Thanks to Dog-Harmony, More Tails Are Wagging in Niceville

BY CHRISTIE SOLOMON

Where the therapy dogs' wagging tails go, you'll find Niceville students learning empathy toward animals and each other, and patients are healing faster with smiles. Dog-Harmony, a 501(c)(3) affiliate of Intermountain Therapy Animals (ITA), evaluates and manages therapy dog teams in Bay, Walton, and Okaloosa counties in Northwest Florida.

Dog-Harmony currently coordinates 12 volunteer therapy dog teams that serve public and nonprofit organizations in the Niceville area through animal-assisted interactions, including the R.E.A.D.ing Paws program. Partners include Bluewater Elementary School, James E. Plew Elementary School, Addie R. Lewis School (Valparaiso), Emerald Coast Children's Advocacy Center, Niceville Public Library, and HCA Florida Twin Cities Hospital.

Dog-Harmony is dedicated to reducing the shelter dog population through ongoing, community-focused, humane education and therapy dog programs that enrich the human-animal bond.

What is Humane Education?

"Humane education [is] designed to cultivate compassion for humans, animals, and/or the environment." The Animal Legal Defense Fund states that the field "exists to foster creative and critical thinking skills within people, which enable them to make benevolent choices and enhance respect for the natural world and its inhabitants."

Access to humane education programming for children is critical as they begin developing empathy skills and humane attitudes.

The Role of Therapy Dogs in Humane Education

Therapy dog teams, consisting of an evaluated therapy dog and handler, support Dog-Harmony's humane education and responsible dog care programs for children and families, helping them practice what they learn. At the end of November, 4,250 children in Okaloosa and Walton counties had attended Dog-Harmony's humane education programs in 2025.

Studies have shown that humane education programs improve children's empathy toward animals and, in turn, each other.

A study of 257 students, aged 10 to 17, who participated in The Marine Humane Society's after-school humane education programs between the Fall of 2014 and the Spring of 2018, revealed that the students' evaluation scores improved for both treatment of animals and empathy (attitudes towards other people) after completing the eight-week program.

A 2021 study of 110 third-grade students in Hong Kong found that class-based, animal-assisted humane education increased cognitive competence and empathy and reduced hyperactivity among participants. The researchers also identified three central qualitative themes from the study: "enhancement of self-control, promotion of humane attitude, and improvement of reading skills."

Published in 2023, the results of an academic-year-long study of 605 first-grade students in six schools across four cities in eastern China revealed that the animal and nature content of the country's humane education program, "Caring for Life," increased the students' affective and cognitive empathy scores. Affective empathy, associated with altruistic and prosocial behaviors in children, is the ability to share others' emotions, whereas cognitive empathy is the ability to understand them.

R.E.A.D.ing Paws Program

In addition to empathy, therapy dogs can also encourage a love of reading. Dog-Harmony is an affiliate of ITA's R.E.A.D.ing Paws (Reading Education Assistance Dogs) program, an initiative designed to help children build confidence and improve their literacy skills with the help of trained therapy dogs and their handlers. Evaluated therapy dog teams interested in participating in this program are required to take the R.E.A.D.ing Paws workshop and undergo (human) background checks before being put into service.

The Human Animal Bond Research Institute (HABRI) states, "Children have reported liking the animal and enjoying reading to them, increasing their motivation to read... Pets are not judgmental, they do not laugh [or] criticize, and allow children to read at their own pace. Dogs can reduce the stress reactions of children performing a stressful task."

In the Twin Cities area, Dog-Harmony currently manages 3 R.E.A.D.ing Paws therapy dog teams that visit Bluewater Bay Elementary School, Addie R. Lewis School, James E. Plew Elementary School, and Niceville Public Library.

Therapy Dogs in Health Settings

In addition to social and emotional learning and literacy benefits for children in schools, interactions with therapy dogs can actively reduce stress and anxiety in medical and at-risk youth advocacy settings. Therapy dogs can improve human mental and physiological health through acceptance, physical comfort, mental stimulation, socialization, and entertainment through animal-assisted interactions.

According to HABRI, animal-assisted interactions have been shown to positively "influence levels of blood pressure, heart rate, [and] hormones correlated with well-being, including cortisol, oxytocin, β -endorphin, prolactin, phenylacetic acid and dopamine."

Ways to Get Involved

Dog-Harmony founder, Nancy Bown, a Certified Professional Dog Trainer-Knowledge Assessed (CPDT-KA), knows that the continued growth of the organization's therapy dog program relies on volunteers and the generosity of corporate sponsors and individual donors.

"We are always looking for new volunteers to make this program successful," says Bown. "We need both new therapy dog teams and team support volunteers without dogs."

Compassionate support volunteers help coordinate therapy dog visits in hospitals and support Dog-Harmony teams in the community. This support volunteer role provides an opportunity to shadow current therapy dog teams and offers insights into a potential future team role paired with an evaluated therapy dog.

BOYS & GIRLS CLUB

The two-day initiative was led in partnership with Derrick Brooks Charities, AT&T, and Compudopt. A total of 125 laptops were distributed at the Fort Walton Beach club location and another 125 in Pensacola, with recipients identified through local clubs based on need.

“Tonight, you could see what opportunity looks like on a child’s face,” said Shervin Rassa, CEO of the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Emerald Coast. “For many of our club kids, this is the first laptop that’s truly theirs — not one borrowed from a school, library or relative. From the earliest grades through high school, a device at home is now essential. Thanks to Derrick Brooks Charities, AT&T, and Compudopt, we’re closing a gap we all saw so clearly during COVID and opening doors for families across the Emerald Coast.”

Eligible households also qualified for up to one year of AT&T Fiber internet at no cost through a philanthropic program administered by Compudopt, helping ensure students not only receive devices but can fully use them for schoolwork, research and safe online learning.

Beyond Devices:
Building Futures Through Mentorship

While the laptop initiative addresses an immediate and critical need, it reflects the broader mission at work every day inside Boys & Girls Club facilities serving Okaloosa County families.

That mission was highlighted in 2024 during the grand reopening of the Jacobe Turner Teen Center in Fort Walton Beach, a space many families rely on for after-school programming, mentorship and enrichment opportunities for teens.

The center honors the legacy of Jacobe Turner, a longtime club member and the organization’s 2019 Youth of the Year who tragically lost his life in 2020. His name now represents a renewed commitment to serving teens at a pivotal stage of life.

Inside the upgraded facility, youth participate in programs such as Passport to Manhood, Smart Girls, robotics, and career readiness — gaining skills that range from teamwork and leadership to budgeting, interviewing and public speaking.

Conversations with students reveal confidence, maturity and optimism about their futures.

“I am a firm believer that our magic ingredient is the informal mentorship young people get from dynamic and caring adults,” Rassa said. “That’s what makes our clubs more than just a place to go after school — it’s where young people discover who they can become.”

The renovation and modernization of the teen center were made possible through generous support from Florida Power & Light and the All Sports Association, Inc., allowing the organization to better serve teens from Niceville, Valparaiso and surrounding communities.

A Fundraiser with Flavor and Purpose

Sustaining and expanding these programs requires ongoing community support, and one of the most anticipated annual, fundraising events of the year is happening soon.

The 7th Annual Shrimp & Grits Festival will take place Saturday, Feb. 28, 2026, from 4 to 7:30 p.m. at the Mattie Kelly Cultural Arts Village. The event brings together local restaurants, live entertainment and community supporters for an evening benefiting Boys & Girls Club programs throughout the region — including those serving Okaloosa County families.

Attendees will enjoy unlimited shrimp and grits tastings as area chefs compete for the title of Best Shrimp & Grits on the Emerald Coast, along with craft beverages and live music. This year’s festival will feature a performance by rising country artist Erin Kinsey, adding a new level of excitement to the event.

“Every year, the Shrimp & Grits Festival grows in impact,” Rassa said. “This year’s move to the Mattie Kelly Cultural Arts Village and the addition of Erin Kinsey mark an exciting new chapter. Every ticket purchased directly supports the futures of the thousands of club kids we serve across the region.”

General admission tickets are $100, with VIP tickets available for $175, including early entry, exclusive culinary experiences, access to a private lounge and premium concert seating. Proceeds support Boys & Girls Club programs in Pensacola, Crestview, South Walton, DeFuniak Springs, Destin and Fort Walton Beach.

Training for the Long Run: A Smarter Way to Think About Your Health

BY DR. KAREN DEVORE, TORTOISE CLINIC

If you've ever laced up your shoes for a long walk, a run, or even just committed to showing up for yourself day after day, you already understand something fundamental about health: real progress takes time.

In my work, I see it constantly—people who are frustrated, exhausted, and overwhelmed because they've tried everything. The detox teas. The extreme cleanses. The 30-day challenges promising a brand-new body and life by next month. And when those promises inevitably fall short, they blame themselves.

Here's the truth I want you to hear clearly: your body is not the problem. The problem is the belief that wellness should be fast, dramatic, and immediate.

Health doesn't work that way. It never has.

The Myth of the Quick Fix

We live in a culture that celebrates instant results. Faster internet. Overnight shipping. Before-and-after photos that suggest transformation can, and should, happen in weeks. It's no wonder people feel discouraged when their own bodies don't keep up with those expectations.

But your body is not a machine you can reboot. It is a living, adaptive system shaped by years of stress, habits, hormones, sleep patterns, relationships, injuries, and emotions. Expecting it to "snap back" after a few weeks of effort is not just unrealistic, it's unfair.

Fads and trends often work briefly because they shock the system. They rely on restrictions, extremes, or novelty. And while they may produce short-term changes, they rarely create lasting health. Once the trend ends, as it always does, the symptoms return, sometimes louder than before.

athon, I don't mean it has to be miserable or exhausting. Quite the opposite. Sustainable health is built through consistent, manageable choices that your body can integrate over time.

Think about how trust is built in a relationship. It's not created by grand gestures alone. It's built through reliability. Showing up. Listening. Responding with care. Your body works the same way.

When you nourish yourself regularly, move in ways that feel supportive, address stress gently, and prioritize sleep, your nervous system begins to relax. Hormones rebalance. Digestion improves. Pain softens. Energy returns, not all at once, but gradually, reliably.

This is not flashy progress. It's quiet. And it's powerful.

Real Life Doesn't Happen in Perfect Conditions

One of the biggest reasons people abandon their wellness efforts is because they believe they've "fallen off the wagon." Life happens—a busy week, a sick child, a stressful deadline, a holiday meal—and suddenly it feels like everything is ruined.

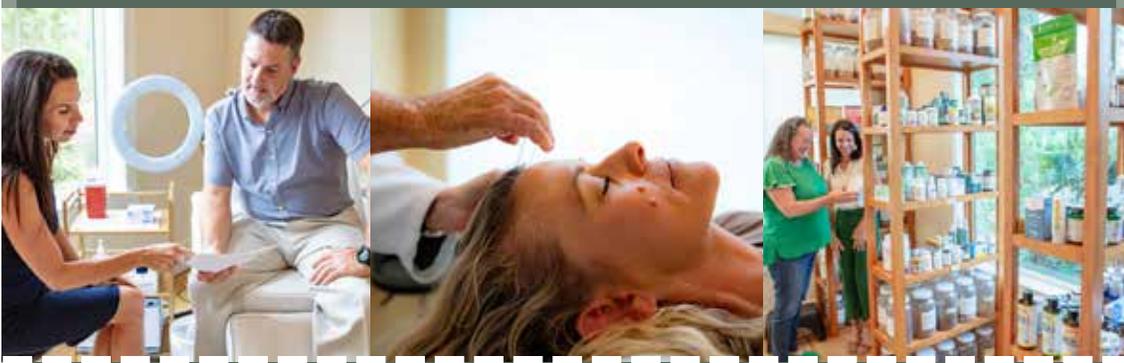

But a marathon isn't lost because you slow down for water. Or because you stumble. Or because one mile feels harder than the last. You keep going.

