faith in leadership.

One of the 12 apostles, Peter, exhibits a different dimension of faithfulness. Despite his initial denial of Jesus, repentance and subsequent role as an early Church leader, his life highlights the themes of forgiveness and redemption. Peter's journey from denial to devotion underscores that faithfulness can involve growth, learning from past failures and embracing a blessed transformation. This example reminds us that faithfulness is not about perfection, but learning from past failures and moving forward with renewed commitment.

Mary Magdalene's unwavering loyalty to Jesus, especially during the crucifixion and as the first witness to His resurrection, exemplifies faithfulness in the face sons about trust, perseverance, redemption and loyalty. As we navigate life's complexities, these stories should inspire us to cultivate a deeper sense of faithfulness in our relationships, pursuits, and spiritual journey. Doing so enriches our lives and all those within our sphere of influence.

Dr. Doug Stauffer is pastor of Faith Independent Baptist Church. He was saved July 6, 1980, in Niceville, while stationed at the 33rd Tactical Fighter Wing at Eglin Air Force Base and has now been in the ministry for over 35 years.

of utter despair. Her story is a testament to the power of steadfast love and loyalty, even when days for her were darkest. It reminds us that true faithfulness often shines brightest against trials and tribulations.

At the core of these narratives is a profound understanding of faithfulness, not just as a religious virtue, but as a guiding principle throughout life. The Proverb, "Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth, and a foot out of joint," vividly illustrates the pain and dysfunction unfaithfulness brings, further emphasizing the value of being dependable and true to one's word and commitments. Some of us are old enough to remember the meaning of a "Gentleman's Agreement" and "when a handshake sealed the deal." A man's word was his bond, but, today, talk seems cheap, and bonds are easily broken when a more lucrative deal passes by.

In an era where commitments can be fleeting and reliability is often in short supply, these stories beckon us to consider the depth of OUR faithfulness. The biblical emphasis on faithfulness as a virtue essential for a fulfilling and righteous life encourages us to evaluate our reliability and integrity in every aspect of life.

The biblical narratives of faithfulness teach us valuable les-

Sean of the South

BY SEAN DIETRICH

Easter Sunday. An Episcopal church in Birmingham. Vaulted ceilings. Ornate masonry. A pipe organ. A choir dressed in lacework cottas. Individual stained-glass windows that cost more than tactical government helicopters. The whole works.

My wife and I arrived late. The place was loaded with parishioners in pastel colors. There were no available seats in the back.

"We have room on the front row," said the usher.

"The front row?" I said. 'Isn't there anywhere else? Somewhere less... Frontal?"

He shook his head. "Full house today, sir."

I am not a front pew guy. I come from mild, soft-spoken fundamentalist people who hug each other sideways; we prefer to fill up the sanctuary from the back to the front.

He guided us to the front pew so that we were practically sitting in the priest's lap. The whole church was looking at us.

Service began. The organ bellowed. People stood.

Before we sang the first song, a kid in the pew behind me started making flatulent sounds with his mouth. I could not concentrate.

As a former little boy, I am qualified to tell you that these were not just your run-of-themill mouth-based sound effects. These were long, juicy, squirty sounds that, if I hadn't known better, sounded like minor digestive issues.

And he never quit. During the communal singing, the kid made this noise. During the call to worship: The Noise. During the Lord's Prayer: nuclear blasts.

back of my neck as the boy's sustained raspberry sounds reverberated off the stone walls. I was certain someone would tell the boy to knock it off, but it never happened.

the child a stern look.

dressed festively in a seersucker jumpsuit adorned with lace.

His mother smiled. I grinned back, hoping she'd get my drift and put an end to her son's newfound talent. But she didn't.

Ι So tried to deal with it. Throughout the service, the kid made even louder sounds and I made greater attempts to ignore him. But it was difficult, inasmuch as I could feel the windspeeds from his mouth-trombone moving the hair on the back of my head.

Occasionally, I would look around at other parishioners to gauge their reactions, but nobody was paying attention to the kid. It was incredible. Even though this boy's sphincter-like tones were rattling the windows, I was the only one in the Western Hemisphere who noticed this child.

When the choir stood for the offertory song, I tried to tune the kid out completely. I focused on the music. I closed my eyes. I listened to the a capella choral arrangement, bowing my head, reflecting on spiritual matters, when all of a sudden...

Somebody ripped one.

At least that's what it sounded like. The kid had upped the ante this time. He wasn't just making basic mouth sounds anymore. He was raspberrying the national anthem. The back of my neck was painted in a fine spray of toddler saliva.

I leaned over to my wife. "I

"That kid. He's making noise."

"What kid?"

"What kid? Junior the Incredible Tooting Toddler. Don't you hear him?"

"Just don't pay attention to him."

"He's spitting on me."

Someone across the aisle shushed me.

Finally, it was time for communion. Several hundred of us filed toward the altar, and who do you think was standing behind me? That's right. Toot-Zil-

The kid was making his lip noises while standing in line, bouncing on his mother's hip.

I'd had enough. I was just about to say something to the kid's mother when she spoke first. She told me she didn't have a free hand for receiving communion. So she asked if I would watch her son for a moment while she approached the altar and took the Sacrament. I said sure.

So she left him with me for a moment. He stood beside my leg and looked up at me with tap-water blue eyes. And I have to admit, this child was cute.

"You shouldn't be making those sounds in church," I told him.

"Raah baah baah waah," he said.

"That's no excuse."

"Aaaggghhh."

"People are trying to be reverent here."

"Waaah daah haah baah faaah.'

"You're not even sorry, are you?"

He drooled on himself.

When his mother finished receiving the Eucharist, she came back to us and lifted her son into her arms. I wished her a happy Easter. She returned the favor. Then I wished the kid a happy Easter and his little face erupted in a smile.

"Haaappah eeeee-saaaah!" he shouted.

My heart officially melted. I pinched his nose, and the kid responded by making that familiar loud sound again.

Only this time his lips didn't move.

I hope you had a happy Easter. I know he did.

Sinfonia Becomes Orchestra of Nearly 3,000 Students During Link Up: The Orchestra Rocks

On March 6, the Destin-Fort Walton Beach Convention Center in Fort Walton Beach was transformed into an electrifying concert hall when Sinfonia Gulf Coast — the only fully professional non-profit orchestra on the Emerald Coast founded in 2005 by music and artistic director Demetrius Fuller — presented its 12th live Link Up concert performance "The Orchestra Rocks," a national program it presented in partnership with New York's Carnegie Hall Weill Institute of Music.

This year's Link Up program showcased the talents of nearly 3,000 local 3rd-5th grade students from Okaloosa and Walton Counties performing on recorder and singing. The concert was conducted by Sinfonia Gulf Coast Maestro Fuller.

With recorders in hand, the students performed from their seats when given their cue by Maestro Fuller to join the Sinfonia Gulf Coast orchestra for a range of pieces from Come to Play by Thomas Cabansis, La Follia by Antonio Vivaldi, excerpts from Igor Stravinsky's The Rite of Spring, O Fortuna from Carmina Burana and others. But these inspired kids didn't stay in their seats at this spirited performance which ended with a celebration of Chuck Berry's Johnny B. Goode they were up out of their chairs singing, dancing moves and parts they have been practicing for months.

This curriculum is geared towards 3rd-5th grade students, and in many cases locally, is the only music education that they receive during the school year. The theme of this year's Link Up program was centered around discovering how elements of rhythm and time can unite musicians, singers and audiences.

Sinfonia's Link Up program is funded in part by the St. Joe Community Foundation, the Dugas Family Foundation and the Emeril Lagasse Family Foundation. Additional fund-