Health is not about perfection. It's about resilience and return—coming back to yourself again and again without punishment or shame.

Why Slow and Steady Actually Works

When I say wellness is a mar-

Heritage Museum of Northwest Florida: Year-End Highlights & Volunteer Call

The Heritage Museum of Northwest Florida closed out the year with several festive and meaningful milestones, celebrating volunteers, community partners and plans for an ambitious year ahead.

Looking ahead, the museum will host a Volunteer Recruitment Information Meeting and Social on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the Veterans Room at the museum, located at 115 Westview Ave. in Valparaiso, across from Perrine Park. The public is invited to learn about volunteer opportunities ranging from education support and hospitality to collections care, displays, office assistance, genealogy, writing and special events.

Speakers will include Arthur Edgar; volunteers Deb Edgar, Ken Walsh, Jené McCracken and Connie Wolfe; and newsletter editor Carole Barlow. The museum also shared plans for an exciting 2026, highlighted by Project 250, led by trustees Dr. Marie Hallion and Dr. Barbara Palmgren, celebrating America's history and heritage.

During the holiday season, the museum hosted a successful Christmas Bake Sale as part of Yule of Yesteryear. Volunteer "elves" Paula Pride and Debbie Moon led the effort, with heartfelt thanks extended to community members who donated baked goods, as well as The Donut Shop, Publix and Winn-Dixie for their support.

The museum also honored Connie Wolfe as its 2025 Volunteer of the Year. A retired elementary school teacher, Wolfe serves extensively in hospitality and education and is the museum's primary educator for school visits. She is especially known for teaching children about Florida archaeology and hands-on activities such as pinch-pot making. The recognition was a well-deserved tribute to a gracious and dedicated volunteer.

In support of educational outreach, Brad Embry, representing the local chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, presented a $200 donation to museum manager Arthur Edgar. The funds will support Project 250, an initiative focused on engaging young people in American history.

Quilts of Valor Honors Mid-Bay Rotarian Jess Parnell

Mid-Bay Rotarian Jess Parnell was presented with a Quilt of Valor during a Jan. 10 ceremony at the Air Force Armament Museum, hosted by the Flying Needles Quilt Guild of Niceville/Valparaiso. Quilts of Valor are handmade quilts awarded to service members and veterans touched by war as a tangible expression of gratitude for their service and sacrifice.

Parnell served more than 28 years in the U.S. military, including 22 years in the U.S. Navy as a Naval Flight Officer with more than 3,000 flight hours in the F-14, and six years in the U.S. Coast Guard as a Radioman 2nd Class. He was joined by family, friends and fellow Mid-Bay Rotarians for the presentation. Learn more at the Quilts of Valor Foundation or the Flying Needles Quilt Guild.

When Temperatures Drop, Compassion Rises: How Cold Night Saves Lives

BY SHERRY JONES OLNEY

Winter temperatures have a way of slipping quietly into dangerous territory. While most of the community sleeps—homes warm, blankets pulled close—a life-saving effort is already taking shape.

Cold does not arrive suddenly. It settles in slowly, numbing fingers, stealing warmth one hour at a time. Turning long nights into something dangerous. For individuals living outside, a single winter evening can mean far more than discomfort. It can mean survival.

That reality is why Cold Night exists.

A Decision That Saves Lives

Before sunrise, Donna Morgan, Director of Homeless Services and Housing at One Hopeful Place, stands inside the Cold Night shelter, surveying rows of neatly prepared bunks. The beds are empty for now—blankets folded, the room quiet—but she knows what they represent. By nightfall, each one could hold someone who would otherwise be facing freezing temperatures with nowhere to go.

Morgan is the person who activates Cold Night on behalf of One Hopeful Place. She monitors weather conditions closely and makes the call when temperatures fall into life-threatening territory. “These are life-safety decisions,” Morgan said. “Cold Night requires experience, constant vigilance, and coordination across multiple partners. When temperatures drop, our focus is immediate and unwavering—making sure every person who needs shelter has a safe, warm place to go.”

Cold Night is a seasonal emergency shelter operation of One Hopeful Place, activated when overnight temperatures are projected to fall below 40 degrees. When triggered, it opens 48 additional emergency shelter beds, supplementing the 50 beds for men and 17 beds for women already on campus.

Preparing the Shelter

Behind the scenes, the work of Cold Night begins hours earlier. Weather forecasts are monitored as early as 3:00 a.m., and by 9:00 a.m., if Cold Night is confirmed, a coordinated response is set in motion.

Notifications are sent through the Cold Night system and social media. Transportation routes and pickup locations are confirmed. Community partners—including Bridgeway Center—work together to ensure continuity of care and safe transport for those seeking shelter.

By early afternoon, the One Hopeful Place campus begins to change.

Heat is turned on inside the Cold Night building. Tables are repositioned. Supplies are staged. Every movement is deliberate—because when temperatures drop, details matter.

Arrival and Welcome

As participants begin arriving, they are signed in, assigned a bunk, and offered the opportunity to shower. During this time, One Hopeful Place residents help serve hot coffee—one of the most requested comforts on cold nights. Hands that were numb from the cold slowly begin to warm around paper cups.

Transportation plays a vital role. Buses run from Shell Avenue, with additional assistance from community partners to ensure no one is left behind as daylight fades.

Dignity at the Table

As evening settles in, a line forms for dinner. Men stand quietly, some holding backpacks that contain everything they own. Others wait with empty hands, shoulders hunched—not from shame, but from exhaustion and the cold that has followed them all day.

Before the meal is served, grace is said. For a brief moment, the room grows still. Gratitude is spoken. Dignity is honored. Then dinner is served.

After Dinner: Rest and Refuge

Liz Qualiana, Shelter Coordinator at One Hopeful Place,

witnesses these moments night after night. In an interview for this article, she described the immediate shift she sees once guests are inside. “You can see the relief almost immediately,” Qualiana said. “Cold Night isn’t just about a bed or a meal. It’s about dignity. It’s about making sure people feel safe, seen, and respected.”

After dinner, guests move into the Cold Night shelter and settle into their bunks. Staff remain on site throughout the night, ensuring safety, supervision, and support. Clean socks, warm bedding, and a secure environment offer something many participants haven’t experienced in a long time:

Peace. One participant described it simply: “One Hopeful Place gave me a night of peace. That may not sound like much, but when you’ve been living outside, it means everything.”

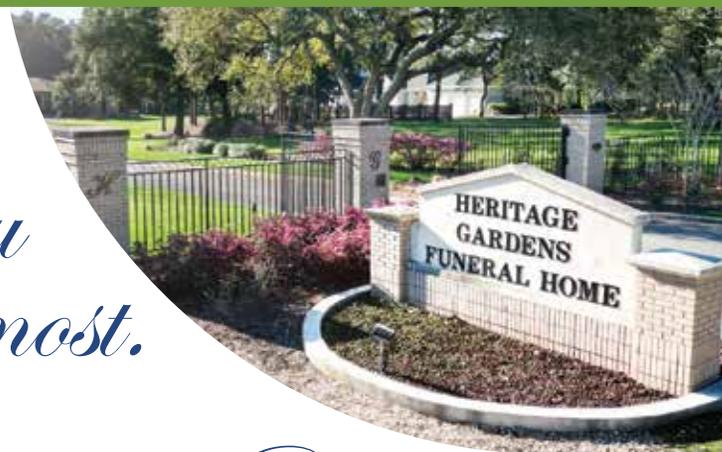

The Morning After

Morning arrives gently. Breakfast bags—prepared the night before—are placed at the end of each bed. Juice, fruit, a muffin, and a snack provide nourishment before the day begins again.

Transportation returns participants to Shell Avenue, where staff and volunteers take time to listen, offer encouragement, and connect individuals with additional resources.

When the System Is Tested

Last winter, during a severe cold spell many now refer to as "Snowmageddon," Cold Night was activated for seven consecutive nights.

Roads were impassable. Power outages left homes without heat. Some who arrived were not chronically homeless—but individuals and families who suddenly had nowhere warm to go.

For staff and volunteers, those seven nights required relentless effort. Beds were cleaned and reset day after day. Meals were prepared and served without pause. Exhaustion set in—but the doors never closed.

Each night, the shelter remained open. Each night, beds were filled.

And each night, everyone who came through the doors was fed, warm, and safe.

Each session is offered twice in one day, from 10 a.m. to noon or 2 to 4 p.m., allowing attendees to choose the time that works best.

Topics include understanding the Panhandle's climate and native plants, lawn care basics, landscape installation and maintenance, and pest and disease control. There is no cost to attend. For more information or to register, call 850-892-8172.

Decade of Difference at CALM March 5

Join Crisis Aid for Littles and Moms (CALM) as the nonprofit celebrates 10 years of serving local littles and moms through vital community support programs. The special evening recognizes a decade of impact while raising funds to continue CALM's mission of meeting families in crisis with compassion and care.

The Broader Impact

Cold Night is part of a broader continuum of care at One Hopeful Place. Since 2020, the organization has sheltered 607 individuals, helped 204 people transition into permanent housing, and ensured 53 veterans found safety and support.

During last winter alone, Cold Night provided 1,111 life-saving overnight stays, while the Well-Being Day Program served 2,897 individuals with meals, showers, and basic necessities.

Compassion That Rises

Yet Cold Night is not powered by systems alone. It is sustained by people—those who show up when the temperature drops and the need is greatest. Their stories—the ones behind the meals, the coffee, the prayers, and the long nights—will be shared next.

Because when winter tightens its grip, compassion does not retreat. It rises.

Guests are invited to attend or sponsor the event, with all proceeds directly benefiting CALM's ongoing outreach and services.

Surtax is a Win for Okaloosa County

BY CAROLYN NEWCOMER KETCHEL

The voter approved infrastructure surtax has been a hugely successful program that has allowed us to make significant infrastructure investments in Okaloosa County that will improve the daily lives of our residents for decades to come. Approved by citizens in 2016, it has raised more than $136 million. These funds have been used to acquire matching grants for a total of $279 million. Wait!

There is more good news. Approximately 56% of the surtax is paid by tourists!

This 1/2 cent surtax has paid for over 300 projects ranging from roads to stormwater to public safety and sidewalks. We are particularly proud of the Southwest Crestview Bypass, that will soon be unveiled, the dirt road stabilization project in the north end, and installation of 12 communication towers throughout the county. These towers will allow public safety and law enforcement officials to communicate on one system in the event of a county-wide emergency. Some of our other completed projects are listed below:

- A $44,965 Sheriff Office project to replace and upgrade the vehicle fleet, including safety vehicles such as evidence vans, water search vessels, patrol and dive vessels, surveillance and prisoner transport vehicles.

- A $185,724 sidewalk project to close gaps in de- veloper installed sidewalks linking Indian Bayou Trail and Matthew Blvd. in Destin. The project was completed under budget and $189,276 in unused funding was returned to the Surtax reserves.

- A $200,000 project to address persistent flooding in Bluewater Bay. The county was awarded a hazard mitigation grant, comprising study/design and construction phases, safer for vehicles and pedestrians. Moreover, the project was completed under budget and the remaining allocation of $68,382 was returned to the Surtax reserves to be utilized for additional future projects.

- A $682,901 project to address stormwater runoff and flooding of roadways in and around Standish Court and Lafitte Crescent in Fort

- A $214,500 project to enhance all seven beach accessways on Okaloosa Island with newly designed crosswalks including installation of signs and flashers. These new crosswalks provide safe pedestrian access from the north side of Santa Rosa Boulevard to the beach access parks on the south side.

- A $287,850 project to address frequent stormwater flooding along Meigs Drive in Shalimar. The completed project included installation of shoreline rip rap and sod replacement.

- A $431,618 project to improve the intersection of Lewis Turner Boulevard and Hospital Drive near the newly improved Liza Jackson School in Fort Walton Beach. The project included storm water detention facilities, intersection upgrades and a new turn lane making the intersection

Walton Beach. The investment of $682,901 in allocated Surtax funding, coupled with $420,432 of RESTORE grant funding allowed the County to replace the deteriorating pipe system with a modern, smooth-lined high-density polyethylene pipe network. Originally $800,000 was allocated from Surtax Reserves and $117,099 has been returned to the Surtax Reserves, reflecting our steadfast commitment to fiscal responsibility by leveraging strategic grant opportunities.

- An $857,029 project to improve Commons Drive in Destin. The intersection of Commons Drive and Henderson Beach Drive was selected as a surtax project for the installation of a traffic signal to enhance safety and improve traffic flow. The project included turn lane enhancements, intersection upgrades, and improved pedestrian facilities. $100,000 of the signalization funding was contributed by the City of Destin through developer funds.

improve pedestrian traffic around Redwood Avenue and Plew Elementary School in Niceville. Although there were some sidewalks in the area, connecting them was essential for enhanced pedestrian safety. This project also included enhanced stormwater systems and improved safety along Redwood Avenue and the intersections of Redwood, 18th Street, and Sycamore Avenue. The City of Niceville donated half the cost of extending the sidewalk from Valparaiso Boulevard to 11th Street.

• A $1.5M project to install sidewalks along Old Bethel Road west of Highway 85, east of Davidson Middle School to Normandy Road in north Crestview along with crosswalk improvement and handrails at appropriate locations.

• A $1,918,093 project to install a Mass Notification System which allows for video monitoring and tracking of forty public school buses by the Emergency Operations Center which provides significantly faster communication and coordinated responses to safety issues faced by our local schools. Also included in this project was the purchase of ballistic projection equipment and K-9-unit replacements.

• A $3,100,000 project to construct a Sheriff's Office Training Center which offers several benefits including improved joint response and capabilities to active assailants, expanded and improved training capabilities to greater quantities of 1st responders (Police, Fire, EMS), and allowing for indoor scenario-based training capabilities.

• A $3,127,171 project to improve the aging stormwater infrastructure along 9th Ave. and 6th Street in Port Dixie (Shalimar).

In addition, there are upcoming projects funded by surtax:

Lewis Turner & Poquito Rd traffic signal (north Fort Walton Beach).

In 2026, FDOT will design the project and will likely draft an agreement for the County to pay for half of the construction cost with Surtax.

Lloyd Street Drainage (central Fort Walton Beach)

This project includes stormwater modeling, pipe inspection, design and construction of stormwater infrastructure in the drainage basin that includes Lloyd Street and Mayflower Avenue and outfalls to Cinco Bayou.

Beachview Drive Drainage (eastern Fort Walton Beach)

This project will alleviate the flooding that occurs on Beachview Drive at the intersection with Eglin Parkway near the Eglin Federal Credit Union. The project is being done in coordination with FDOT because Eglin Parkway also floods at this location.

John King Road Widening (south Crestview)

Construction will occur in 2026. This project will provide dual left turns onto, and off of John King Road at SR 85.

Santa Rosa Boulevard Improvements (Okaloosa Island)

Construction is scheduled for 2026 to improve Santa Rosa Boulevard between US 98 and the 1st Beach Park.

College Blvd Multi-use Path (north Niceville)

Provides a multi-use path along the south side of College Blvd from Palm to Forest and the west side of Forest form College Blvd to Rocky Bayou.

Traffic Management Center

Will attach to the Emergency Operations Center in Niceville and provide real-time monitoring and adjustment capabilities for traffic signals and arterials in Okaloosa County.

Surtax has been a win for our community. Please visit our website at <https://myokaloosa.com/bcc/infrastructureprojects> to learn more about how we have assisted in improving military readiness, addressed seven environmental and flood reduction projects, and helped save lives by providing additional law enforcement, safety signage and equipment. A citizen oversight committee, appointed by county commissioners, monitors the funds and makes recommendations of projects. Without surtax revenue, completion of these projects would have required an increase of 19% of property tax.

In 2026, the citizens will once again have an opportunity to vote for extending this 1/2 cent surtax to assist the county in building and improving roads and bridges, funding essential law enforcement and public safety facilities, and addressing flood control and water quality improvements for another 10 years to 2038. Please consider the good work that has been accomplished when you go to the polls to vote.

It is an honor to serve as you Commissioner.

Carolyn Ketchel is Okaloosa County Commissioner, District 2. She can be reached at CKetchel@myokaloosa.com or 850-651-7105.

What Does it Mean to "Age-In" to Medicare?

BY GREG DURETTE, YOUR FLORIDA HEALTH CONNECTOR

As many times as I've used the term "age-in" when discussing Medicare, it never fails to spark a visceral reaction — usually something like, "What do you mean by this age-in thing?" or "I don't feel aged in!"

The fact of the matter is, aging-in, means you are turning 65 soon, and it is a good thing. There are many we all know that didn't make it to that milestone. Bravo for making it and cheers for many more.

With Annual Enrollment Period now officially ended (even though there is a little-known Special Enrollment Period for certain local counties which extends the period until 4/30/2026!), we are now in the middle of the Open Enrollment Period which runs from January 1 – March 31 of every year pre-dominantly for Advantage Plan members. (You can re-read my article from last month for more information about the ins justed Gross Income from two years prior, unless you apply for a break based on current income. There is a form for that.

If you wish to avoid long lasting, sometimes life-long penalties, you will have to have Part B and Part D (prescription coverage) in place at the time of first becoming eligible. As a reminder, eligibilities are one of those things unique to each person's circumstances.

and outs of that.) But, that does not change the fact many people have birthdays all year long and are actually aging-in during this time as well. Confusing—but, it can be made sense of with a little guidance.

What generally happens is, folks get confused between what they see on TV with all the pitches about "time running out" and, what they can actually do during the aging-in period. So, let me attempt to de-mystify it a little bit here.

There is a period of time when a person ages-in and becomes eligible for Medicare. Typically, this period of time is three months before the month in which they turn 65 and three months after the month in which they turn 65. Do the math and you will see this is a seven-month period of time around your birthday. There are a few other exceptions to this eligibility period, but, those will have to be saved for another article or very long-winded phone call for the braver among us!

The first order of business is to obtain your Part A and B (if desired or needed) through Social Security. Without adding a litany of boring details as to qualifications for each, suffice it to say Part A is typically $0 premium for most folks and Part B for 2026 will typically cost $202.90 per month. The Part B premium is means tested and can get a little complicated (and expensive)—certainly more complicated than can be described in this article. Again, suffice it to say, some could pay much more or much less, depending on your Modified Ad-

So, it is important to know how these things apply to you.

If you choose to obtain a Supplement, commonly called a "Medi-Gap" policy, you will need to also obtain a separate Part D prescription plan as Supplement plans DO NOT INCLUDE such. If you choose to obtain an Advantage plan, the Part D prescription coverage is typically INCLUDED.

As you can see this can, and usually is, a very confusing time for most folks used to having traditional insurance for their whole lives. Suddenly, you are thrust into this new system when everybody and their cousin is calling and/or mailing you every single day with their "better option."

Your best option is the one that best suits you. Maybe it is a great price. Maybe it is a great network of providers. Maybe it is just the peace of mind in knowing you have someone you can rely upon for information when you need it.

If there is only one take away from this article, it would be to work with someone that can help you navigate the local landscape and help you completely understand this otherwise very confusing time in life.

Happy New Year!

Okaloosa County School District Graduation Rate Climbs to 91 Percent

The Okaloosa County School District is celebrating a significant rise in its graduation rate for the 2024–2025 school year, reaching 91 percent, up from 87.7 percent the previous year. The increase reflects both statewide gains and the district’s continued focus on helping students stay on track toward earning a high school diploma.

District leaders credit the improvement to strengthened student support systems, expanded academic pathways, and engagement strategies designed to meet students where they are.

“We are incredibly proud of our students and educators for this significant growth in Okaloosa County’s graduation rate,” Superintendent Marcus Chambers said. “Increasing from 87.7 percent to 91 percent in just one year reflects the hard work, perseverance, and commitment of our students, the dedication of our teachers and staff, and the strong partnerships we share with families and our community. While we celebrate this progress, we remain focused on ensuring every student graduates prepared for success beyond high school.”

The district plans to continue building on this momentum by expanding opportunities that support academic achievement, career readiness, and postsecondary success.

“Our goal is to make the transition to kindergarten welcoming, supportive and engaging for families,” said Amy Dale, OCS D director of elementary curriculum.

The afternoon includes:

Okaloosa Technical College Students Earn National Cybersecurity Recognition

Students from Okaloosa Technical College earned national recognition in December for their performance in the National Cyber League (NCL) Fall 2025 Competition Season, one of the nation’s premier cybersecurity competitions.

Powered by Cyber Skyline, the National Cyber League mirrors real-world cybersecurity tasks through individual and team-based challenges, helping students reinforce classroom learning, gain workforce-ready skills, and generate detailed skills reports for future employers.

Under the leadership of instructor Daniel Sligar, OTC students competed against more than 8,520 students from 490 colleges and universities nationwide, earning a No. 45 national ranking in the NCL Cyber Power Rankings.

OTC Director Jon Williams praised the accomplishment, noting that competing at a national level “is a testament to their commitment, teamwork, and readiness for careers in cybersecurity.”

Recognized students include Dylan Waters, Stephen Miner, Jordan Wenner-Foy, Grafton Lang, Ren Moore, Devin Barron, Steven Williamson, Dade Frigon and David Curd.

Superintendent Marcus Chambers said the recognition highlights the power of career and technical education to prepare students for high-demand, high-skill careers, adding that the district is “incredibly proud of their hard work and the leadership provided by Mr. Sligar.”

Dr. David Zeichick, commissioner of the National Cyber League, also commended the OTC team for their collaboration and commitment to excellence, citing both individual skill and professional growth.

A New Year with 5 Aspects of Math Wellness

A new year has begun and with it, an opportunity to start fresh. Mathnasium in Niceville has a few suggestions focused on building and strengthening the emotional, social, physical, mental and financial aspects of a math learner that can help you and your child navigate the next 365 days for overall “math wellness” and success.

1. Emotional

How is your child feeling about their grade-level math so far?

Math presents parents with the opportunity to build emotional-learning skills for their children, including identifying and managing their emotions, recognizing sources of stress, coping with challenges, maintaining positive motivation and perseverance, and developing self-awareness. Growing children require emotional guidance, and you can help your child manage their emotions when math seems too difficult, too boring or even too easy. If anxiety has been a normal part of your child’s math discussions, consider how you can change that this year. Inspiring or even maintaining a love of math will mean incorporating a healthy mix of challenges.

Consider some of these strategies:

1. If math has often been hard and challenging, help your child identify one good thing about their math experience so far. With every challenge, there is growth.

2. Incorporate a “feelings chart” or “feelings thermometer” into your child’s math work.

3. Allow your child to sit with their emotions and to reach out for support.

4. Relieve stress through physical activities, including physical math walks (more information below).

5. Reframe negative thoughts about math by making a pros and cons list of the facts.

6. Inspire self-compassion by helping your child acknowledge when they have worked hard, tried their best, and been brave.

7. Register your child for a math competition.

Remember that strong emotional-learning skills will lead to successful academic performance in all subject areas and will build a healthy member of society.

2. Social

Incorporate more “math talk” into your child’s life. Math understanding deepens when we share our learnings and “families are perfectly situated to talk about quantity, counting and shapes anywhere children and families are — at home, in the park, or in the grocery store.” Encourage your child to speak to someone else about the math they have learned, be it through a math lesson or informal sharing around the dinner table. Your child can take this a step further and challenge themselves to help someone who has a math question.

If your child is already attending sessions at Mathnasium, have them invite a friend to the next Math Night or game night. Math games are collaborative opportunities to practice fundamental number concepts, strategy and logic.

3. Physical

Exploring math through physical exercise can provide another opportunity to share learnings. Consider taking your child on weekly math walks to discover the mathematics that exist in everything around us: in the park, the neighborhood, the mall, the library and more! Customize your math walks to be spontaneous trips, or planned events that include trail maps and guide points where mathematical problems are presented such as:

1. Investigating floor patterns.
2. Exploring the shapes of street signs.
3. Studying bus schedules.
4. Estimating the height of a tree.
5. Counting the number of windows on a building.

4. Mental

The foundation of math is number sense. This ability cannot be replaced by calculators or computers — it requires exercising “math muscles.” Encourage your child to solve math problems in their head, without writing them down. Have them start with simple computations and work their way up to complex problems. Your child’s confidence will grow when they realize they can not only solve math problems all in their head, but also do so a lot more efficiently and quickly than relying on traditional algorithms. Here’s a few suggestions:

1. $99 + 99 + 99 = \underline{\quad}$
2. $99 \times 7 = \underline{\quad}$
3. $667 - 99 = \underline{\quad}$

ensure a strong foundation in financial math. We recommend that young children work with real money in today’s age filled with credit cards and digital transactions. Feeling money and observing the physical movement between dealings can help young children recognize the impact of purchases and sales on their savings.

For example, share receipts. Take a moment during shopping trips to speak to the amount paid for the items bought is an effective way to introduce money and instill a useful habit.

Conclusion

Whether you start implementing all of these suggestions — or perhaps just decide to tackle one resolution at a time together, remember it is perseverance that we want to master.

4. 12% of $25 = \underline{\quad}$
5. Half of $31 = \underline{\quad}$
6. $9 \div 11/2 = \underline{\quad}$
7. What number is halfway between 3 and 21 ? $\underline{\quad}$
8. Count by 75 s: $0, 75, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, 600, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, \underline{\quad}, 900.$

5. Financial

Financial literacy is an essential skill for children and adults. Consider getting your child started with a piggy bank. This task is filled with skills such as counting money, financial planning and goal setting. For older children, consider building a budget.

It is not uncommon to feel reluctance when discussing financial topics with your child.

Coastal Dune Lakes at State Parks

BY HELEN PETRE

Our special part of the panhandle is famous for beaches, 30A, and dune lakes. While tourism makes up most of our economy, we benefit from state forests and parks which preserve our special environments. Part of that is our coastal dune lakes, all of which are threatened by coastal development and all that comes with it. Yet, some lakes are preserved by our land use choices.

Coastal dune lakes are permanent lakes that form inland of dunes. There are hundreds of dune lakes all over the world. Walton County has 19, or maybe 15, based on different classifications.

Walton County's dune lakes are tannin-stained, which makes the water look brown due to organic matter in the lake. It does not negatively affect the water quality. Tannin means "crushed oak bark." The tannin in the lakes is from the surrounding oak trees. Tannin is used for tanning animal skins.

Dune lakes are shallow (between 0.9 and 2.4 meters), and irregularly shaped. Most of our dune lakes have an intermittent connection with saltwater, or an outflow, which allows for water exchange, and results in an estuarine environment with a mixture of salt and fresh water, or brackish water. Some of our lakes have outflows that flow into other lakes, or storm water drainage ditches, or the outfalls do not exist because of alterations for development. Many of our lakes have outflows that flow through constructed tunnels under 30A. The lakes in our state parks retain their natural outflows. Each lake is different, and all are treasures to preserve.

All of our lakes are fed by groundwater. Characteristics of lakes vary based on the size and shape of their basins, outflow channels, and the surrounding land use, but the water in the lakes always resembles ground water, because water tends to flow out of the lakes more than into them from the Gulf.

Groundwater levels are close to the ground surface, even during dry seasons. The sand and gravel aquifer brings ground water from high points in Alabama to our coast, so water tends to flow, only a few feet below the surface, from north to south, and empty into the Gulf, or close to it, in springs or dune lakes. The groundwater flow is unconfined and recharged from rainwater as well as river water from the north. Since ground water flows south, the lakes drain freshwater into the Gulf. Waves and tides, and especially storm events, can move saltwater into the lakes, but the water in the lakes still remains more characteristically fresh than salt.

Dune Lakes From East To West

Lake Powell is the largest and farthest east of our dune lakes. The outflow is in Bay County, while the lake is in both Walton and Bay Counties, at Camp Helen State Park. The outfall is open often, and it is amazing. Lake Powell is about a half a mile walk from the Camp Helen parking lot, either on a beach trail or through the woods.

Camp Creek Lake is surrounded by dense residential development and a golf course.

The lake flows under 30A to connect to the Gulf. Access is limited except by walking along the beach or living in a community with access.

Deer Lake is part of Deer Lake State Park. A culvert passes under 30A connecting it to the Gulf.

Tresca Lake is the smallest dune lake. The outflow is permanently closed due to residential development, however, water overflows into Deer Lake.

Eastern Lake is on both sides of 30A and surrounded by residential and commercial development.

Western Northeast, Western, and Grayton Lakes are connected bodies of water. They have one outflow at Grayton Lake, which tends to open with high rainfall events. Western Lake is in Grayton Beach State Park.

Alligator Lake is on both sides of 30A, with a culvert connecting the two sides.

Little Redfish Lake and Big Redfish Lake are surrounded by dense residential development and are on both sides of 30A. Both have no public access other than walking along a beach.

Draper Lake is an elongated lake surrounded by dense residential development. There is no public access other than walking from a beach access.

Oyster Lake is surrounded by residential development. There is no public access. The outflow is under 30A.

Allen Lake overflows through a storm water ditch to Oyster Lake. Allen Lake is north of 30A. There is no public access.

Stallworth Lake is surrounded by residential development. There is no public access except to walk along the beach from Topsail.

Topsail Hill Preserve State Park

No Name Lake, Campbell Lake, and Morris Lake and are within Topsail Hill Preserve State Park, with its pine forests and freshwater wetlands. Lakes within Topsail Hill Preserve State Park are accessible only by foot, or tram within the park.

These three lakes are least impacted by development because they are in the park and require effort to reach.

Fuller Lake is on the western edge of Topsail Hill Preserve State Park and overflows into Morris Lake. Fuller Lake is inside the Coffen Nature Preserve. The only access is through the nature preserve.

Preserving our lakes

Most of our dune lakes are within residential communities. The people that live there surely want to keep the lakes pristine and natural, but it is difficult to develop land around water resources without altering them. Since the lakes naturally overflow into the Gulf, houses built around them must be built so they are not impacted by the outflow. People living in the communities must be conscious of the effects of fertilizer, pesticides and land use.

The lakes that are accessible to the public and are within our state parks are preserved and semi wild. Although many people walk to the outflows, especially at Camp Helen, they are often in awe, and unaware of what they are seeing. It is an ecosystem specially preserved for all of us, but a bit of a secret for those who know what it is. I am grateful that we have preserved these dune lakes, and not altered them, within our parks. When you visit the parks and see the outflows, remember what you are experiencing is something you most likely will not see anywhere else, and it is only due to the decisions we make about our land use and development that future generations can experience this.

Master Gardner Al Cook Helps Bluebirds Thrive

BY BARBARA PALMGREN

The “Bluebird of Happiness” symbolizes joy, hope and good fortune, an idea shared in folktale and song. While not currently endangered, though they were once in decline due to habitat loss and invasive competitors, they still face threats; so, continued habitat support is critical.

The most effective solution involves installing specially designed nest boxes. And that’s exactly what one U.S. Air Force retiree, Al Cook, did in 2022. Combining his hobby of carpentry and gardening, he began building birdhouses to address the housing shortage these birds faced. Al started with six birdhouses in his own backyard and then built and gave away 10 to surrounding neighbors. After one year, in his yard, he viewed 12 baby bluebirds. Keeping in contact with those who have used his birdhouses over the past several years, Al documents over 100 new fledglings which, as adults, are flying around in Okaloosa and Walton Counties.

I met with Al and Valparaiso Garden Club president, Kat Spieker, to see these birdhouses. Lovingly crafted, each has a side door, so one can look in at the eggs and birds. When Al wants to visit and check on a bird, he gently knocks on the side of the birdhouse first. It’s always polite to knock before entering.

Kat has two of his birdhouses in her yard and enjoys seeing bluebirds whose fledglings often hide in nearby azalea bushes to avoid predators. Both she and Al are master gardeners in their respective counties and Al is also a member of the Valparaiso Garden Club. Kat lives in Valparaiso and Al resides in Freeport.

Al donates his birdhouses. His dedication to bluebird conservation by gifting and educating others about bluebirds, is his way of staying active and contributing to the environment and the community. Once a birdhouse is installed, Al continues to check on these special homes. He put birdhouses in cemeteries, four local UF extension display gardens, farms and places where there is an abunlar all the way down her young one’s neck. Some of these units have solar panels and thermometers to provide the perfect temperature. If it’s too hot, small holes can be drilled in the side of the house. There are holes in the bottom of birdhouses to allow for adequate ventilation.

Kat added that the bluebirds in her backyard love it when the grass is mowed, so they can more easily “shop around” for food. Bluebirds have excellent eyesight and can see potential meals 50 yards away.

The photo take for the interview was in the pollinator garden of the Heritage Museum of Northwest Florida. This garden is the result of dedicated work by the Valparaiso Garden Club that meets the second Wednesday, May through September. All garden lovers are invited to attend meetings.

Listening to these two master gardeners swap stories of the joy that these birds brought to their lives made me realize that our local area is in debt for the gift they continue to give—not only the community, but all the new bluebirds that now continue to spread happiness and joy.

be sure no “varmints” decided to invade the space. It’s easy to check inside the birdhouse with that special side door and latch.

Al told me that there are expensive houses that have Wi-Fi with cameras inside the birdhouse, so you can see eggs and watch fledglings dance of insects. For these places, Al returned twice a month to being fed. One determined mother shoved a large caterpil-

Niceville High School (NHS) Senior, Harper Campbell, was named the 2026 recipient of the Taylor Haugen Trophy, one of the most prestigious honors awarded to a student-athlete in the region.

The Taylor Haugen Trophy is presented annually in memory of Taylor Reid Haugen, a former NHS standout, and recognizes a senior athlete who exemplifies excellence across five pillars: academics, athletics, leadership, community service, and faith. The recipient is awarded a bronze eagle trophy, a $1,000 scholarship, and a $1,000 donation to their school's athletic department.

"Harper embodies the values and spirit of this distinguished award," stated Superintendent Marcus Chambers. A standout football player at Niceville High School, Harper excelled as both a linebacker and safety, demonstrating leadership and commitment on and off the field. He will continue his athletic and academic journey at Samford University.

"Harper is a person of extremely high character and a natural leader of others," stated Charlie Marelo, Principal of Niceville High School. "I've been the principal at Niceville High for 10 years, and if I had a personal Hall of Fame of outstanding Eagles during my tenure, Harper Campbell would absolutely be in it." Harper will be formally recognized as the Taylor Haugen Trophy recipient at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) Breakfast on February 6 at Northwest Florida State College. The Okaloosa County School District, Niceville High School and the Eagle community congratulate Harper Campbell on this well-deserved honor. His dedication to excellence, character and service reflects the very best of Okaloosa County Schools.

SS United States Moves Closer to Becoming the World's Largest Artificial Reef

A legend of the sea is preparing for its next great voyage—this time beneath the waves of the Gulf.

In January, representatives from Coastal Conservation Association Florida, Visit Destin-Fort Walton Beach and Okaloosa County took part in an exclusive inspection of the iconic SS United States, marking a major milestone in the ship's transformation into what will become the world's largest artificial reef.

The legendary 990-foot ocean liner—once the fastest passenger ship to ever cross the Atlantic—is currently docked in Mobile, Ala., where crews are completing extensive cleaning and preparation work to ensure the vessel is environmentally safe for deployment. When the work is finished, the SS United States will be placed in the Gulf approximately 22 nautical miles southwest of the Destin East Pass and 32 nautical miles southeast of the Pensacola Pass, creating a monumental new underwater habitat off the Emerald Coast.

For conservationists, anglers, divers and history lovers alike, the project represents something truly unprecedented.

CCA Florida has committed $500,000 toward the effort, helping transform the historic vessel into a thriving marine ecosystem that will benefit fish populations and fisheries access for generations. Once deployed this spring, the SS United States will officially hold the title of the largest artificial reef in the world.

A Regional Vision with Global Impact

Momentum for the project accelerated in November, when the Okaloosa County Board of County Commissioners unanimously approved agreements formalizing a regional partnership with Visit Pensacola and CCA Florida. The collaboration brings a combined $2 million investment into the project, including a $1.5 million contribution from Visit Pensacola and CCA Florida's historic $500,000 donation—the largest single contribution in the organization's 40-year history.

"I applaud the energy that went into creating these partnerships," said Okaloosa County Board Chairman Paul Mixon. "This collaboration will foster amazing adventures for generations of visitors and create a tourism economy that will benefit the state and the entire Northwest Florida region."

Beyond deployment costs, a portion of the funding will support a multi-year marketing campaign positioning the SS United States as a premier, world-class diving destination—further elevating Northwest Florida's reputation on the global marine tourism map.

"Visit Pensacola is thrilled to partner with Okaloosa County on this historic initiative. With the addition of the SS United States and Pensacola already home to the USS Oriskany, Northwest Florida is becoming one of the world's most extraordinary destinations for divers and marine exploration," said Visit Pensacola President and CEO Darien Schaefer.

Golf Series: First Tee Winter Ball Tournament Inspires Young Golfers

BY BARBARA PALMGREN

On a cold, really cold and windy Sunday in December, young golfers with a parent partner, braved the weather to participate in an annual event at Shalimar Pointe Golf Club. This was the club's 8th year to participate in the First Tee event.

Organizers, Jean Wallace and Donna Rayburn, members of the Shalimar Pointe Ladies Golf Association, spent months fundraising and preparing for 54 juniors with adult playing partners to play the front nine of the golf course. Other members helped register players and Doris Anderson baked cookies for the entire crowd. Of course, a delicious meal with hamburgers and chips awaited each team when they finished.

The First Tee organization is a youth development organization that enables young golfers to build strength of character as well as learn golf skills. As part of this national organization, First Tee Gulf Coast is located in Pensacola, and hosts events all along the Gulf Coast. Marty Stanovich, Executive Director, arrived to congratulate all the players and Ty Aulger, Tournament Director, presented awards.

First place winners come from a variety of locations ranging from Freeport to Santa Rosa Beach. Here are the first-place winners:

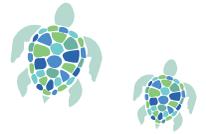

Girls 5-11: Charlie Miller from Santa Rosa Beach

Boys 5-11: Dillon Bond from Niceville

Girls 12-18: Rayna Perkins from Freeport

Boys 12-18: Luke Pearce from Gulf Breeze

States project is about more than scale—it is about stewardship.

“The transformation of the SS United States into the world’s largest artificial reef creates a rare opportunity to elevate our entire region on the global stage,” said Brian Gorski, executive director of CCA Florida. “Together, we’re bringing unmatched environmental value to the Gulf while creating new tourism and economic opportunities that will benefit our destinations for generations.”

Gorski noted that the partnership builds on CCA Florida’s long-standing collaboration with Okaloosa County on artificial reef projects and redfish stock enhancement, demonstrating how public agencies and nonprofit organizations can work together to strengthen marine ecosystems.

“This project is particularly meaningful,” he said, “as it represents the largest single donation in CCA Florida’s 40-year history. It is truly a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to contribute to the creation of the world’s largest artificial reef.”

What Comes Next

The SS United States remains in the inspection and remediation phase in Mobile following months of preparation to meet strict environmental standards. Deployment is scheduled for early this year, weather and final approvals permitting.

Once submerged, the massive structure will quickly begin attracting marine life, creating new habitat, expanding fishing opportunities and offering divers a once-in-a-generation experience—an underwater monument where American maritime history meets Gulf Coast conservation.

For Northwest Florida, the sinking of the SS United States won’t mark an ending, but a bold new beginning—one that anchors the region’s future in sustainability, adventure and global distinction.

The ASA Mission

The All Sports Association was founded in 1970 under the leadership of Colonel Al Byrne, with the first banquet held at the Holiday Inn on Okaloosa Island. From those modest beginnings, ASA's membership of volunteers has grown to raise funds and provide time-based service to support youth sports and community programs across the Emerald Coast.

Funded primarily through the awards banquet and an annual golf tournament, the organization channels its proceeds to local non-profits including the Boys & Girls Club of the Emerald Coast, Special Olympics Florida-Okaloosa, the Eleanor J. Johnson Youth Center and Okaloosa Walton FCA.

At the heart of the ASA's recognition program lies a simple, yet powerful, standard: the athletes honored must excel not only in their sport but also in their academics and community involvement. Through the

Golf Series: Our "Blue Bayou" at Bluewater Bay Golf Course

BY BARBARA PALMGREN

Linda Ronstadt once echoed these lines in her signature hit, "Blue Bayou:"

*I'm going back someday
Come what may to Blue Bayou
Where the folks are fun
And the world is mine on Blue Bayou Where those fishing boats with their sails afloat
If I could only see
That familiar sunrise through sleepy eyes
How happy I'd be.*

Only a few shrimp boats now are seen on Choctawhatchee Bay as the sun rises to greet those fortunate enough to live in this paradise. That familiar sunrise? It's still very much alive — its colors often best appreciated from the Marsh course on hole No. 4 or the Bay course on hole No. 6, especially by those early-morning golfers lucky enough to be there.

But sleepy eyes? Not if you want to be sure the ball sails straight down the fairway — or if you need clear vision to determine the correct putting angle and speed so that little white ball drops into the hole.

Where the folks are fun? Yes. Like the swallows that return to Capistrano, the snowbirds are back, golf clubs in hand and dreams of low scores dancing in their heads, along with a bit of braggin' among friends about eagles, birdies and pars.

Nestled among homes in the Bluewater Bay community, golfers enjoy a course layout that is challenging, yet fair. Tee times can be booked through Golf-Now or by calling the pro shop. With scenic views that often distract in the best possible way, the course can now be enjoyed by golfers of all skill levels. With overseeded greens and tee boxes and reasonable fees, the beautiful course is ready for winter play — an accomplishment made possible by the dedication of Golf Course Superintendent Alfredo Francisco and his staff.

General Manager Stephan Kleemeyer has worked tirelessly over the past year to ensure growth and continued success for the club. Adding to that success is the bonus of a full-service restaurant, the Blue Tee, where golfers and residents alike can enjoy breakfast, lunch or dinner from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. It may be chilly in February, but a warm lunch and accompanying beverage make for the perfect setting to share stories of that approach shot to the green that resulted in a birdie on the hole.

Membership remains the heart and soul of any golf course, and new member rates encourage golfers to join. Golf carts are included in the rate. While public play is important, membership provides the continued revenue needed to support and sustain the club.

So, yes, the world is ours — and being happy? The only time you can't play golf is when heavy rains, or perish the thought, snow soak or cover the fairways and greens.

Yes, our Blue Bayou warmly welcomes snowbirds and golfers alike to this hidden jewel of the Panhandle that is Bluewater Bay Golf Course.

 Wellness

BY DR. RICHARD CHERN, MD

Sitting on opposite ends of the couch wondering if they were still in love. Same house, same couch, same bed, same routine, but where is the love, the fun, the passion? It seems like years since they've been intimate.

She doesn't seem interested anymore. He's tried so many times he just doesn't ask anymore. She always seems angry about this or that. Complaining about things that shouldn't even matter; but, apparently they matter a lot. Complaining about not sleeping or waking up all night and always being tired. Is she just tired of him? It's like there's no way to make her happy anymore.

He doesn't seem interested anymore. When was the last time he came on to me? I can't even remember the last date we went on. We never spend time together. He's always asleep on the couch and we never talk anymore. If I still love him, why don't I have any desire? I thought marriage was supposed to get easier.

Does this sound familiar? It should. It's the story we hear from patients all the time. No libido, never feeling rested, just surviving each day so you can get home and crash, the weight gain, the irritability. And why is everyone getting so annoying?

It's amazing what hormones are responsible for. Everyone seems to think testosterone = mean and muscles and estrogen = emotional overload. That's so far from the truth. It's hard to describe, but I might say, testosterone = fearless desire to engage in life, and estrogen = the emotional awareness to enjoy every moment.

Forget the health benefits of hormones today, and there are tons. Let's talk about how it changes your life.

Imagine peacefully drifting off to sleep and waking after eight hours feeling fresh and rested. Not even an ounce of tired. None. I'm talking ready to hop out of bed with a list of tasks to accomplish and looking forward to accomplishing every single one. You can't wait to get out of bed excited for the day. Sounds impossible.

Imagine actually taking the steps toward a goal instead of just having some hazy snippets of a daydream where you don't really know what you want, where you would go or what you would do, because it seems like you will never get there anyway.

Imagine your spouse approaching you with that look in his eye and you smile, because you've been waiting for him all day.

That's just a taste of what hormones do. I used to feel like you. I got treated 12 years ago. It changed my life. I felt alive. I slept. I was happy. I wasn't afraid of life. So, I quit my job and left over 20 years of traditional medicine. Why? So, I could help you feel better, too.

We take a comprehensive approach. We listen. We review. We create. We design. And we personalize it all to you. You're not broken—and you're not alone. I can't wait to see you feeling better. You really have no clue what you're missing. It's so exciting. Just call us. It's really not expensive to completely change your life. Call The Hormone Restoration Center at 850-837-1271.

The Body Responds to Patience

I've watched patients experience profound change not because they did more, but because they did less—less forcing, less self-criticism, less urgency. They learned to listen instead of override. To adjust instead of quit. To trust that small improvements compound over time.

And they do.

A little better sleep leads to better energy. Better energy leads to gentler movement. Gentler movement supports hormone balance. Hormone balance improves mood and focus. Suddenly, the person who felt stuck begins to feel capable again.

That's how marathons are won. Not by sprinting at the start, but by pacing wisely.

Redefining Success

What if success wasn't measured by how fast you change, but by how well you sustain?

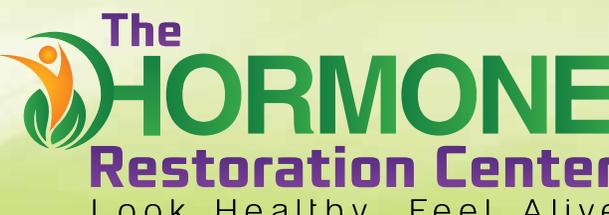

What if progress meant fewer crashes, quicker recovery, and a deeper sense of connection to your body?

Wellness is not a finish line you cross. It's a relationship you build.

So, if you're feeling discouraged, tired of trends, or tempted by the next "miracle" solution, pause. Take a breath. Ask yourself not what will fix you fastest, but what will support you longest.

Your body is in this for the long haul. And when you meet it with patience, consistency, and care, it will carry you farther than any shortcut ever could.

Not a Fad Workout: How Heavy Resistance Training Is Helping Aging Adults Worldwide

BY KASSIA GARFIELD,
MAXSTRENGTH FITNESS

For decades, resistance training was treated as optional — something reserved for athletes, bodybuilders, or the young. As people aged, the common advice was to “take it easy,” lift light weights, and focus on walking or stretching. Today, science is flipping that script. Heavy resistance training is not a fitness trend or a risky experiment; it is one of the most effective, evidence-based strategies we have to support healthy aging worldwide.

Aging is accompanied by predictable declines in muscle mass, strength and bone density. This process, known as sarcopenia and osteoporosis, begins as early as our 30s and accelerates with each passing decade. By age 70, many adults have lost up to 30–40% of their muscle mass if no intervention is made. The consequences are profound: increased fall risk, fractures, metabolic disease and loss of independence. Yet, experts like Dr. Peter Attia emphasize that while sarcopenia is unavoidable, how much muscle we lose — and how fast we lose it — is largely determined by our activity choices.

The Evidence for Heavy Lifting

Heavy resistance training directly targets the mechanisms behind age-related decline. Unlike light exercise, lifting heavier loads recruits fast-twitch (Type II) muscle fibers — the fibers most vulnerable to aging and disuse. Peter Attia frequently highlights that these fibers are critical, not just for strength, but for power, balance and preventing falls later in life. When they are trained, they respond — even in older adults. This helps target our central nervous system, which increases muscle recruitment, coordination and response to movement.

Long-term studies strongly support this. The LISA study followed adults in their early 70s and found that those who completed just one year of heavy resistance training preserved leg strength four years later. Meanwhile, those who performed moderate training or remained inactive continued to decline. This suggests that heavy training doesn't just produce short-term gains — it creates lasting protective effects.

Similarly, the LIFTMOR trial challenged long-held fears around lifting heavy with low bone density. Older adults, including post-menopausal women with osteopenia, safely performed high-intensity resistance and impact training. The result: significant improvements in bone mineral density at the spine and hip, along with gains in functional strength. These findings directly counter the idea that aging bodies are too fragile for heavy loads.

It's Never Too Late to Start

Perhaps the most empowering message from this body of research is that it is never too late to begin. Muscle tissue remains remarkably adaptable across the lifespan. Studies show adults in their 60s, 70s and even 80s can build strength and muscle when exposed to proper resistance training. Aging does not eliminate our ability to adapt — inactivity does.

Sarcopenia will happen to everyone. That part is non-negotiable. But the rate at which muscle is lost and the degree of weakness we experience are modifiable. Every strength-training session acts as a signal to the body: this muscle is needed — keep it. Without that signal, the body efficiently sheds tissue it perceives as unnecessary. In this sense, muscle loss is not just something that happens to us — it is something we actively influence through daily decisions. Our body responds to stimulus and grows and maintains tissue in accordance to need. So, if there is less need, the body will not continue to use energy to maintain tissue that is not being used.

Beyond Muscles: Longevity and Independence

Heavy resistance training extends benefits well beyond muscle size. Increased lean mass improves insulin sensitivity, supports metabolic health and lowers the risk of type 2 diabetes and cardiovascular disease. Strength training has also been linked to improved cognitive function and brain health, likely due to enhanced neuromuscular coordination and blood flow.

Most importantly, strength preserves independence. The ability to stand up from the floor, carry groceries, climb stairs, or recover from a stumble determines whether aging is lived with confidence or constraint. Strength is not cosmetic — it is functional, protective and deeply tied to quality of life.

A New Narrative for Aging

Heavy resistance training is not a fad workout. It is a cornerstone of healthy aging backed by decades of research and reinforced by modern longevity science. While we cannot stop aging, we can decide how we age. By choosing to lift heavy — safely, progressively, and consistently — aging adults around the world are rewriting what strength, independence, and vitality look like in later life. If you are looking

Journey Bravely: Increase Your Life Experience and Impact in 2026

By STEPHENIE CRAIG, JOURNEY BRAVELY

When did you last experience a big, uncomfortable feeling you did not manage well? Maybe you experienced rejection and felt deeply sad. Maybe someone treated you poorly and you felt intense anger. Perhaps you made a mistake and you felt shame. How did you behave when you experienced the feeling? Were you unkind to yourself? Did you behave poorly and then blame others? Did you drink or scroll to numb out? Did you break something?

Feelings come and go throughout each day and yet most of us do not have a sense of confidence about managing uncomfortable feelings. In his book, Dealing with Feeling, Marc Brackett, PhD, founding director of Yale Center for Emotional Intelligence shares that only 10% of the American population receive any education about how to understand or manage feelings. In my experience meeting with people for 25 years, about 9 out of 10 people entering therapy do not understand how to identify or work through uncomfortable feelings.

Most of us are engaging in avoidance or numbing strategies such as drinking, other substance use, scrolling, shopping, gambling, controlling others, over scheduling, among others to keep from facing uncomfortable feelings. Avoidance produces a cycle of emotional dysregulation that negatively impacts relationships, life performance, and overall health. In short, not knowing how to identify and manage your feelings well is likely reducing your quality of life and your positive impact in the world.

So, if you want to grow in emotional maturity to increase your positive experience and impact in life, what do you do?

6 Ways to Learn How to Manage Your Feelings Well

Reflect and set intention.

How are you managing feelings? Take notes about how you and others are experiencing your emotional highs and lows. Note if you have been ashamed or received negative feedback regarding your emotional expression. Create 1-2 goals about how you would like to improve your handling of feelings. "I would like to know how to use 3-4 healthy strategies to manage feelings."

Cultivate physical emotional curiosity.

Notice your body's signals about what you are feeling. Notice sensations in your stomach, chest, face, head, and extremities. Notice body temperature, muscle tension, energy level. Notice tears, urge to slam something, exhaustion level. Your physical body gives you signals to help you determine what specific feeling you are experiencing. Listen closely to your body rather than ignoring physical signals.

Name your feelings. After collecting physical data, practice matching data to a feeling word. When you notice tight jaw, hot body temperature, and desire to slam something, that might be anger. When you notice tight chest, pit in your stomach, and fast heart rate, that might be anxiety. Try recording your common feelings and list physical sensations that go with each feeling. Continue recording over time until you feel confident your list reflects your emotional experience.

Evaluate emotional coping tools. Name/record avoidance/numbing strategies, and record trends of when and how you use them. "I start drinking around 4 and continue until bedtime to take the edge off." "I start scrolling when I'm stressed and bored and am logging five hours per day." Begin practicing healthy coping strategies that regulate emotional highs and lows creating space to return to a feeling from a calm state to process its meaning for your life. Try taking a walk, voice or regular journaling, talking to a trusted person, deep breathing exercises, fitness activities, creative pursuits, getting into nature, and nervous system regulation tools (search "vagal toning exercises").

Living with a Neurodegenerative Diagnosis: Understanding the Impact — and the Hope

BY MELANIE YOST,
BE WELL SOLUTIONS

A neurodegenerative diagnosis changes far more than memory, movement or speech. It changes how a person sees themselves, how they connect with others and how they picture their future. Conditions such as Alzheimer’s disease, Parkinson’s disease, Lewy body dementia, frontotemporal dementia, ALS and vascular dementia are progressive, meaning symptoms tend to worsen over time. Even so, many people are surprised to learn that there is still room for hope and a better quality of life.

These conditions affect how the brain works. Thinking clouds, memory fades and words become harder to find. Many people struggle with confusion, focus or decision-making, and emotional changes. Depression, anxiety, irritability, loss of motivation or noticeable personality shifts can appear—sometimes even before physical symptoms.

The physical changes that often occur include: tremors, weakness, balance issues, slower movement and ongoing fatigue. Tasks that once felt simple—driving, cooking, managing money or personal care - can gradually become more challenging. This loss of independence can be one of the hardest parts of the diagnosis.

Adding to the stress of the symptoms is the emotional weight of the journey. Many individuals grieve who they used to be. Their confidence can fade and roles within their family change. A quiet fear about the future often lingers. Caregivers and loved ones carry their own heavy load as they take on more caregiving duties while watching their loved one change into a different person. For many families, the experience feels lonely and overwhelming.

Traditional medical care plays an important role. Doctors help diagnose the condition, monitor progression, manage symptoms and plan for safety. Medications and therapies can slow certain changes and ease discomfort. Still, much of conventional care focuses on managing decline rather than supporting and building on what the brain can still do.

It is now understood that neurodegeneration is rarely caused by a single issue. Inflammation, reduced oxygen use, low energy production in brain cells, disrupted brain communication and metabolic stress often occur together. Because the challenges are layered, meaningful support must be layered as well.

A combined, non-invasive approach can help support brain health from multiple directions at once. Therapies that improve oxygen delivery, support cellular energy, calm inflammation, strengthen brain pathways through use and training, and help the brain regulate itself can work together in powerful ways.

These approaches do not claim to cure neurodegenerative disease. What they can offer, however, is deeply meaningful: improved clarity, steadier mood, better sleep, increased energy, improved balance and stronger emotional regulation for many individuals. Even small improvements can restore confidence, preserve dignity and make daily life feel more manageable for the person and their loved ones.

Just as important, this kind of care can restore a sense of control. Instead of simply waiting for what comes next, individuals and families can take an active role in supporting brain health and overall well-being.

A neurodegenerative diagnosis is life-changing and often frightening. But, it does not mean the brain is without hope. With compassionate, supportive and evidenced based care, the brain can continue to adapt and function better than once believed possible.

And in that space, many people discover something invaluable—not just more time, but better quality of living within the time they have.

If you or a loved one are struggling with brain fog, memory changes, emotional instability or signs of cognitive decline, please reach out. There is hope. Your brain can heal and evidence-based therapies can help you reclaim clarity, resilience, and quality of life.

Wellness

A Kinder Start to the New Year, Shared with Our Dogs

BY LAURIE HOOD

Every January, I find myself thinking less about big resolutions and more about how I want the year to feel. Calmer. More connected. More intentional. And almost always, the answers lead me right back to the animals.

At Alaqua, we see every day how closely human well-being and animal well-being are tied together. Dogs need movement, fresh air, routine, and connection. Turns out, we do too.

One of the healthiest habits I have ever built is simply walking. Walking with a dog gives you no excuse not to go. They are ready. They are patient (well, my dog Archie may not always be). And they remind you that the point is not speed or distance, but showing up.

Some of my favorite moments at Alaqua happen on the trails. Early mornings, quiet afternoons, volunteers walking dogs who arrive scared and leave a little lighter. You can feel the shift in the dog and in the person holding the leash.

Spending time outdoors does something we cannot replicate indoors. It slows the nervous system. It gives perspective. Dogs experience the world through scent and sound, and when we let them lead for a moment, we slow down, too. That pause matters more than we realize. Volunteering is another place where wellness and purpose intersect. Many of our volunteer roles involve movement and being outside, whether it is walking dogs, helping with enrichment, nature. To a community that believes caring for animals makes the world better for everyone.

Dogs also teach us how to be present. Sitting beside them. Breathing. Stretching. Letting go of the phone for a few minutes. They do not need us to be perfect. They just need us to be there.

As the year begins, I hope we can all be a little gentler with ourselves. Build routines that support us rather than pressure us. Get outside more. Walk together. Volunteer when or simply being present. Giving your time to animals in need can ground you. It reminds you why kindness matters.

This year, we are especially excited to offer guided hikes where you can bring your dog and walk the land with us. These hikes are not about fitness goals or keeping pace. They are about connection. To your dog. To we can. Let our dogs remind us what matters.

Health does not have to be complicated. Sometimes it starts with a leash, a trail, and the decision to step outside.

Laurie Hood is the founder of Alaqua Animal Refuge and believes that caring for animals and caring for ourselves are deeply connected.

KAY LEAMAN, HEALTH ARCHITECT

How to Subtract Fat From Your Body

esoglucose, corn syrup and dahlia syrup.

The body needs energy to survive. Our energy is stored in the mitochondria of the cell. There are 50 to 2,000 mitochondria in every cell. Within these cells, sugar is converted into glucose and O₂. This is turned into ATP and CO₂. The preservatives in foods prevent them from being properly digested, which means the calories are not able to be converted to energy; less energy for our brains, muscles, etc. When this process continues, the body goes into starvation mode. This teaches the body to take these calories and store them as fat. The body learns to survive by what we feed it.

Utilizing digestive enzymes can aid the body in better digestion. They can reduce gastric and bowel symptoms and increase the body's ability to convert food to energy rather than fat. By combining digestive enzymes with foods that contain less preservatives, we can aid our bodies to better utilize what we eat.

#2 Bad Gut Bacteria

There are 50-100 trillion bacteria in our gut with over 5,000 species. Our guts are biodiverse and contain both good and bad bacteria.

The roles of this microbiome: to break down undigested food (carbohydrates), production and absorption of vitamins B's and K, processing of bile and sterols, strengthens the immune system, defends against infection from bad bacteria, effects brain neurotransmitters (thinking, mood, autism), production of serotonin (low levels can cause depression and anxiety), and hormones that direct fat metabolism and storage.

The effects of when our gut bacteria are out of whack (more bad than good) can be obesity, bowel disease, cancer, brain issues, diabetes, liver disease, immune system issues as well as effects on the skin.

Disruption of this system includes high glycemic foods, chemicals (preservatives and additives), pesticides, fake sugar, toxic metals, antibiotics used in food, irritating and spicy herbs and condiments, parasite tainted food, allergies to food, lack of vitamins and minerals, stress (cortisol), poor general health, and certain medications such as steroids and NSAIDS. Signs of this disruption are nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, gas, bloating, cramping, constipation, heartburn, irritable bowel syndrome, lactose intolerance, food sensitivities, drowsiness or fatigue after meals, depression, frequent illness (colds and flu), forgetfulness, sluggish thinking, weight gain and difficulty losing weight (excess body fat).

When there is an overgrowth of bad bacteria and yeast in the gut, sugars are broken down incorrectly and the signals for fat metabolism and storage are disrupted.

Add a probiotic every other day or daily to your diet. Science has shown that we don't need to replace all the bacteria. The two most important bacteria that can survive the harsh stomach environment are lactobacillus, rhammosus GG, LGG and bifidobacterium BB-12. These can also be stored at room temperature, making it easy to travel with or take to work.

These are the first two out of four things that allow body fat to accumulate. In the next issue, we will discuss Part II.

HealthyDay HealthyLife, succeed. hdlh@gmail.com

There are four main things that help the body to store fat. The more we abuse them, the more the body responds in kind.

There is a plethora of ads aimed to help us rid ourselves of belly fat creating a billion dollar industry. These 'diets' bring success for the first six months or so, and then slowly the fat begins to return and the cycle continues.

We know that it's lifestyle vs. diet that can remove the unwanted fat for the long term. Adequate water intake, quality sleep, managing stress, exercise and diet (calories in — calories out) should be our goal. However, understanding what causes the fat to accumulate is a critical component to achieving greater success.

The food we eat is either used as energy or stored as fat. When you get up in the morning, how do you feel? Do you feel refreshed and ready to go or sluggish and dragging? This is our first clue that something is 'off.'

#1 Food Preservatives

Preservatives are used to extend shelf life. Some of these are more toxic than others. They also make food more difficult to digest. These preservatives can lead to gas, bloating, heartburn, slow metabolism, fatigue, sluggishness, brain fog and a decreased sex drive.

One of the most disrupting is high fructose corn syrup (HFCS). The process in producing this chemical is important in understanding it. Because consumers have become aware of the dangers, companies have spent millions in order to 're-name it' so the consumer can remain unaware. There are even products that state they are high fructose corn syrup free when the label states otherwise and the fine line between these is legal!

Some of the new names being used are: maize syrup, glucose syrup, tapioca syrup, fruit fructose, crystalline fruit, HFCS,

New Year, New Devices, New Risks: Why First of the Year Is Prime Time for Data Theft

By BIT-WIZARDS

With the latest laptops, phones, tablets and smart devices in the hands of many after the holidays, homes and businesses are swept up in the excitement of new technology.

Accompanying the rush of dopamine will likely be better features and convenience, but it also opens the door to new cybersecurity risks. It's not because hackers suddenly become more active, but because users unknowingly make it easier for them to exploit.

This is why the first of the year consistently experiences a sharp surge in cyberattacks. According to IT Governance, history has shown that incidents can increase by more than 700% in January compared to December.

The problem isn't the new technology itself; it's how quickly people start using it. New devices are often turned on and connected immediately, without changing default settings, applying critical updates, or securing home and office networks. Passwords are reused, software security prompts are delayed, and when routines are interrupted by holidays, travel or year-end fatigue, important safeguards are frequently overlooked.

For businesses, the risk of cyber threats is even worse. Employees might bring personal devices to work, access company systems from home networks, or install new software without fully understanding the associated risks. When you combine these actions with unclear company IT policies that aren't enforced, the risk of costly damage increases.

Another common mistake made during this time of year is assuming new devices are secure right out of the box. In reality, default configurations are designed for ease of use, not protection. Hackers actively scan for devices that haven't been updated, properly configured or monitored. Once inside a system, they can access sensitive information, disrupt operations or steal identities, sometimes without immediate detection.

The good news? Taking a few proactive steps can significantly reduce your risk. Owners of new devices can follow setup prompts that allow them to customize security settings, or they can manually perform these actions:

- Accept and install operating system updates, firmware patches, and security software before syncing accounts or storing sensitive information.

- Change default usernames, passwords, and avoid reusing credentials across different platforms.

- Enable multi-factor authentication (MFA) whenever possible—it's one of the most effective ways to prevent unauthorized access.

Network security is also important. Wi-Fi networks should be protected with passwords, encrypted, and kept separate from guest access. Businesses should review access permissions, especially after staff changes or role transitions that often occur at the beginning of the year.

Incorporating these small habits can make the difference between a smooth new year and a resource-draining breach.

Bit-Wizards encourages you to use this to set the tone for the year. Just as you would with your budget or health, incorporate healthy cyber practices into your new year's routine to protect your devices, data and peace of mind.

For more information on how businesses can protect new devices and reduce cybersecurity risks this year, visit Bit-Wizards at <https://bitwizards.com/managed-it-services>.

A Pastor's Ponderings: The Military's Moral Battle and the Chaplaincy at 250

BY PASTOR DOUG STAUFFER

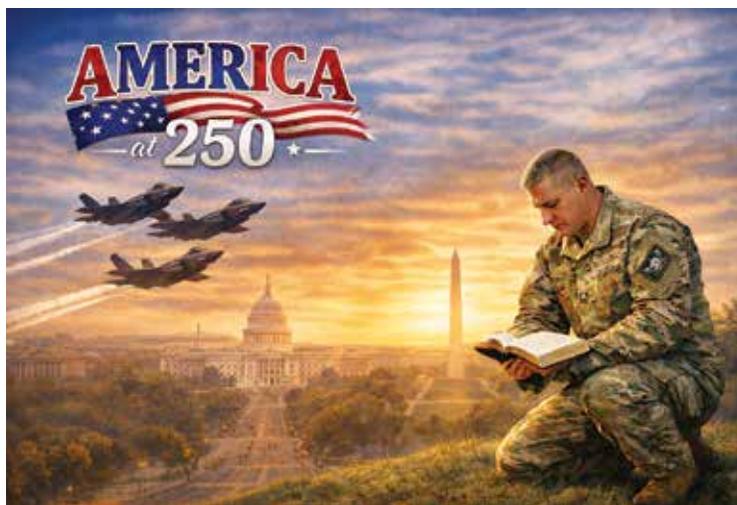

Since the founding of the United States, military power has encompassed more than troops, weaponry or tactics. The founders believed that without virtue, armies would fail—and that faith was the foundation of virtue. For that reason, chaplains were not treated as optional morale officers or psychological aides, but as guardians of conscience, discipline and spiritual endurance.

During the Revolutionary War, the Continental Army formally appointed chaplains to preach, pray and encourage the troops. General George Washington ordered regular divine services, assigned chaplains to brigades and expected officers to attend public worship. Washington understood that soldiers unmoored from moral restraint, would eventually lose cohesion, courage and honor. Congress echoed this belief by proclaiming national days of prayer, fasting and thanksgiving, openly acknowledging that victory ultimately comes from Almighty God—not merely from military calculation.

That founding conviction stands in stark contrast to the military culture of recent years. While the armed forces must remain apolitical, they cannot afford to be morally indifferent. In recent years, immorality—sexual misconduct, abuse of authority, ethical compromise—has ended countless military careers and undermined unit readiness. Even with the most advanced technology in the world, a fighting force can still cripple itself from within when discipline and virtue erode.

The redefinition of chaplaincy by past administrations reflected this tension. Increasingly, chaplains were pressured to serve primarily as general counselors, therapeutic listeners or emotional support specialists—often stripped of their theological anchor. While mental health care is essential, the chaplain's unique role has always been spiritual leadership grounded in faith. When faith is reduced to feelings and conscience is replaced by compliance, moral clarity suffers.

Predictably, whenever spiritual leadership becomes visible—especially in official settings, such as prayer—critics raise alarms about coercion or impropriety. Yet the Founders did not believe faith threatened liberty. They believed it restrained power. Washington warned that armies without virtue become instruments of tyranny rather than guardians of freedom.

The question is not whether soldiers of diverse beliefs deserve care—they do. The question is whether chaplaincy should be stripped of its spiritual core to satisfy modern secular sensibilities. History suggests otherwise. Moral relativism does not strengthen armies; it weakens them. Discipline does not flourish where virtue is optional.

This concern extended beyond Washington. During his presidency, John Adams called the nation to fasting and repentance, urging Americans to “call to remembrance our own sins, and implore the forgiveness of Heaven.” Adams understood what modern America often forgets: political and institutional crises often reflect deeper spiritual decay.

As America approaches her 250th year, the military's challenge is not merely to remain lethal—but to remain just. We must fight effectively, yes. But we must also ensure we are not undermined by immorality that undermines readiness, corrodes trust and dishonors service.

The God who heard the prayers of the Continental Army has not changed. His arm is not shortened. He still calls nations—and institutions—to humility, repentance and righteousness. The question is not whether God remains faithful. The question is whether we will return to the moral foundations that once made our armed forces strong.

 Musing

Sean of the South: Funny Valentine

BY SEAN DIETRICH

It was a Wednesday. I know this because on Wednesdays the Baptist church had family suppers.

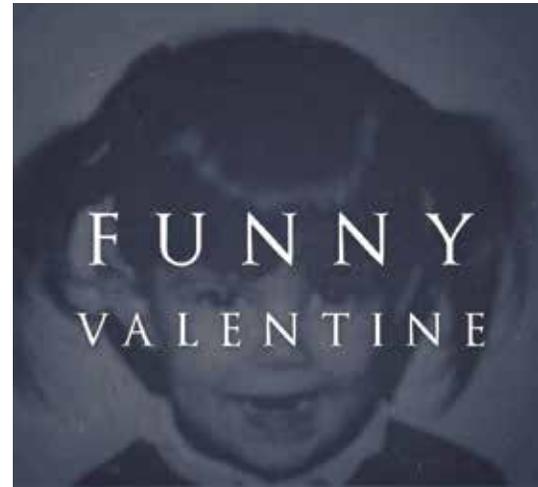

And although I wasn't exactly a faithful Sunday churchgoer, I was a devout mid-week supper-eater.

That night, I stood in line behind a girl, holding my plate. She was funny. She had so much personality she hummed like a neon light.

Later, I sat beside her during service. That week, there was an out-of-town preacher. The kind with big hair, sweat rags, and nice shoes. He invited people to walk the aisle to get born again.

My pal, Craig—who lost his religion every football season—recommitted for his thirtieth time. He said he felt something run. The miles of pines made her more chatty. She propped her feet on my dashboard and let the words roll.

She talked about things. About how she saw the world, about her favorite kind of mustard, about religion, and the proper way to eat fried chicken.

in the air that night.

I did too.

When service let out, the girl wasn't ready to go home. Neither was I. So, I suggested we drive. She liked the idea—though I'll never know why.

I pointed my vehicle east, we headed for nowhere, traveling as slow as my engine would

I gave one-syllable responses because I didn't want to interrupt. She had a voice that sounded like Escambia County in June.

By the time we landed in Port Saint Joe, her one-sided conversation had faded to a stop. I looked at her. She was sleeping.

So, I pulled into a gas station and got lukewarm coffee.

On the ride back, I thought long and hard. Not just about the sleeping girl, but about how I'd gotten a late start in life. And about how my childhood was a pitiful one.

So pathetic, in fact, it embarrassed me to talk about—kind of like I'm doing now.

When my father died, he left a shadow on me, one I didn't think would ever lift.

But that night, something did lift. I was someone else. I was the me I'd always known I should've been. Not the quiet young man who was too serious for baseball.

This girl. She'd done it to me without even trying. And even if I never saw her again, I was grateful for her.

When I arrived at her house, it was three in the morning. I walked her to the door. I hugged her and whispered, "Maybe I'll see you again, sometime."

She said, "What'n the hell's maybe? 'Course we'll see each other, dummy."

Every good thing in my life can be traced back to that night—the evening I became who I am. With her I have everything. Without her I'm a blind man.

That was the Wednesday I got born again.

Museum Series: Destin's History and Fishing Museum

BY BARBARA PALMGREN

Several years ago, I began teaching a class for the Center for Lifelong Learning at the UWF Emerald Coast Campus. This non-profit organization offers adult classes designed to provide unique learning experiences. Classes are scheduled in the fall and winter semester over an eight-week period. I usually offer my class one semester a year in the winter semester.

My class, titled "The Museum Trail," is a weekly visit to one of our county museums. Following the museum visit, the class might enjoy lunch at a local restaurant. I value keeping things local. So, we might have a delicious lunch overlooking the water at Dewey Destin's original restaurant on Calhoun Avenue. Not that this is a lunch and learn experience, but it could be. During winter term, visitors might see their first pelican perched on a piling on Dewey's dock.

Focused now on learning about the first museum in this new series, let's enter the Destin History and Fishing Museum at 108 Stahlman Ave. close to Highway 98 and open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Ticket prices are Adults $10, Military and First Responders $9, Seniors $8, Students $5 and 5 and under are free. The museum features the history of what used to be a sleepy fishing village in the 1830's to the tourist attraction it is today.

Is Destin truly the "Luckiest Fishing Village in the World?" You might agree after visiting the museum and wandering into a large room to view movies and a huge scoreboard of competitors prize catches for the Destin Fishing Rodeo fall competition. One can be mesmerized and get "hooked" on fishing just by viewing all the fish caught during October each year.

But, is luck the reason for Destin's success? There is rich history that began this story and the museum honors and exhibits that history. Books, manuscripts, photographs, exhibits and artifacts educate the community and visitors. The museum opened in 2005 close to the foot of the Destin Bridge and directly across from the Destin Community Center.

Outside the museum is an old sein fishing boat and the original Destin Post Office. Inside is the history of settlers and businesses surrounding an immense wall with examples of fish that can be caught in the Gulf waters. The Mike Long Fish Wall encircles the center of the main room and is the centerpiece of the museum. Yes, there are 25 sharks or parts of sharks throughout the museums. But, don't worry about the shark with a large open mouth; he is no longer a predatory danger for tourists! Interactive touch screens and friendly volunteers and staff help visitors learn more.

I met Kathy Marler Blue, former Museum Director and a member of one of Destin's founding families in 2017. Together we worked with several other museums to form the Greater Okaloosa Museum Coalition. When Kathy retired in 2021, she passed her responsibilities to Vivienne Williams. Vivienne earned a Master's Degree in Public History from the University of West Florida. A lifelong Florida resident, Vivienne learned about museums first hand with an Internship at the Mystic Seaport Museum in Mystic, Conn.

No, Vivienne did not trade Mystic Pizza for Destin's seafood, because her love of the white Destin sands would always win. Don't believe me? Vivienne's favorite exhibit or place in the museum is the front exhibit room where visitors learn about what makes Destin so special. And, yes, one of those reasons is that famous white sand.

Acclaimed pianist Ying Li takes the stage as Sinfonia Gulf Coast celebrates 20 years of redefining the symphony experience

BY ZANDRA WOLFGRAM

As Sinfonia Gulf Coast celebrates its 20th anniversary season, each concert offers an opportunity to reflect on the artistry, ambition and sense of discovery that have defined the orchestra for two decades. On Saturday, Feb. 7, that spirit takes center stage with Classical Connections featuring Ying Li, piano—an evening that brings together timeless masterworks and one of today's most compelling young pianists.

Making her Sinfonia Gulf Coast debut, Ying Li is an artist on a remarkable ascent. Winner of the 2021 Young Concert Artists Susan Wadsworth International Auditions, Li has quickly earned international recognition for performances that combine technical brilliance with expressive depth. She has appeared as a soloist with major orchestras across the United States and Europe, including The Philadelphia Orchestra, Minnesota Orchestra, Kansas City Symphony and Orlando Philharmonic, and has been praised for her ability to bring clarity, warmth and emotional insight to the music she performs.

At the heart of the program is Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23 in A major, K. 488, one of the composer's most beloved works. Graceful, luminous and deeply expressive, the concerto showcases Mozart's nia Gulf Coast orchestra brings these masterworks to life at Destin High School at 7:30 p.m. The evening is not only a celebration of great music, but also a reflection of Sinfonia's mission over the past 20 years: to entertain, educate and inspire through exceptional live performances.

Ticket purchases do more than support the concert experience itself. Proceeds from Sinfonia Gulf Coast performances help fund the organization's expansive music education and outreach initiatives, which reach more than gift for melody while allowing the pianist to shine as both soloist and collaborator. The work's radiant outer movements frame a slow movement of striking intimacy—music that invites listeners into a moment of reflection and quiet beauty.

The program also includes Ludwig van Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C major, Op. 21, a piece that marks the composer's confident arrival as a symphonist. While rooted in classical tradition, the symphony hints at the bold originality that would soon reshape the musical landscape. Together, these works create a program that bridges elegance and innovation—perfectly aligned with the spirit of Sinfonia's Classical Connections series.

Led by Music Director Demetrius Fuller, the Sinfonia

250,000 children across Northwest Florida through programs such as Sinfonia Guest Artists in the Schools, youth orchestras, after-school strings instruction and partnerships with Carnegie Hall's Weill Institute of Music.

Whether you are a longtime classical music lover or attending your first symphony concert, Classical Connections featuring Ying Li, piano offers a welcoming and meaningful way to experience the power of live orchestral music. With tickets priced at just $35, this concert is an exceptional opportunity to be part of Sinfonia Gulf Coast's milestone season while directly supporting music education in our community.

Tickets are available now at SinfoniaGulfCoast.org or by calling the box office at (850) 460-8800.

Pink, Powerful, Orchestral & Historical!

Crescendo! 2026 Brings Pink Martini to the Stage with Sinfonia Gulf Coast

Crescendo! 2026 is set to strike a bold new chord as Pink Martini joins forces with Sinfonia Gulf Coast for a one-of-a-kind live orchestral performance — a first in the history of the beloved annual fundraiser.

The Crescendo! Signature Main Event takes place Sunday, March 1, at 3 p.m. in the Magnolia Ballroom at Sandestin Golf and Beach Resort. The afternoon promises a milestone moment for the region's arts scene, marking both the first time Sinfonia Gulf Coast has performed live at Crescendo! and what is believed to be the first full professional orchestra ever staged in the Magnolia Ballroom.

Internationally acclaimed and delightfully genre-defying, Pink Martini has spent more than 30 years captivating audiences around the world. Often described as a “little orchestra,” the ensemble blends classical, jazz, Latin, and vintage pop into concerts that feel equal parts elegant and exuberant. Performing in more than 25 languages, Pink Martini's shows are joyful, theatrical celebrations that invite audiences of all ages to join the party.

Founded by pianist Thomas Lauderdale, the group is frequently fronted by powerhouse vocalist Storm Large, whose bold, genre-crossing style and dramatic stage presence have earned worldwide acclaim. Pink Martini has performed at legendary venues including Carnegie Hall, the Hollywood Bowl, Royal Albert Hall, and the Sydney Opera House, consistently praised for glamorous arrangements, impeccable musicianship, and an infectious sense of fun. Paired with the lush sound of the full Sinfonia Gulf Coast orchestra, this Crescendo! performance promises a musical experience that is sophisticated, surprising, and irresistibly entertaining.

As part of Sinfonia Gulf Coast's 20th anniversary season, Crescendo! 2026 elevates the gala tradition to new heights. Guests will enjoy reserved table seating, passed hors d'oeuvres, an elegant seated late lunch, curated wines and spirits, exciting auction offerings, and an all-inclusive afternoon of music, food, and celebration — all in support of Sinfonia's mission to inspire, educate, and connect the community through music.

Adding to the fun, guests are encouraged to dress to theme in emerald and pink. Emerald represents growth and renewal, honoring Sinfonia Gulf Coast's two decades of artistic impact, while pink offers a playful nod to the afternoon's special guest artists.

“Crescendo! is unlike any other event we produce,” says Sinfonia Gulf Coast Music & Artistic Director Demetrius Fuller. “Bringing Pink Martini together with our full orchestra for the first time at Crescendo!

— perfectly captures the bold, celebratory spirit of our 20th anniversary while directly supporting the education and outreach programs at the heart of our mission.”

Tickets are on sale now. Crescendo! Main Event tickets are $250 per person and include the reception, lunch, wine, gratuity, and live entertainment. Tables seating 10 are available by reservation.

Proceeds from Crescendo! benefit Sinfonia Gulf Coast's extensive music education and community engagement initiatives across Northwest Florida, including musicians and guest artists in schools, free orchestra concerts, student transportation, the Sinfonia Youth Orchestra, Link Up concerts in partnership with Carnegie Hall, Paint the Music (with Mattie Kelly Arts Foundation), Arts in Medicine with Sacred Heart Hospital, and more.

Those looking to take their support a step further are invited to become “Treble Makers,” an honorary committee celebrating Sinfonia's mission. For a $650 contribution, Treble Makers receive one ticket to the Crescendo! Kick Off Lunch and Main Event, recognition in the event program, reserved seating at closed-to-the-public Link Up student performances on March 11, 2026, at the Destin-Fort Walton Beach Convention Center, invitations to private events, a special Treble Maker gift, and additional benefits.

Oklahoma! By Rodgers and Hammerstein

The Choctaw Bay Music Club of Niceville invites you to the Virtuoso Voices Valentines 22nd Annual Scholarship Fundraiser Lunch on Saturday, February 14th, at Crosspoint Church, 214 Partin Dr. South, Niceville, in the Fellowship Hall beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Virtuoso Voices Scholarship Fundraiser along with the Jan Miller Studio Artists of the Pensacola Opera will present an engaging theatrical show by their talented artists in residency with professional singing and acting for most all ages to enjoy. The money raised is for the worthy cause of supporting local, upcoming, musically talented youth in their endeavors to develop into fine musicians.

Along with a delicious lunch, Virtuoso Voices is fun filled with attention grabbing singing, drama, laughter, live music, comedy and emotion, to lift your heart and spirit. The artists in residence share the storyline behind each song to actively engage the listener before they perform. Last year, approximately $10,000 was awarded to deserving students for college, high school senior awards and summer music camp scholarships.

This years' theme centers around the musical "Oklahoma" by Rodgers and Hammerstein. The musical takes place during the days of the American wild west. It follows the blossoming love story between a farm girl (Laurey) and charming cowboy (Curly) as they navigate rival suitors and the challenges of frontier life. Two memorable songs from this musical are "Oh, what a beautiful Mornin'" and "Oklahoma!" The Studio Artists will be singing and acting out songs from this musical and others.

A fun raffle will be held during the first part of the event and winners are announced/ presented towards the end. Local businesses and private donors contribute a variety of raffle items such as gift cards, wine, fine chocolates, artwork, interior decor and event tickets. Raffle tickets will be for sale (bring cash or check) during the luncheon.

This is a fun way to celebrate Valentine's Day! Bring your partner or friend, and make new friends at Virtuoso Voices for an exceptional experience of theatre, singing, food and fun that's designed for all ages to enjoy as you support local, young, aspiring musicians.

Tickets must be purchased in advance and are $40 for adults and $25 for students. To purchase, contact Phillip LeGrand at 850.527.4200 or online at www.EventBrite.com. For more information, visit the events tab at www.ChoctawBayMusicClub.org.
